POEMS YOU OUGHT TO KNOW.

Whatever your occupation may be, and however crowded your hours with affairs, do not fail to secure at least a few minutes every day for refreshment of your inner life with a bit of poetry.—Prof. Charles Eliot Norton.

OLD DOG TRAY.
BY STEPHEN COLLINS FOSTER.

Stephen Collins Foster's songs are still great favorites with many people, old and young, and "Old Dog Tray" is evidently one of his numerous poems that have not been forgotten, for it has frequently been requested for the "Poems You Ought to Know" corner. Over 100,000 copies of this song were sold within a year.

The morn of life is past,
And ev'ning comes at last;
It brings me a dream of a once happy day,
Of merry forms I've seen
Upon the village green,
Sporting with my old dog Tray.
Old dog Tray's ever faithful,
Grief cannot drive him away;
He's gentle, he is kind;
I'll never, never find
A better friend than old dog Tray.

The forms I called my own
Have vanished one by one;
The lov'd ones, the dear ones, have all passed away;
Their happy smiles have flown;
Their gentle voices gone;
Old dog Tray's ever faithful,
Grief cannot drive him away;
He's gentle, he is kind;
I'll never, never find
A better friend than old dog Tray.

When thoughts recall the past
His eyes are on me cast;
I know that he feels what my breaking heart would say,
Although he cannot speak,
I'll vainly, vainly seek
A better friend than old dog Tray.
Old dog Tray's ever faithful,
Grief cannot drive him away;
He's gentle, he is kind;
I'll never, never find
A better friend than old dog Tray.

ALLISON OFTEN NEAR TO CABINET

Iowa Senator Has Four Times Refused Portfolios Offered to Him by Three Presidents.

HOLDS A UNIQUE RECORD.

Three Times Asked to Head the Treasury and Once Asked to Become Secretary of State.

SENATOR ALLISON—Senior member of upper house, has three times been offered position of secretary of the treasury and once that of secretary of state.

BLACK BASS—Fish commission has just issued interesting pamphlet giving results of study and observation during last nine seasons.

[BY RAYMOND.]

Washington, D. C., March 22.—[Special.]—Senator Spooner's announcement in his biography prepared for the congressional directory that President McKinley had twice offered him a place in the cabinet, first as secretary of the interior and then as attorney general, recalls the fact that there is another senator who was offered a cabinet position on three different occasions, and by all the last three regularly elected republican presidents.

This information does not appear in the congressional directory, but I feel justified in giving details of the story because they were supplied to me some time ago and did not come, as a matter of course, from Senator William B. Allison, who is the statesman whose record in this regard is so extraordinary. Garfield, Harrison, and McKinley all sought to have Allison with them at the council board, and in each case the Iowa senator was consulted with the utmost freedom in regard to the cabinet, and in each case, also, his advice was listened to.

It is a remarkable fact that in the election of every republican president for twenty years Senator Allison has been in a position to urge the appointment of an Iowa man for a cabinet place and to be received at once with an immediate and persistent demand for his own services. Three times has Senator Allison declined to become secretary of the treasury, and once he declined the position of secretary of state as well, so he has the record of having refused four cabinet positions.

When James A. Garfield was elected president in 1880 he began at once to consult Senator Allison, and when the Iowa leader visited the president-elect at Mentor he was notified that his own services would be required in the cabinet.

Garfield had trouble in getting his cabinet together to suit him, and the whole thing was open when he reached Washington just before his inauguration. He had selected Windom for the interior department and Allison for the treasury. Notification of this was delivered to the Iowa senator only a few days before the inauguration. After a careful but necessarily brief consideration of the offer it was declined, largely because of the fact that Allison had been pressing Kirkwood, then his colleague in the senate, for the position of secretary of the interior.

When the decision was made it was late in the evening of March 3, and on the morning of the inauguration day President Garfield changed his cabinet plans, put Windom in the treasury, where he made a great success, and appointed Kirkwood, Allison's colleague, as secretary of the interior.

Years rolled by and Garfield was shot by Guiteau, Blaine and Logan were beaten at the polls, Cleveland served for four years, and Harrison was elected in 1888. All this time Allison was still a senator from Iowa, and he is still today. For six years he had served in the senate with the president-elect, and so it was only natural that Allison and Henderson should stop off at Indianapolis on the way home during the Christmas holiday to urge Gen. Harrison to appoint "Ret" Clarkson as postmaster general.

This Harrison declined to do because he had already promised the place to Wanamaker. He was, however, exceedingly cordial to the two Iowa men. A month or so later a letter came to Washington offering Allison the position of secretary of the treasury and asking for a personal interview before there should be any question of declining.

In response to this request Senator Allison went to Indianapolis and visited Gen. Harrison at his house, and for the second time declined the treasury portfolio. Gen. Clarkson, it may be noted, did not get into the cabinet, but he did become assistant postmaster general.

Gen. Harrison was defeated, and Cleveland served for four years more in the White house. Then the sensational campaign of 1896 was fought to a finish, and William B. Allison was still a senator from Iowa when William McKinley was triumphantly elected in November. When congress met a month later Allison's familiar seat at the head of the table of the committee on appropriations was vacant, and the Iowa senator lay ill in his home in Dubuque. He did not reach Washington until some time in January, and on his way here stopped at Canton at the request of McKinley.

In the familiar cottage, which has since become so famous, the president-elect again offered the time worn treasury portfolio to the distinguished senator from Iowa. Again it was declined, but at the same time President-elect McKinley, with great earnestness, offered to Senator Allison the position of secretary of state in the new administration and even offered him his choice between the two places.

Mr. Allison had just been reelected for six years more in the senate, so that he put behind him the flattering offer. Thereupon the president-elect announced that John Sherman was to go into the cabinet, that he had a superabundance of material for both the department of justice and the war department, but there was great difficulty in finding a proper man to put at the head of the department of agriculture. Thereupon the Iowa senator suggested the present secretary of agriculture, James Wilson, then at the head of the Iowa experiment station. McKinley at once accepted the suggestion and Wilson rounded out the cabinet list.

Thus the record was completed, and as made up in political history the story will go that Senator Allison of Iowa was offered the position of secretary of the treasury

EX-SUITOR SHOOTS BRIDE.

REJECTED MAN WOUNDS YOUNG WOMAN ON WEDDING DAY.

Pushing His Way Through Throng of Friends Who Are Extending Congratulations, Benjamin Valerio Fires Four Times at Mrs. Joseph Malone—Angry Crowd Jumps on the Man and He May Die from the Injuries Received at Hands of the Mob.

A romance that began in a Calabrian village ended yesterday in the Italian quarter by the revengeful shooting of a bride by her jilted lover.

Under cover of a national marriage custom observed at the wedding reception the jealous man reached the side of the girl who had once promised to be his wife, and there, drawing a revolver, he fired four shots at her.

One of the shots took effect, wounding the young woman in the arm, while another struck a guest. Then the wedding party turned into an angry mob that pitched upon the would-be assassin and beat him into insensibility. The police interfered, but the man may not recover.

The reception was held at 107 De Koven street and followed the wedding of Joseph Malone and Rachele Malone, both Italians, but unrelated. Following a custom of the Calabrian fatherland, the guests crowded about the young bride, each pressing a coin or other token into her hand before taking their leave.

Bullets a Marriage Greeting.

In the midst of the gayety a roughly dressed man entered briskly and pushed his way through the throng The bride turned and recognized in the stranger Benjamin Valerio, to whom she had been betrothed when she left Italy. Suspecting nothing, she put out her hand in greeting, and Valerio made a gesture as if to drop a coin into her palm. Then suddenly he drew his revolver and fired.

The first shot missed her, and he fired three more times One bullet struck her in the right arm between the elbow and wrist. The groom grappled with Valerio and tried to pin his arms to his side. Valerio fired once more wildly and the bullet struck Michael Manone, who fell.

Crowd Beats Valerio.

Then Valerio went to the floor under a whirlwind rush of the Italians. The enraged men, scarcely waiting to see the extent of the bride's, or Manone's injuries, jumped on their fallen countryman and pounded and kicked him in spite of the protests of Malone and his wife.

When the police arrived Valerio was unconscious. He was taken to the County hospital, where it was found his skull had been fractured and that his body was a mass of cuts and bruises. Other ambulances took the bride and Manone to the hospital. Mrs. Malone's injury was soon dressed. Manone's wound was in the foot and not serious.

Plight Troth in Italy.

Valerio lived up to three years ago near Naples, Italy. In the same town lived Miss Malone. She was then 15 years old. The two plighted their troth and Valerio left for America. The girl was to follow when he had earned enough money. The girl's father, Angelo Malone, and his son also came to this country and settled in Chicago.

Three months ago Valerio had saved enough money to marry and he sent $50 to Italy. Miss Malone then came to Chicago, and went to live with her father at 156 West Taylor street. Then came Joseph Malone, a quarrel between the girl and Valerio, and the engagement was broken. Angelo Malone, the father, returned to Valerio the money he had paid for the girl's passage.

Joseph Malone pressed his attentions and was successful in his suit. The wedding was performed at noon at the church of the Holy Guardian Angel, 178 Forquer street.

ALLEGED 'PEEPER' PREACHES: DENIES CHARGES OF COEDS.

Gustav Tuppen, Arrested on Complaint of Girl Students, Occupies Pulpit in Swedish Church.

With a charge of being a "peeper" hanging over his head, Gustav Tuppen occupied the pulpit of the Second Swedish Methodist church yesterday and preached on the theme: "Jesus the Same Today and Forever." Today he will appear in court to answer the charges of a number of Northwestern university coeds who say he spied on them late at night in their dormitory.

Mr. Tuppen is a student of the Swedish Theological seminary, which is affiliated with Northwestern. He denies that he is a "peeper" or that he is guilty of any wrong doing. In his sermon yesterday he made no reference to the charges that have been made against him, but when seen last night he said:

"My arrest was due to an unfortunate combination of circumstances. I had no thought of attempting to spy on the girls. I had escorted home to Evanston two young women who had attended a sewing circle meeting near the Swedish seminary, and as I passed Pearson hall I was arrested."

CLAIM TO HAVE JACK THE RIPPER

London Police Said to Have Evidence That George Chapman, Under Sentence, Is the Criminal.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, March 23, 3 a. m.—A story is printed here stating that the police have discovered a quantity of circumstantial evidence tending to prove that George Chapman, who was convicted of murder last Thursday and sentenced to death, is really a Pole named Klosowski, and that he is identical with "Jack the Ripper," the mysterious and untraceable perpetrator of the revolting murders in the Whitechapel district in 1888.

A part of the evidence is comprised in the discovery that Klosowski soon after the Whitechapel atrocities ceased went to Jersey City and opened two barber shops, his residence there being contemporaneous with the "Ripper" murders in that city.

It is stated that Klosowski's real wife has informed the police since her husband's trial that he, after a quarrel, had tried to murder her in a bedroom back of the barber shop in Jersey City.

ROOSEVELT ASKS FOR LIGHT.

Writes to Indignant Woman Telling How He Spends Sunday and Wants to Know What Is Wrong.

Washington, D. C., March 22.—[Special.]—In reply to a woman who wrote to him, making an indignant protest against the godless spirit rampant in Washington, as shown in the disregard for the Sabbath and reproving him for his supposed part in it, President Roosevelt has written this letter:

"Madame: Sunday mornings I go to church. In the afternoons I go riding or driving with my family. The evenings I spend at home with my family. To which of these pastimes do you object?

THEODORE ROOSEVELT."

TRAVEL AT HIGH SPEED.

Bicyclists Contest Right of Way with Machine, Then Throw Stones at the Chauffeur and Party.

With a Sunday of sunshine and springlike temperature, the automobile resumed its reckless speed on the boulevards and shore drives yesterday and left an injured woman and wrecked vehicles in its wake.

Only one chauffeur was arrested, and he is charged only with fast driving, while two bicyclists who had presumed to contest the right of way with a "terror of the road" were run down by the police.

The men who caused injury and property damage escaped. Their machines were unnumbered and there was no way to identify them. Leaving frightened horses behind them to endanger lives of driving parties, the chauffeurs kept on their course and were soon lost to sight.

Day's Victims of Autos.

Following is a summary of the day's results of the spring advent of the horseless machine:

Mrs. James Maloney, 1204 Sheridan road, Evanston, thrown from a trap, after horse had taken fright and ran away; right arm broken and severely bruised.

Squad of bicyclists, compelled to dismount near Calvary to allow automobile to pass on a narrow street, threw stones at the occupants of the car; two of the wheelmen arrested.

Horse attached to buggy belonging to Dr. Edward H. Webster of Evanston frightened by automobile, ran away, and vehicle demolished.

Milk wagon dashed to pieces against lamp post when the horse became frightened and unmanageable; driver not injured.

Team attached to a carriage occupied by four people runs away in Sheridan road, near Glencoe; reported to Mayor James H. Dennis.

Complaints made to officials of Evanston, Winnetka, Glencoe, and Highland Park that speed ordinances have been violated and towns prepare to move against the offenders.

George H. Meiser, 1044 West Fifty-fourth place, arrested by Hyde Park police at Forty-seventh street and Drexel boulevard; charged with violating speed ordinance; released on bonds.

Woman Hurled from Vehicle.

The injury to Mrs. Maloney was the most serious result of the opening day. While the lines were tangled in the harness an auto whizzed by, and the horse began to run. Mrs. Maloney was unable to control it, and in turning in Ridge avenue, at Main street, in Evanston, the trap was overturned and the driver thrown to the pavement.

Mrs. Maloney was carried into the residence of Father Bierman of St. Nicholas' Roman Catholic church. After the broken arm had been set and the bruises attended to she was taken to her home.

Bicyclists Show Fight.

The clash of the chauffeur and bicylists came shortly after noon, and numerous dents on the body of the machine attested to its earnestness. The automobile was occupied by John A. Reade Jr., 350 Fullerton avenue; Charles F. Bristman, 5306 Indiana avenue; and their wives. They had started north from Chicago for a spin in Sheridan road, and encountered the bicyclists near the entrance to Calvary cemetery. Only a part of the road was passable.

The chauffeur showed no indication of an intention to turn out, and the six bicyclists had to dismount or be run over. As the auto whizzed by, the boys hurled a shower of stones at it and used some strong language.

"We'll show you that you can't run over people and take the whole road," one of them shouted.

Chase After Wheelmen.

Then they mounted their wheels and followed the machine, stopping when they approached it to throw more stones and indulge in more strong language. At Grove street, in Evanston, they turned back.

Reade drove to the Evanston police station, and, leaving Mrs. Reade and Mrs. Bristman there, took two policemen in the auto and began a chase of the bicyclists, which continued to Rogers Park. Here the auto broke down, while the boys kept on south.

As soon as the machine was repaired the policemen renewed the pursuit, and found the squad in a saloon at Devon and Evanston avenues. Carl Koepp, 129 Mohawk street, and Joseph Spiegelhauer, 210 Casper street, were arrested and taken to the Evanston police station, where they were charged with disorderly conduct.

"We kept to the right side of the road," Reade said, "and it was not our fault if the other side was impassable."

The trouble did not extend farther north than Fort Sheridan, as the mud there made further progress impossible. A dozen autos were mired during the day, and the chauffeurs called soldiers to their aid in extricating the machines.

Speeding on Boulevards.

On the south and west sides of this city the parks and boulevards were alive with automobiles, and a high rate of speed was maintained.

"We give them some leeway," an official of the Humboldt park police said, "for it is the first chance they have had for months. There has been some sprinting and speeding, but we recognize the automobilists are supercharged with enthusiasm and must work it off."

WILD RIDE IN BOULEVARD: TWO PERSONS ARE INJURED.

Runaway Crashes Into a Tree and Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Payne of the Chicago Beach Hotel Thrown from Buggy.

After a wild ride behind a runaway horse through a crowded portion of Garfield boulevard yesterday Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Payne of the Chicago Beach hotel were thrown out of their vehicle and injured.

Mr. Payne, who is a mine owner in Jales county, Mexico, was bruised, while his wife was injured in the back and made unconscious. Mrs. Payne was carried into a drug store and revived, and with her husband later was driven to the Chicago Beach hotel.

The horse was frightened by a locomotive near Wentworth avenue, and when Mr. Payne threw his strength on the reins a ring in the bit parted. Unable to control the horse he guided it toward the grass plat in the boulevard.

NEW MAN IN SUBTREASURY

WILLIAM P. WILLIAMS MARKED FOR REMOVAL.

Lyman T. Hoy of Woodstock, Ill., Is Chosen as Head of Chicago Office—President Said to Be Dissatisfied with Business Methods of Present Official—Irregularities Kept Secret in Hope of Recovering Losses—Result of Inquiry.

Washington, D. C., March 22.—[Special.]—Lyman T. Hoy of Woodstock, Ill., will be appointed by President Roosevelt within the next few days to be assistant United States treasurer at Chicago to succeed William P. Williams, who will be removed.

Senators Cullom and Hopkins have agreed upon the appointment of Hoy and the president has determined to remove Williams after an investigation of a number of charges against the present incumbent. For some time there has been considerable dissatisfaction over the conduct of affairs in the Chicago subtreasury. It is charged that sound business methods are not practiced there. It is also charged that several defalcations have happened in the office and that the books have been falsified.

Defalcations in Office.

The government has not lost money by reason of these conditions, and no one believes there has been any dishonesty on the part of the subtreasurer. Some time ago there was a defalcation amounting to $600 and this was covered up by patching the books so as to make it appear there was no shortage. The books were kept in this condition for some time in hope the defaulters, who were discharged, would make good the amount. This was finally done by the subtreasurer.

These facts were developed in an investigation made by John E. Wilkie, chief of the treasury secret service. There was also a shortage in accounts due to the acceptance of light weight coins, but this has been made good. After the investigation was made and the facts laid before President Roosevelt he decided instantly that Williams must be removed, as the president did not like the idea of having the books in a subtreasury kept in such a manner as not to disclose the true condition of affairs. He was also displeased because the facts had been concealed.

Hoy Active in Politics.

Hoy, who will be the new subtreasurer, was on the state central committee, and during the last senatorial contest did a great deal of work in the interest of Senator Hopkins. Hoy was a member of the Tanner administration. He conducts a drug business at Woodstock.

Mr. Williams said last night he had no intention of offering his resignation, but further than that he declined to discuss the matter.

WOMAN ATTEMPTS SUICIDE TO AVOID BEING ARRESTED.

Accused of Robbing Landlady, Mrs. Lottie Sauer Swallows Poison as Detectives Come to Take Her in Custody.

Rather than submit to arrest on the charge of larceny, Mrs. Lottie Sauer, whose name figured in a recent police case in which her husband was the defendant, swallowed poison last night just as two detectives were about to take her in custody. She was taken to the Baptist hospital, where it was said she would recover.

Mrs. Clara Smith, 8244 Wabash avenue, with whom Mrs. Sauer lived, missed $65 yesterday, and accused Mrs. Sauer of taking the money.

Mrs. Sauer denied the charge and invited her accuser to make a search. Mrs. Smith was unable to find the money, but when Detectives Cody and Kelly arrived they discovered it hidden on the window ledge.

"You'll not deny your guilt now, will you?" cried Mrs. Smith, and Mrs. Sauer's answer was to seize two tablets and place them in her mouth. A moment later she was in convulsions.

Mrs. Sauer's husband, Frank Sauer, was arrested a month ago on information furnished by a woman who had advertised for a manager for a hotel. Sauer was sent to the bridewell.

MEN FIGHT A RIFLE DUEL; VAIN APPEAL TO POLICE.

Conductor Reports a Battle in Stickney and Says That a Crowd Was Watching Combatants—Outcome in Doubt.

Two men firing at each other with rifles was what Conductor Thomas Kennedy of the Chicago Junction railway saw in Stickney last evening as he passed through on a freight train.

When his train reached Chappell he reported to the operator and the city police were asked to send a wagon and arrest the men. The police declined, as Stickney is out of their jurisdiction.

Kennedy said that one of the men engaged in the fight was standing in a box car and the other in the door of a cottage. A number of women and children, evidently relatives of one of the combatants, were running around screaming.

WEAR SONGBIRDS IN HAT; LOSE CHANCE OF HEAVEN.

Boston Preacher Closes the Pearly Gates to Woman Who Puts Seagulls on Easter Bonnet.

Boston, Mass., March 22.—Prof. Dallas L. Sharp of Boston university, as preacher at the First Methodist church today, said:

"No woman who wears a seagull or a songbird in her hat can ever get to heaven. If you need an Easter bonnet get it. Wear it to church, for what better place to wear it than to church?

"It is an honor to God and a benediction to the soul to have and see Easter bonnets. Get the bonnets, however, without robbing and killing. Those who rob the lives of the songbird and the bird of beautiful plumage cannot hope for heaven."

BELIEVE DEATH DUE TO POISON.

Investigation of the Demise of Henry L. Janeway Jr. in Boston Shows Use of "Knockout Drops."

Boston, Mass., March 22.—[Special.]—An investigation of the circumstances surrounding the finding of the body of Henry L. Janeway Jr., son of the celebrated New York physician, in the Boston Tavern last Tuesday has led to a belief he was a victim of foul play. The police late tonight said they thought he had been given "knockout" drops, and that these were the cause of his death. The inquiry will be continued in the hope of connecting a man now under arrest with the affair. This man is said to be a well known Chicago criminal.

CASTRO IS ASKED TO KEEP OFFICE.

Venezuelan Congress Unanimously Refuses to Accept the Resignation of the President.

Kaiser's Agents Accused of Plotting With Rebels to Overthrow His Administration.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

CARACAS, March 22.—The Venezuelan congress, by unanimous vote at a special session held last night, refused to accept President Castro's resignation and asked him to reconsider it. At first he refused to withdraw the resignation, but after a conference with personal friends he stated he would send another message to congress next Thursday and suggest a solution to the situation.

Congress was not expected to reassemble until Monday, but the leaders, deciding that prompt action was necessary to meet the political crisis, called a special session last night. The congressional hall was crowded, all the members of the diplomatic corps being present.

Castro Gives His Reasons.

President Castro read his resignation to congress in person. He first passed in review the terrible conditions which prevailed in the country and denounced the errors of his countrymen.

"But," he continued, "if it is painful to consider how much blood has been shed and how many tears, it is a consolation to think that their bitter stream, by the law of compensation, will fecundate something that should correspond to present day aspirations, since every struggle begets an idea and every victorious idea justifies the supposition that an onward step has been taken on the road to human perfection.

"Our victory, citizen legislators, over the great adversities which have just oppressed us must terminate the tumults of our life, otherwise we shall reach a shameful dissolution."

Tells of German Intrigue.

Touching then on the question of the recent foreign intervention, President Castro said it had been brought about by a league of people who, unable to submit their claims to the impartiality of the tribunals, had employed force, and that because he refused to submit to the Anglo-German exactions they, acting in collusion with the revolutionary Gen. Matos, endeavored to get rid of him. In confirmation of this statement President Castro cited a letter written by the commander of the German warship Stosch.

President Castro pointed out that the sovereignty of the nation had been safeguarded, and said:

"I now deliver my abdication, in order that you may proceed legally to call on him who should take my place, so that there may remain to no Venezuelan the slightest pretext for hostility to his country or for connivance with foreigners who, without any ground save force, fell upon unfortunate Venezuela, trampling under foot reason and justice, to the detriment of civilization and right.

"With head uplifted and with a tranquil conscience I return to the efforts of toil with honor and dignity. All the energies and possibilities of my life are at your service should it become necessary to arise and defend our country against the attacks of the foreigners. All the glory I ask is to contemplate Venezuela becoming respected, prosperous and happy."

Congress Declines to Accept.

The president of congress then received President Castro's resignation and a commission was immediately appointed to draw up a reply to the tendered resignation.

Later in the evening a resolution was adopted requesting President Castro to reconsider his resignation in view of the critical condition of the republic, and a vote of confidence in his policy was passed unanimously. A committee was appointed to transmit this resolution to the president today. In view of the reasons for the resignation given in the presidential message, it is believed in political circles that President Castro will retain the presidential office.

Castro May Keep Office.

The delegation of twenty-five members appointed by congress called at noon today at the executive mansion, Miraflores palace, and transmitted to President Castro the resolution unanimously adopted by congress refusing to accept his resignation, and requesting him to reconsider his decision.

President Castro, in reply, declined to change his mind, but, after being urged by his personal friends, he offered to present another message to congress, which he will meet on Thursday, to suggest a solution to the situation.

Regretted in Berlin.

BERLIN, March 22.—The German government had no warning of President Castro's retirement. The feeling in official quarters is rather one of regret than otherwise, because President Castro's resignation creates uncertainty regarding the conditions that were understood during the unfinished negotiations at Washington. A declaration from his successor that the terms of the settlement already reached will be fulfilled is expected here.

The foreign office declines to consider the contingency that the payments under the protocols may be defaulted or the settlement repudiated.

As Viewed in Rome.

ROME, March 22.—Considerable impression was made here, especially at the foreign office, by the news of President Castro's resignation. It is hoped here that Castro's resignation will lead to the pacification of the country, and the belief prevails that his disappearance cannot change either the attitude of the powers toward Venezuela or the engagements entered into by Venezuela through Minister Bowen.

When the pope was informed of the resignation of President Castro by Cardinal Rampolla this morning he exclaimed:

"Let us pray God that this may end the tribulations of our beloved children there."

Creates Surprise in London.

LONDON, March 22.—The news of President Castro's resignation came as a complete surprise here. Until last Saturday afternoon President Castro's tenure of office was taken as a matter of course. In fact, the reported hitches in the negotiations with the powers were privately attributed here to President Castro's endeavoring to make another bid for popular favor.

ENGLAND WANTS COLONIAL HELP.

Growing Demand That All Parts of Empire Shall Aid in Cost of Navy.

LAND BILL IS EXPENSIVE.

Reported That $50,000,000 Will Be Asked for to Pay Off the Owners.

[Copyright: 1903: By the New York Tribune.]
[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, March 23, 3 a. m.—There is undoubtedly a growing demand by the people of this country that the self-governing colonies should bear a larger share of the cost of imperial defense. It is pointed out that, although colonial commerce forms one-fifth of the total trade of the empire, and although the population of the colonies is more than one-fourth that of the united kingdom, yet the colonial contribution towards the cost of the navy is almost nonexistent.

Mr. Arnold-Forster, speaking with authority as secretary to the admiralty, has made it unmistakably clear that the admiralty cannot continue to accept with equanimity the idea that almost the whole burden of supporting the defense of the empire should rest with the united kingdom. His speech has not been repudiated by any member of the cabinet, and the colonies are advised to take the warning to heart.

Colonial View Not Understood.

The British people cannot understand that it is useless to expect the colonies to saddle themselves with debts because of European feuds. The Saturday Review argues as follows:

"Supposing for the moment that Canada were a separate country, she would be forced, especially as her wheat exports increase, to keep a considerable fleet to defend her merchantmen, and yet Sir Wilfrid Laurier maintains that Canada is doing her full duty in imperial defense by building railways, most of which were made possible by English capital."

The real meaning of this and similar arguments is that John Bull, in spite of his broad back, is groaning under an income tax of 15 pence in the pound and is anxious to be relieved of a part of his load.

$50,000,000 for Land Bill.

It is rumored that the Irish land bill will propose an appropriation of $50,000,000 from the imperial exchequer to bridge the difference between what the tenant thinks he can afford to pay and what the landlord deems himself entitled to obtain as purchase money. There is a tremendous demand for tickets to hear the introduction of the bill in the house of commons next Wednesday. All seats for strangers have already been appropriated.

The dissatisfaction prevailing among the liberals with the present uncertainty over the leadership of the party has been intensified by Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman's announcement at Leeds of his determination to stick to the policy of home rule for Ireland. The liberal imperialists object to the renewal of the Irish alliance, and R. W. Perks, the leader of the English nonconformists, advises his nonconformist friends in Chertsey not to vote for Longman, the liberal candidate, who is an avowed follower of Campbell-Bannerman.

The recent elections have been won by liberals to a large extent on the education question, and the nonconformists have not forgotten that the Irish members assisted the government to pass the education act, which they consider unjust and discreditable. It looks much as if Campbell-Bannerman, in fishing for the Irish vote, has helped to widen the breach in his own party. I. N. F.

AMEER DIVORCES HIS WIVES.

Ruler of Afghanistan Decrees That No Man Shall Have More than Four Helpmeets.

[FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TRIBUNE.]

PESHAWUR, India, Feb. 10.—The following advices have been received here from Cabul, capital of Afghanistan:

"The ameer has divorced all his wives except the daughters of Gen. Ameer Mohammed Khan, Shah Gazi Mohammed Sarwar Khan, Kagi Saadudin Khan, and Sirdar Mohammed Ibrahim Khan. The ameer has allowed his divorced wives to remarry at their pleasure, and has informed them that those who do not marry will receive sufficient to support them for life. As far as can be ascertained, he has only retained the above mentioned wives.

"The ameer has also proclaimed by beat of drum that no one of his subjects shall have more than four wives, and that all wives in excess of four shall be divorced. The proclamation adds that any breach of the Mohammedan law in this respect will be severely dealt with.

"Some days ago a meat seller at Cabul abused another man, taunting him on account of his religion. The case was brought before the ameer, who ordered the man to be blown from a cannon. The ameer has proclaimed that any one convicted of a similar offense will be dealt with in the same way.

"The ameer administered summary jurisdiction again lately when four well known robbers who had been captured were brought before him. The ameer ordered them to be put in iron cages and hung up in several prominent thoroughfares as a warning to offenders. The captors were handsomely rewarded.

"The ameer has proclaimed that whoever possesses grain in excess of what is absolutely necessary for the subsistence of his family for four months shall sell it. If this is not done the whole amount will be taken by force."

POPE IS WEAKER EVERY DAY.

Pontiff Not Actually Ill, but He Himself Declares His End Is Near.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

ROME, March 22.—The pope, although not actually ill, has never been well since the coronation ceremony March 3. His strength is declining daily to such a point that he feels exhausted after even a short audience. His mental faculties are wonderfully preserved and he realizes himself the imminence of a sudden change. He makes no secret of the knowledge and has been heard to say, "My race is almost run."

Pope Not Opposed to Federation.

Cincinnati, O., March 22.—William J. D. Croke of Rome, Italy, who has recently been quoted as having stated that the pope is opposed to the Roman Catholic federation movement, has written here that an entirely unjustifiable meaning has been given in several papers to his statement. He says:

"I am not aware that any idea of disapproving the federation movement is entertained and know nothing which indicates that such a measure is likely to be considered."

Anthony Matre, national secretary of the American Federation of Roman Catholic societies, reports that more than half of the archbishops and bishops of the United States have approved the movement, including Pope Leo's direct representative, Archbishop D. Falconio, apostolic delegate of the United States.

Underground 'Phones for Mexico.

Mexico City, March 22.—J. Sitizenstratter of London has signed a contract with the federal government to provide this city with a modern system of underground telephones. The new system also will utilize the federal telegraph wires for long distance service to the remotest parts of the republic.

Spanish Cabinet May Resign.

MADRID, March 22.—Dissensions within the cabinet over the budget still threaten to cause a ministerial crisis. The war minister demands an increase of $3,000,000 in the next budget, of which $1,600,000 is for the army.

DEATH OF DEAN FARRAR.

ENGLAND'S FAMOUS CHURCHMAN AND AUTHOR PASSES AWAY.

Was Well Known Writer of Fiction and Theology, Chaplain to Queen Victoria and the House of Commons, Canon of Westminster Abbey, and Rector of St. Margaret's Church —His Books Have Been Translated Into Nearly Every Modern Tongue.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, March 22.—The Very Rev. Frederic William Farrar, D. D., dean of Canterbury, former chaplain to Queen Victoria and chaplain of the house of commons, died today in his 72d year.

Dean Farrar had long been in delicate health and disabled by creeping paralysis. He latterly had to be carried everywhere and was unable to officiate, although a constant attendant at the Canterbury cathedral services to the last.

He was present at some school sports Saturday afternoon, but passed a restless night. His condition became serious this morning and he expired peacefully at 7 o'clock this evening.

Story of His Career.

Dean Farrar was born on Aug. 7, 1831, and was educated at Cambridge. During his student days he won many scholarships, prizes, and medals. After his graduation he was assistant master at Marlborough college, and afterwards for sixteen years head master at Harrow. Later he returned to Marlborough as head master. In 1876 he became canon of Westminster abbey and rector of St. Margaret's. He was appointed archdeacon of Westminster in 1883. In 1890 he became chaplain of the house of commons, holding the position until 1895, when he was appointed dean of Canterbury.

Known as an Author.

It is as an author that Dean Farrar is best known to the reading world of England and the United States. His "Life of Christ" has long been looked upon as a modern religious classic. In addition to his career as a theological writer he published several books of fiction, notably "Eric, or Little by Little" in 1858; "Julian Home," 1859; "St. Winifred," 1863; "Darkness and Dawn," 1885.

His "Life of Christ" appeared in 1874 and reached its twelfth edition within as many months. It has since been translated into French, German, Dutch, Russian, Swedish, and Italian, and the editions are so numerous that the literary world no longer keeps track of them.

Dean Farrar was also the author of "The Life of St. Paul," "The Early Days of Christianity," "Eternal Hope," and "The Bible; Its Meaning and Supremacy." He contributed to all the standard commentaries and encyclopedias.

His Views of the Bible.

Dean Farrar was one of England's broadest and most liberal churchmen. He refused to accept all of the bible unreservedly. On this point he said:

"It is because I deeply reverence the bible, and because I absolutely accept the word of God which it contains that I refuse to be guilty of the blasphemy of confusing the words of men with the word of God, or the inferences of ignorant teachers with the messages of God." In his book he discussed Joshua (for whom he thinks the sun did not stand still), of Jonah (who was swallowed by no fish, in his opinion), and other miracles, the truth of which he could not accept, although described in the bible. But Dr. Farrar believed in the incarnation, the resurrection, and the ascension.

NEW LIGHT ON ROENTGEN RAYS.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, March 23, 3 a. m.—Lord Rayleigh, professor of natural philosophy at the Royal institution, has announced that M. Blondelot, a French experimenter, has recently adduced evidence going far to prove that Roentgen rays are susceptible of polarization, if they have not been polarized already and can therefore be traced to spectrum.

If this is true, and the rays are transversal, as Blondelot thinks, it follows that they are a species of ordinary light, but of extremely short wave lengths, perhaps a hundred times shorter than waves of light. Lord Rayleigh said he saw no reason to question the discovery, which is of first rate importance, helping to determine the nature of Roentgen rays, which have been in doubt ever since they were discovered.

In another part of the lecture, in which the above announcement is made, Lord Rayleigh dealt with the coast lights, questioned the use of the extreme candle power employed at some lighthouses. He said a single candle is visible three miles on a dark night if the air is absolutely clear, but as the air is never so, great candle power is necessary to allow for diffusion, but even when this allowance is made he doubts if anything is gained by such illumination as is produced by the electric arc at St. Catherines on the Isle of Wight, which is equal to millions of candles. It was probable, he declared, that for practical purposes 100,000 candle power would be as effective as 30,000,000. It would be more valuable, he said, to repeat moderate flashlights more frequently than to employ extremely high power fixed lights.

REVOLT IN URUGUAY ENDS.

Treaty of Peace Signed Between the Government and the Insurgent Leaders.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

MONTEVIDEO, March 22.—The revolution which began on March 16 was ended today by a treaty of peace signed by the Uruguayan government and the rebel leaders.

The Uruguayan revolt was confined to the departments of Rivera, Flores, and Maldonado, and was brought about by the white party, who were dissatisfied with the new president (Ordonez) and with the recent appointments of departmental prefects.

The government, while taking strong military measures to suppress the revolution, also made certain proposals with a view to arriving at a peaceful settlement. Four government delegates were sent to the disaffected provinces authorized to make conciliatory propositions. They were instructed to inform Señor Saravia, the instigator of the revolution, that, as the basis of an arrangement, the government would agree to the appointment under the direction of the nationalists, or white party, of new prefects in six departments.

The uprising was not generally popular, although the rebels mustered 8,000 men, who had destroyed the railway, cut the telegraph wires, and were threatening to attack Montevideo itself.

AMERICAN HELD FOR FRAUD.

London Judge Grants Order for Extradition of "Dr." Nicholson to the German Courts.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, March 22.—"Dr." J. H. Nicholson, who was arraigned in Bow street police court last Thursday on charges of fraud preferred by Berlin authorities, was brought before a magistrate again yesterday.

When Nicholson, who, it is said, has had a long career as a quack on the continent and has operated in many cities, was first arrested he claimed to be a Philadelphian, and that he had been a physician in New York. Afterwards he declared that he was a Canadian, and on that account the magistrate remanded him while inquiries were made on the subject.

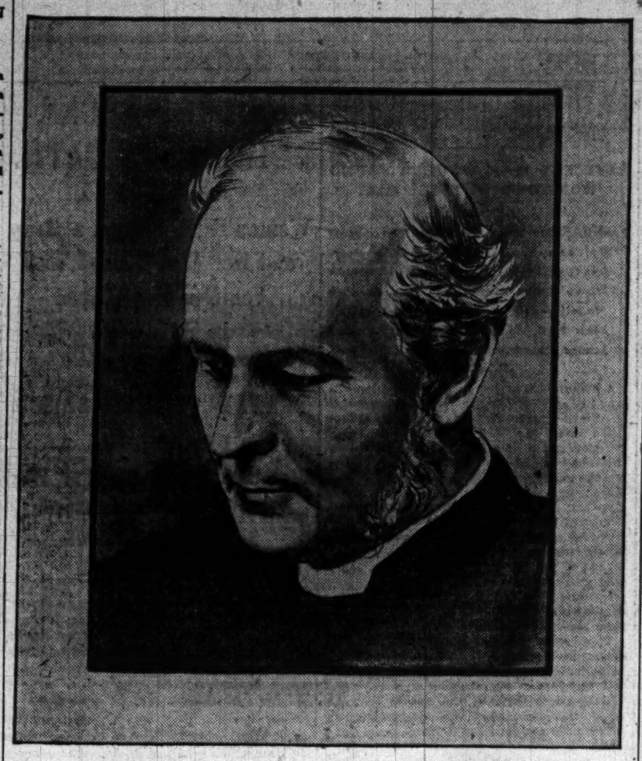

Yesterday the magistrate decided that Nicholson was an American, and granted a motion for his extradition to Germany.

Greece May Monopolize Currants.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

ATHENS, March 22.—An English syndicate has submitted to the government a proposal to monopolize the currant trade. M. Delyannis has undertaken to present the scheme to the chamber of deputies. The press, the public, and several of the deputies favor the scheme.

LEADING ENGLISH CHURCHMAN, WHO IS DEAD.

THE VERY REV. FREDERICK WILLIAM FARRAR.

Dean Farrar, who died yesterday, was one of the most widely known men of the English church. He was the author of a number of historical works on religious subjects and of several religious novels. He had been dean of Canterbury since 1895.

LA SOUFRIERE IS ACTIVE.

ERUPTION OF ST. VINCENT VOLCANO MORE SERIOUS.

West Indian Crater Is Belching Dense Clouds of Black Smoke Which Obscure the Sun and Envelope the Entire Island in Darkness—People of Kingston, Relying Upon Scientific Opinion, Are Not Alarmed and There Is No Panic.

KINGSTON, St. Vincent, March 22.—The eruption of La Soufriere, which began yesterday, continued and increased in activity during the night until it became most violent at 7 o'clock this morning. At half past 8 o'clock this morning its violence was unabated and the spectacle was awe inspiring.

The crater is belching forth dense black clouds, which rise heavenwards, accompanied by loud roaring and flashes, which rend the spreading pall of smoke which now envelopes the entire island in darkness. Electrical discharges occurred at intervals during the night, while at daybreak the sunlight playing on the stupendous volcanic clouds produced exceedingly beautiful effects.

Smoke Obscures the Sun.

Relying upon the scientific opinion that Kingston, although covered with heavy clouds which completely obscured the sun, is not in danger, the population shows no alarm. According to advices from Château Belair dark sand is falling there, and Point-a-Pietre reports that strong detonations were heard there throughout last night and this morning.

Earthquake in Mexico.

Chilpaningo, Mex., March 22.—There was a sharp earthquake shock, accompanied by subterranean noises, at La Union this afternoon. An earthquake shock also was felt at Zihuatanejo.

BULGARIA UNABLE TO BUY GUNS.

[Copyright: 1903: By the New York Tribune.]
[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

SOFIA, March 22.—The governments of Austria-Hungary and Russia are making the Bulgarian ministers preserve peace by force as well as by diplomatic influence. Bulgaria is trying to purchase ammunition and to replenish her exhausted armories, but the Vienna government will not allow the war material to pass the Danube. Several large contracts for powder have recently been placed conditionally upon the delivery of the ammunition on the shores of the Danube, and the contractors have been trying to smuggle it through Austria-Hungary. The porte has not neglected to order its officials to watch the Dardanelles closely for the passage of war supplies.

Many Bulgarians and one cabinet minister have expressed to me their regret that the reported murder of the Russian consul at Mitrovitza has not proved true. Otherwise, decisive action would have been forced upon Russia. The sympathizers with Macedonia are growing more hostile and numerous in Bulgaria.

Russia has secured, meanwhile, a more absolute mastery of the Sofia government. It has brought about the resignation of M. Papricoff, the minister of war, who was the most strenuous and antagonistic member of the cabinet in offering resistance to Russian influence.

Public sympathy with the Macedonian cause nevertheless increases steadily and is more aggressive.

FRANCE NOW THREATENS CHINA

Unless Disorders in Kwangsi Province Are Quelled Troops Will Be Sent from Tonquin.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

SHANGHAI, March 22.—The Chinese board of foreign affairs has been disturbed by receiving from the governor of French Indo-China a communication stating that if China cannot quell the disturbances in Kwangsi province, French troops will be sent there. The disorders, which are of long duration, are ascribed to the squeezing of the people by the tax officials. There is trouble also at Tien Tsin, the French having refused the request of the viceroy to evacuate the arsenal there unless provided with new barracks and given $1,500,000 by way of compensation.

DECLARES REBELLION AT END.

Sultan of Morocco Disbands Irregular Army, Although Pretender Is Still Free.

LONDON, March 23, 3 a. m.—The Times' correspondent at Tangier says that the sultan of Morocco is disbanding his irregular troops and has announced officially that the rebellion is ended, but, adds the correspondent, the situation is inexplicable, as the pretender, Buhaiara, has not been captured and the government troops have failed to recapture Taza and never attempted to punish the rebellious tribes. All military movements have been abandoned until after the Mulud feast in June.

Minister of Posts at Rome Is So Pleased with the Invention of Sig. Turchi and Prof. Bruno That He Will Give It a Test on Government Lines and If Results Are Satisfactory Will Adopt It at Once for the Benefit of the Public.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

ROME, March 22.—The newspapers announce the invention by Sig. Turchi, the engineer, and Prof. Bruno, by which telegraphic and telephonic messages can be sent simultaneously on the same wire. The Tribuna says similar inventions in Belgium, Austria, and Germany did not fulfill what was claimed for them, but the present one is so successful that Sig. Galimberti, minister of posts and telegraphs, is about to test it on public wires. If the result is satisfactory the invention will be adopted forthwith.

New System of Ethergrams.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

BERLIN, March 22.—Ernest Ruhmer, the inventor of a new system of ethergrams, which it has been demonstrated before an admiralty official, claims to be able to prevent the messages reaching persons for whom they are not intended by means of a parabolic mirror. Only those stationed in the direction of the mirror rays will be able to receive the message.

PLAN TO BORROW "PARSIFAL" STARTS QUARREL IN BERLIN.

German Musicians Divided Over Proposal to Produce Wagner's Opera in New York Without Permission.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

BERLIN, March 22.—The intention of Mr. Conried to present "Parsifal" at the Metropolitan opera house in New York in spite of the protest from Frau Cosima Wagner, greatly interests German music lovers, who are divided into two parties on the question. Those sympathizing with Frau Wagner seem to be in the majority, some going so far as to prophesy that if Conried is sustained it will mean the end of the Baireuth festivals, because "Parsifal" is always the great feature there, it being possible to hear Wagner's other operas anywhere.

Prof. Schaarwenka, a prominent musical authority, thinks the reverence due such a great master ought to compel any manager to respect his family's wishes, even if he is legally justified in producing "Parsifal." Moreover, no stage except the one at Baireuth can possibly devote the time and care which the production requires.

Felix Weingartner, conductor of the Royal opera house, who may be regarded as the leader of the opposition to the Wagner family, contends that the world ought not to be deprived of the enjoyment of Wagner's masterpiece in order that the composer's heirs may maintain a monopoly. This view seems to be shared by many musicians of high professional standing.

Italian Couple in Paterson, N. J., Says Twenty-five of Their Countrymen Are Persecuting Them.

Paterson, N. J., March 22.—[Special.]—Secunda Casanova and his wife Marie are seeking the arrest of twenty-five Italians whom they charge with conspiracy against them because they refused to join a band of anarchists. It is said they refused, as they had become Americanized and had no grudge against any other country. They assert that because they persisted in refusing to join the reds their countrymen have attempted to have local dealers refuse to sell them provisions. The dealers refused to do this and their countrymen declared a boycott against all dealers who sold goods to the Casanovas.

COWBOYS LOST IN A BLIZZARD.

Five Members of a Band Which Went Out to Kill Flocks of Sheep Believed to Be Dead.

Cheyenne, Wyo., March 22.—[Special.]—Five cowboys, members of a band who went out to destroy flocks of sheep which had been driven inside the deadline set by the cattlemen of Rongis, Wyo., in the Sweetwater district, are believed to have been lost in the blizzard of last Tuesday. The cowboys have made that section a dreaded place for flockmasters and they proposed to kill all sheep with dynamite. The company numbered sixty men. For three days they have been straggling in, having been dispersed by the storm, but hope for safety of the five has been abandoned.

VISITOR KILLED IN HOLDUP FIGHT

ONE BANDIT IS SHOT.

Car Stopped on Way to Santa Monica and Death Follows Resistance.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 22.—The attempt of three masked robbers to hold up a car on the Los Angeles-Pacific electric line, running between Los Angeles and Santa Monica, last night, opened with a pistol duel between C. W. Henderson, one of the passengers, and one of the robbers, and was followed by the other two highwaymen shooting right and left through the crowded car. One passenger was killed and three wounded.

The Dead and Wounded.

The dead:

GRISWOLD, H. A., of Manson, Ia.

The wounded:

Bowles, Dr. C. H., of Los Angeles, shot through left hand.

Cunningham, J. C., Los Angeles, a trunk manufacturer, shot through the left thigh, thigh bone broken; serious.

Pearson, Ellis, of Sawtelle, the Soldiers' home on the electric line, shot through left leg.

It is believed that one of the robbers was badly wounded.

Mr. Griswold was a wealthy citizen of Manson, Ia. He came here several months ago for the benefit of his mother's health.

The holdup was at the head of a deep cut. The robbers had placed a steel rail, a large bench, and a cement barrel on the track.

Charles Curry, the motorman, saw the obstruction when the car was several hundred yards from it, and at once turned off the current and ran slowly to the place. The moment the car struck three men wearing masks sprang from the weeds alongside the track. One boarded the front end of the car and the other two the rear end.

Shooting Begins Promptly.

The first man commanded the passengers occupying the open seats to put up their hands, and when one of them did not comply he fired a shot. Henderson then opened fire on the robber, shooting as fast as he could pull the trigger. The robber turned his gun upon Henderson, but as he did so he was seen to bend over and cry out as if in pain. Then, straightening up, he began shooting at the passengers huddled in the front seats.

One of his bullets struck Ellis Pearson in the left leg. Henderson continued firing, and the robber was seen to fall.

While this was going on on the outside of the car a tragedy was being enacted in the inside. The two robbers who had entered the rear door commanded the passengers to raise their hands, and most of them did so. Before any attempt could be made by the robbers to search the passengers for their valuables the shooting began on the outside of the car. Then the other two robbers began shooting right and left into the crowd of passengers.

Griswold Shot in Back.

Griswold was seated about the middle of the car with his back turned toward the robbers. At the command "Hands up!" he tried to secrete his watch under his legs, and one of the robbers, thinking he was about to draw a weapon, fired pointblank at him. The bullet struck him in the back of the neck and he fell over into the lap of his aged mother, who was seated at his side.

Shot Through Upheld Hand.

Dr. C. H. Bowles was near the front door and at the command of the robbers he raised his hands. When he had them in the air one of the bullets from a robber's revolver struck his left hand and shattered the bones. After emptying their revolvers the robbers backed out of the door and sprang off the car and disappeared.

The car proceeded with all possible speed to Sawtelle, the nearest point where medical aid could be secured. Griswold expired before the car had gone a mile. His mother was almost insane from fright and grief. The bullet which killed him grazed the cheek of Miss Anna Funk, who was traveling with him.

As soon as the shooting was over Henderson, who had fired at the robbers, sprang from the car and started to run. He ran across a vineyard and struck a wire fence, being knocked down. While in that position he saw two of the robbers run to a road near by and climb into a buggy and drive towards this city.

Henderson Tells of Affair.

Henderson, who started the shooting, gives this version of how it began: "The three men appeared, all wearing masks, and with revolvers in their hands, which they trained upon the carload of passengers. 'Hands up, everybody. Hands up,' called out one of the highwaymen. I noticed that their guns were trained upon the passengers standing, and as I was seated I thought I was safe in making some move. I shifted my revolver from a hip to an overcoat pocket and a moment later, when one of the men was not more than five feet away, I opened fire.

"I fired four shots point blank at his breast. The man fell and I believe he was mortally wounded. Immediately the other two highwaymen, seeing their companion fall, opened fire. A regular fusillade of shots followed.

"I ducked across the car and jumped off the opposite side and ran across a field to the road."

Every available officer was sent to the scene, but no trace of the robbers was found.

Blacksmith and painter

Your blacksmith buys his horseshoes and nails ready made; your grandfather's blacksmith made his by hand. Any good blacksmith can tell you that the ready made are as good or better than the hand made at a little more than the cost of the iron.

What do you think of a painter who goes on buying linseed oil, white lead, and zinc; mixing and tinting by hand, and charging time for work that is far better done ready made than he can do it; done by machinery.

Devoe ready paint is as good for your painter as for you; but he doesn't know it, probably. Suppose you tell him.

WRIGHT POSES AS VICTIM OF GREED.

Promoter in Ludlow Street Jail Sorry He Ever Left United States.

GOT START ON THIS SIDE.

Declares American Speculators Are Gamer Gamblers than Those in England.

New York, March 22.—[Special.]—Whitaker Wright, the dethroned London financier, takes his imprisonment hard. He has comfortable quarters in the Ludlow street jail, where he has the companionship of other but less notorious debtors, but as he talked today of his affairs he sometimes pounded the arm of his chair. His ruin he attributes to treachery. "Treachery at the mines and treachery in London," he said. "The manager of one mine alone represented its monthly output at $800,000. I invested, and the next month it fell to $200,000."

"Rot" is the way he characterized the story that $111,000,000 had been lost in his enterprises. "My enterprises paid more in dividends to original stockholders," he declared, "than was paid in in the capital stock. What the persecutors want is my blood. There are hundreds of men in London for whom I made fortunes, and many got profits varying from $50,000 to $1,000,000 through me.

Losses All Out of Profits.

"The losses they talk so much about were losses of a profit I had made for them. Here, when your brokers speculate and lose, they say nothing. If they win they pocket their profit. You are better gamblers here than they are in England.

"The assets in hand are worth about five shillings in the pound. I offered the stock exchange creditors ten shillings to the pound eighteen months ago. This settlement was upset by Flower and his associates, as they personally wanted to bleed me. Today, no doubt, they are sick that they did not accept the proposition. I never had a penny of the company's money. I lost $5,000,000 of my own trying to steady the market.

"It is an utterly new construction of the law that a managing director of a company shall be responsible for losses speculators may sustain in buying stock on the stock exchange at prices over which the managing director has no control.

Sorry He Left United States.

"I wish I had staid in America. If I had I would be worth $50,000,000 today instead of being here. It is not generally known that I lived here for thirty years, almost all of my more active manhood. I was born in England and educated there, but my younger years were all spent here. My home was in Philadelphia and there I became a millionaire in ten years' time. I did it through business there and fortunate speculations on the New York stock exchange. It was in Philadelphia I was naturalized, that I was married, and that all my children were born. There three of them are buried and there is my family vault, where the rest of us will be laid. My country home was at Haverford, just outside of Philadelphia, and my near neighbor was A. J. Cassatt, president of the Pennsylvania road.

Knows This Country Well.

"I know this country better than any other, as for many years I was a mining man traveling over all the western states. I know them all well. This is an amazing country, and with its wonderful prosperity and resources I could have been worth $50,000,000 had I only staid here.

"It was not until 1889 I returned to England after having lived here thirty years. The first of the companies I organized was in 1895, the next in 1896. The first enterprise I launched was the Western Australia Exploration company, with a capital of only $1,000,000. The next year came the Globe, and it had only $1,000,000. No exploration company in London had a better set of mining properties. It was the 1st of March, 1897, that these companies were amalgamated with a capital of $10,000,000. This did not mean that the difference between $2,000,000, representing the capital of the two original companies, and $10,000,000 was paid in by shareholders. They were required to put up the additional capital, but received two and a half shares for one. In other words, for $2,000,000 in stock in the old companies $10,000,000 in stock was issued. So our total paid up capital was only $2,000,000. The rest of the capital was out of profits I had made for shareholders.

Found Philosopher's Stone.

The Globe company bought shares in various mining enterprises. We had more sound properties than any exploration company in London, and that is the reason we had such a following. One company had a capital of $1,250,000 and paid within less than three years nearly $15,000,000. The first few years everything we touched turned to gold.

"Then the wheel turned. We had $25,000,000 in cash locked up in a London subway. The Boer war came with its consequent financial depression, and it was a stringency which we in common with the rest felt. I sold to Yerkes the subway, for one-fourth of what it cost. We were sore pressed. It was the difference between a ship at sea and a ship on the rocks, the salvage cost us so much. When a thing gets into official liquidation in London it might as well be thrown over, as it will cost all that can ever be realized."

Whitaker Wright, the London promoter who is under arrest in New York, was at one time a well known figure in Chicago deals. His orders were carried out without question. There were no Chicago men caught by any trades with the exception of J. J. McDermid, who has just filed suit in New York to recover $2,168 and interest, due since Jan. 1, 1887.

The late W. M. Gregg was a creditor of Wright. After carrying $15,000 for him for some time and failing to obtain a settlement, Mr. Gregg went to London and was about to institute a suit when Wright settled his claim.

"It has never been possible to secure service on Wright until now," said Mr. McDermid yesterday afternoon in discussing the suit started in New York on Saturday. "Jan. 1, 1887, Wright owed us $2,168. The interest will bring the whole amount up to about $4,000."

QUARREL WITH HIS FIANCEE MAY HAVE CAUSED SUICIDE.

Leroy Werner, Who Was to Have Been Married Next Month, Ends His Life—Note from "Helen" Asks Forgiveness.

Believed to have been despondent as a result of a quarrel with his sweetheart, Leroy Werner, 20 years old, committed suicide yesterday at his room, 573 North Clark street, by swallowing carbolic acid. Friends say Werner was to have been married next month.

In Werner's clothing was found a letter signed "Helen." The writer asked him to forgive her, and said:

"Leroy, you know I love you, and that you are dear to me as ever."

No address was given, and none of Werner's friends know the young woman to whom he was engaged.

Charles H. Benedict, oriental traffic manager for the Burlington railroad, will recover from his attempted suicide, it was said last night at the Cook County hospital. While in a fit of depression resulting from the death of his wife, Benedict on Saturday drank two ounces of laudanum.

"I do not care whether I live or die," he said yesterday. "There is nothing for me to look forward to in the future."

Mr. Benedict lived with his brother at 6531 Greenwood avenue. Two weeks ago his wife died.

[From photographs taken for THE TRIBUNE.]

DAM AT LYONS.

DESPLAINES RIVER, ABOVE RIVERSIDE.

Although the Desplaines river flood began to recede yesterday a large part of the territory around Riverside and Lyons remains inundated, and boats are still convenient for purposes of navigation. As a result of recent rains the river is said to have reached its highest mark in ten years, and for a time there was fear the Riverside dam would break and cause greater damage. It was therefore with relief that citizens of the two towns learned yesterday that the waters were receding. There was a fall of a foot in the river during the day.

THREATS OF TWO STRIKES

THREE THOUSAND MEN LIKELY TO WALK OUT TODAY.

Carriage and Wagon Shops and Swift & Co. Affected—Former Organizes to Resist Demands and Stubborn Contest Is Promised—Trouble at Packing Plant Comes from the East and Is Coupled with Some Local Discontent—Teamsters Angry.

Three thousand men, representing two branches of industry, declare they will strike this morning if their demands are not granted. Over 300 wagon and carriage shops, whose 1,600 employes have been refused recognition of their union, and Swift & Co., at the stockyards, charged with discrimination against labor organizations, are the employers who will be affected.

Wagon and carriage makers have formed what is known as the Manufacturers' club, and have agreed to make a fight. Over 700 of their employes gathered at Ulich's hall yesterday afternoon, and the poll practically was unanimous in favor of the strike proposition.

The men were ordered to report to the various shops this morning and ask the firms to sign an agreement. If they refuse pickets will be placed and the strike will be on. It is expected that fifty-six of the small concerns will yield, but the other 300 will resist.

Summary of Union Demands.

The employes have made the following demands:

Recognition of the union.
Hiring of union men only.
Granting of a nine hour day.
Wage increase of 12½ per cent.
Time and a half for overtime and double time for Sundays and holidays.
One apprentice for every department and an additional one for every seven journeymen.
The use of the union label on the goods put on the market.

The men declare they are the lowest paid mechanics of similar grade in the city. The blacksmiths receive from $2 to $3.50 a day, helpers from 15 cents to 20 cents an hour, finishers from $1.75 to $2 a day, woodworkers from 22 to 25 cents an hour, and painters and trimmers from 15 to 30 cents an hour.

"The men want living wages and are determined to get them," said Business Agent C. Casey yesterday. "Over 1,400 have joined the union since last January, and the trade is unionized. In some of the departments a man must work for four years before he gets journeymen's pay, and then receives but 17½ cents an hour. We showed this to the firms and they came back with a proposition which was too low to be considered. There seems to be nothing to do but strike."

Trouble at Swift & Co.'s.

The trouble at Swift & Co.'s originated in the east. The New England Dressed Meat and Wool company, which recently was affiliated with the local house, changed its method of paying its sheep butchers and the men struck. The company has plants in Boston, New York, and Buffalo. The men centered their fight at Buffalo, and last week appealed to Chicago for help.

The Packing Trades council, the local central body of the unions at the yards, took the matter up yesterday, and it was decided to send President M. Donnelly of the Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen to see Swift & Co. and demand an adjustment.

The local workers also have a grievance against the firm, asserting that when the elevator men and oilers organized their leaders were discharged. They declare further that in the recent strike of the engineers union employes who refused to take the places of the strikers were dropped. Donnelly will bring up this controversy in connection with the other.

Teamsters Angry at Driscoll.

The Truck Drivers' union, the largest and most powerful teamsters' organization of the city, repudiated John C. Driscoll, secretary of the Associated Teaming interests, at its meeting yesterday. The truckmen are not in sympathy with the movement of the drivers to break away from other organizations, and lay their trouble along that line to Driscoll.

The reports which were current yesterday that Driscoll had offered checks of $50 to labor leaders to oppose Frederick C. Bender, the teamster candidate for city clerk on the republican ticket, increased the drivers' anger.

Early Milk Delivery Tomorrow.

The milk wagon drivers have decided that an early morning delivery shall commence tomorrow instead of April 1, but only one delivery will be made a day. It is expected by this change to have all delivery wagons off the street by 1 p. m.

Shorter Day for Blacksmiths.

Three thousand blacksmiths employed on contract work in the city have decided to inaugurate a nine hour day beginning May 1. Their movement will take place simultaneously with that of the iron molders and machinists, and no open opposition from the employers is expected. The blacksmiths also demand a 10 per cent increase on the present wage of 28 to 35 cents an hour. Some of the leading firms practically have promised to make the concessions and others are expected to follow.

Criticism for Gompers.

The sheet metal workers who belong to the international union are indignant at the letter sent out by President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor condemning them for signing an agreement with the employers in this city.

"President Gompers saw a contract that was signed but not ratified," said Vice President Hugh Franey of the sheet metal men. "It had in it a clause allowing the employers to use nonunion men. This was sent to me for indorsement and I sent it back. The letter was stolen by the rival union, and has been used as a club ever since."

Longshoremen Meet Tonight.

Eight hundred longshoremen will meet tonight to frame up demands for a new wage scale, to go into effect when navigation opens. The men receive 30 cents and want 35 cents an hour. They also want 40 cents for all Sunday and holiday work.

DOCKERS TO AID TUGMEN.

FIGHT IN TOWING TRUST REOPENED BY UNIONS.

Official Notice Issued at Toledo to Vessel and Tug Owners That Longshoremen Will Refuse to Handle Ships Towed by Nonunion Crews—Trouble Arises Over Refusal to Reinstate Licensed Men in Organization Who Disobeyed Walkout Order.

Toledo, O., March 22.—The reopening of last year's hostilities between the Licensed Tugmen's Protective association and the Great Lakes Towing company will begin tomorrow, when the following notice will be served on all vessel and tug owners:

"City of Toledo, March 22, 1903.—You are hereby notified that the Great Lakes Towing company's tugs have been placed on the unfair list. Please take notices that all boats which have been towed by the Great Lakes Towing company tugs will be refused the service of the International Longshoremen, Marine and Transport Workers' union in loading and unloading cargoes, unless the tugs so employed carry regular Linemen and Firemen's union men. This is to take effect on and after Monday, March 23, 1903.

"By order of the district council of International Linemen and Firemen's association."

The differences between the tug trust and the tugmen at this time grows out of the demand of the Great Lakes Towing company for the reinstatement in the Licensed Tugmen's Protective association of the men expelled last season for refusing to obey strike orders.

The sympathetic action of the longshoremen is believed by the tugmen to be a great factor in their favor. Last year the tugmen fought their battle to a successful finish without the aid of any outside union. Steamers were able to get along without tugs in most places, and their cargoes were handled without question.

Begin to Figure the Bonus.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., March 22.—[Special.]—Local mine officials in and about this city expressed themselves today as being satisfied with, or at least willing to abide by, the findings of the mine commission and ready to carry out its provisions. An official of a large corporation said the award was a practical vindication of the coal companies, and that the 10 per cent advance and reduction of hours to the firemen were practically conceded. He said that the report and the review of the coal mining conditions will be of great ultimate good, that violence and boycotts have been denounced in no unmistakable language, and that peace and normal conditions will prevail in this region for the next three years at least.

All the local company officials will put their clerks at work tomorrow to figure up the bonus coming to each employé under the award.

The Lehigh Valley company has in its employ 35,000 men, and a majority of them will receive from $25 to $50 each. The miners have also made good wages since the strike ended, and will profit by the award to the extent of from $40 to $60 each. The Susquehanna Coal company was the only corporation that was not represented before the commission, but the officers have agreed to abide by the result of the finding.

Propose a Three Payment Plan.

Shamokin, Pa., March 22.—Coal operators of this vicinity, at an informal meeting last night, decided that the best plan in reference to paying the mineworkers the back wages since Nov. 1, awarded by the strike commission, was to divide the amount into three parts and add each amount to the three ensuing regular pay days, the first of which will fall on March 30.

UNIONS GET PLAIN TALK.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY JEROME POINTS OUT DEFECTS.

Meets Organized Labor and Insists There Are Leaders Who Can Be Bought—Takes Sides with the Workingman Against Capital, but Refuses to Admit That the Labor Card Is the Emblem of Perfection.

New York, March 22.—[Special.]—District Attorney Jerome today addressed the representatives of fifty-eight trades unions in terms that committed him decisively to the side of organized labor, which, he said, was engaged with capital in a struggle for supremacy. It was a regular Sunday meeting of the Central Federated union. The district attorney had been invited to explain his reported utterance concerning the corruption among the labor leaders. His explanation mainly was a reiteration with trimmings. Mr. Jerome made it plain he was there to hit the nail on the head. He struck straight from the shoulder at plutocrats and demagogues, who had no complaint on the score of favoritism, as he pounded them with equal vigor.

Speaks of Carnegie's Purpose.

He said of Carnegie: "The man who gives libraries to the people is actuated by self-interest, like the rest of us. He wants the applause of his fellow men, and to go down in history as a great philanthropist and a captain of industry, and the Homestead workmen, they, too, want all they can get."

Of the multiplicity of projected libraries he said: "It is well enough to build public libraries and to give public libraries and the like and such things in the way of gratuity and things of that kind, but when a man has stood behind a lathe for ten hours he does not want to read classical literature in a public library, and would much prefer the money."

Will Tell Who Can Be Bribed.

Mr. Jerome, though pressed to give the names of the labor leaders he believed had taken bribes, declined to do so. He consented though to turn over his information to any committee the delegates might appoint. A committee of five was voted and appointed with instructions to confer with Jerome at an early date. He said: "I said there were many labor leaders who could be bought boots and breeches. I was willing to be convinced I was wrong, but I doubt if you can do it. Since making that speech I've talked to men in organized labor who have told me it is true."

Of the disputes between capital and labor Mr. Jerome said: "You are not 10 per cent, you men of organized labor, of the men of the United States. If you think the other 90 per cent are going to stand for violence you misread them."

Labor Notes.

A vote of telegraphers and station agents on the Kansas City Southern railroad favors a strike, but no orders have been given.

In a battle between the strikers at the Standard mill at Colorado Springs, Colo., a union picket was injured. Two men were arrested.

Textile workers at Lowell, Mass., will decide on Thursday night whether they will order a strike on seven corporations in that town, because of a refusal to raise wages.

The car workers' union of New Haven, Conn., met yesterday to discuss a new scale of wages and hours to be submitted to the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad.

The Houston and Texas Central railroad yesterday announced at Houston, Tex., that trainmen and conductors will be given an increase of 12½ and 15 per cent, beginning on April 1.

The striking trolley men of Waterbury, Conn., expect financial assistance from the American Federation of Labor to take the place of their funds, which are tied up by injunction. President Gompers will visit them today.

WOMAN'S YEAR BOOK OUT.

AFTER MUCH DELAY FEDERATION MANUAL IS ISSUED.

Important Feature of Work Proposed Is the Erection of a Hall at the State University to Be Distinct from a Dormitory—Effort to Be Made to Open Public School Grounds After Hours as General Playgrounds—New Courses in Study.

The long delayed "year book," setting forth plans of work of the Illinois Federation of Woman's Clubs, will appear today.

The book is larger than any of its eight predecessors and the work planned covers a wider field.

One of the principal efforts to be made by the 250 clubs of the federation is the erection of a woman's hall for the state university at Champaign—not a dormitory, but a hall as a monument to the women of the state.

Open Public School Grounds.

As an aid in keeping children from the street the use of school property out of school hours as social centers is strongly urged by Josephine Milligan.

"The yards, if spacious, can be used for out of door sports," Miss Milligan says. She also urges that the roofs of the city school buildings be utilized as play gardens for the use of the poor children during the summer.

Cooking to Receive Attention.

To make all American women good cooks is another interesting thing that the federation has started out to do, accepting as a guide in this direction the recent broad statement: "There is nothing so bad as the cooking in American homes."

"Each woman should strive by her own effort to make the American the most healthfully fed, clothed, and housed of all nations," says Mrs P. S. Peterson, chairman of the domestic science committee, who has undertaken the task.

Considering the demand throughout the state for a practical knowledge of home economics, Mrs. Peterson earnestly recommends the introduction of a household science course in all schools, whether in the city or country, and also in the colleges, for women. This would include cooking.

Study Home Decorations.

A new study suggested for the year is home decoration. In connection with the study of "Art as applied to the home" the committee on art, of which Mrs. John B. Sherwood is the head, is sending out an exhibit for club study on home decoration.

This collection consists of a series of color schemes, showing relative harmonies in wall decoration, woodwork, furniture, and other artistic features. Examples of expensive and inexpensive fabrics for draperies and coverings go with the art collection, and wall papers suitable for different rooms are mounted on cards for exhibition.

Photographs for the study of vases, pottery, glass, copper, and bronze, lamps, pieces of art pottery, and glass mosaics make up the collection, accompanied by books for study.

Stop Night Work by Children.

The clubs will endeavor to stop all night work of children. It is suggested that the women regularly inspect factories and study topics connected with the subject.

Among the topics suggested are "History of the Eight Hour Movement," "Factory Regulation for Work," "The Problems of the Unemployed," "How Woman's Work Affects Labor," "Cooperative Schemes," "Work of the Consumers' League."

The consideration of hygienic principles is discussed and a state sanitarium for consumptives and a state colony for epileptics is advocated.

A new directory has been completed, in which the number of members of each club is given and the polito-geographical location.

PRAISES A BENEFIT ORDER

QUIGLEY COMMENDS CATHOLIC FRATERNAL SOCIETY.

Archbishop Advises Men to Join Those Organizations Conducted in Harmony with the Church—Says It Protects Them from Other Associations Which Are Dangerous—Receives a Memorial of Welcome and Expresses Pleasure at His Reception.

Archbishop Quigley advised all men in the Roman Catholic church to unite with some one of the fraternal orders organized under church supervision. Both the individuals and the religious body gain through the societies, the prelate said. He was speaking at School hall, Chicago avenue and Cass street, in response to a memorial presented to the archbishop by members of the Catholic Mutual Benefit association.

"No agencies in the world today are doing more good than these societies," he said. "Every man in the Catholic church should belong to one of them. They offer cheaper insurance than the secular companies and they help the church.

"In scores of cases I have seen the good done the family by the insurance money paid after the death of the father or husband. What it means to those left behind is beyond calculation. But there is this other side to the matter; the payment of the policy takes the support of the family from the church.

Test of a Good Catholic.

"Again, the association is an organization of practical Catholics. Bishop Ryan, the founder of the order in Buffalo, used to have difficulty in determining what constituted a practical Catholic. To satisfy himself he decided a practical Catholic was a man who attended regularly the Sunday mass, who did his Easter duties, who contributed according to his means to the support of the church and its schools, and gave his children a Catholic education. A man must be all this to be a member of this association. The more of such fraternal orders of the kind we have the greater will be the strength of the church.

"Beyond the financial and other considerations mentioned is this advantage, that it protects our men from the other societies which it would be dangerous for them to join."

Gratified with His Reception.

The archbishop said he had been surprised and delighted at the warmth of his reception in the Chicago diocese.

"Already I feel perfectly at home here," he said. "It seems there is perfect sympathy between myself and all the Catholics of the diocese. I feel sure we can work together in perfect harmony for the accomplishment of much good. All I ask is your patience, for it will take time to bring about the results aimed at."

The book presented to Archbishop Quigley is an address written on parchment, welcoming him to Chicago on behalf of the benefit association. The work is done by hand, and the pages are hand illuminated. The presentation was made by Thomas J. Douglas, supreme deputy of the order. Signed to the memorial are the names of Mr. Douglas, John Brennan, district deputy, and the officers of the ten branches in Chicago.

Victim Causes Excitement When in the Little Raiment Left Him He Hurries Through Street to Police Station.

Robbed of his coat, vest, trousers, hat, and shoes while asleep in a saloon at 59 Desplaines street, Michael O'Donnell caused some excitement on the west side yesterday while hurrying to the police station in the few clothes the robbers left him.

Followed by a crowd of men and boys O'Donnell went to the Desplaines street station, where he made a complaint. Later Michael Fallon was arrested on a charge of larceny. O'Donnell lives at 3636 Wallace street.

While watching a game in the Enterprise bowling alley at 174 Madison street yesterday morning, Stephen Viner, 345 State street, Albert Brock, and Walter Scully were held up by three young men and robbed of a quantity of small change and several pocket knives. George F. Frederick, John Sullivan, and John O'Brien were arrested and taken to the Harrison street station.

Pickpockets operated on the Halsted street electric line yesterday and several complaints were made to the conductors. Conductor Michael Nanahorn engaged in a struggle with four young men, and the police at the Desplaines street station were notified. Detectives were detailed to keep a watch for the thieves, but no arrests were made.

Daniel Cotton, an alleged burglar, was taken in custody yesterday by Detectives Kirby and Birmingham of the Maxwell street police station and charged with having been an accomplice of Walter Sheehan. Both prisoners were booked for burglary, and Mrs. Carry Sheehan was charged with being an accessory. Sheehan was arrested Friday morning and a large amount of property, said to have been stolen, was recovered.

HARANGUE STARTS FREE FIGHT.

Speech of Self-Styled Socialist Causes Trouble in West Madison Street.

A harangue by a man who announced himself as a socialist was followed by a free fight and a riot call at Madison and Halsted streets last night. Missiles were thrown and many blows were struck, but no one was seriously injured. Joseph Davis, 577 Canal street, and Moses Levy, 113 De Koven street, were arrested on charges of assault.

Meet Today to Discuss Legislation.

A meeting to consider current legislation will be held today at 4 p. m. in the office of Miss Lucy Page Gaston of the Anti-Cigaret league, 1119 Woman's Temple, 184 La Salle street.

OFFERS WAY TO CURB GREENBERG

Judge Carter Would Increase Bonds and Reduce Number of Constables.

TWO BILLS ARE PENDING.

Legislature Is Asked to Eradicate Evils of the Justice Shop System.

Two bills intended to relieve Chicago of some of the evils of the present constabulary system are before the legislature, having been drafted by Judge O. N. Carter.

One measure provides that the bond of the constables may be from $2,000 to $30,000, as the judge may elect.

The other plans to reduce the number of constables from 200, which number are now trying to eke out a living by acts of oppression, to sixty or seventy. There would be enough honest work for the smaller number, and it is thought that much of the blackmailing would stop.

The raid by Louis Greenberg, the notorious, on the office of the Anti-Constable association Saturday afternoon has led to renewed agitation of the subject. There are now several indictments in the office of the state's attorney, and concerning them Mr. Deneen said:

"These are hard cases in which to secure convictions. Greenberg beat us in one case, and the others have been resting since. There have been so many cases pending that we have had to neglect some of them."

H. S. Sprogle, assistant state's attorney, to whom Mr. Deneen intrusted the Greenberg indictments, offered the same explanation.

Tells Evils of the System.

The fee system for constables and for justices of the peace is held by Judge Carter to be wrong.

"Wipe out the fee system," he said last evening. "This system is all wrong. The pay of these officials should not depend upon the fees collected. Until this is done there can be no complete relief and there can be no great change from the manner in which constables now carry on their work.

"The worst exponent of this system is found in Greenberg. In him is seen the worst that can be made of the office. Shrewd, unscrupulous, with an unspeakable nerve, and ready to take any advantage, he is a terror to those who fall into the hands of the justice courts.

"It has been said that there are many dead beats and dishonest people who would never pay a cent if it was not for just such officers as this Greenberg. This is not true. That class manages to evade the courts and the constables, if they are smart enough to beat their bills they can beat the constables. It is the ignorant, poorer class that suffers—not the dishonest class. And it is a wonder that the man who has most often oppressed them lives to tell the tale.

Too Many Constables Now.

"I would reduce the number of constables to sixty or seventy. This number would have enough honest work to do to make a respectable living. Then I would urge that the bond be increased. Just now Greenberg's case is in point. There is more than $200,000 demanded of him in various suits. There is about $1,000 in judgments hanging over him. His bond is the limit, $10,000. If more of these cases are decided against him, where will the complainants come in?

"In addition to this, I would compel the constable not to hide the property that is seized on executions. Many times the seized property is sold, and the owner does not know where it is sold, nor to whom, nor for what amount.

"Greenberg is under indictment for criminal offenses. Why is he not prosecuted under these indictments? I suppose that the state's attorney and his assistants think there are matters of greater importance than these, and that the Greenberg cases are being held back in consequence.

Liable for Malfeasance.

"When Greenberg was before me a year and a half ago he was taken to the grand jury and indicted. Then his attorney discovered a technical flaw in the indictment and the case was thrown out of court. I held at that time that a constable could be tried under the statute for malfeasance in office and the Circuit judges sustained my opinion. And there are a number of instances for which he could be likewise indicted. I am not disposed to criticise the state's attorney's office, but I do not know why these cases have not been pushed.

"But it all goes back to my first statement that the system is all wrong. It must be all wiped out before there can be any complete relief. The legislature should act and act at once. Greenberg, after all, may be a blessing to Chicago, in that he is calling attention to the evils of the system. I am surprised that he 'broke out' again before the adjournment of the legislature."

TWO PERSONS ARE INJURED WHEN STREET CARS CRASH.

Trolley Car Runs Into a Cable Train in Halsted Street and Faulty Brakes Are Blamed.

Two persons were injured and a number of others shaken up by a collision between a Fourteenth street electric car and a Halsted street cable train last night. The injured:

Solon, Edward, 127 Wells street; knees cut; taken home in a carriage.

The cable train was southbound, and while passing the Fourteenth street crossing a westbound electric car bumped into it. Motorman J. Griffin of the electric car said that the brakes failed to work.

While crossing the Chicago Junction railroad tracks at Forty-fifth and Loomis streets Julius Frandenthal was killed by a southbound switch engine. Frandenthal, who lived at 1514 West Fiftieth street, was 50 years old and a laborer.

James Murtaugh, who lived in West Superior street, died at the county hospital from injuries sustained when he fell from a Madison street cable car at Peoria street last Friday.

Frank T. Souster, who was run over by a St. Paul passenger train Saturday afternoon, also died yesterday at the county hospital. He was employed as a clerk by the railroad company.

Thomas McGaddie, 1530 West Congress street, slipped as he attempted to alight from a Madison street cable car and sustained injuries to his head and legs.

In attempting to alight from a moving Division street electric car in Lake street, between Market and Franklin, Harry Ellsworth, 388 Grand avenue, struck his head against one of the iron supports of the elevated structure. He sustained a severe scalp wound.

BAZAAR FOR NEW SYNAGOGUE.

Congressman Emerich Opens the Entertainment of the B'nai Moshe Congregation.

The seven days' bazaar of the Congregation B'nai Moshe was opened last night with a speech by Congressman Emerich. The bazaar is intended to raise money for finishing the new synagogue. The fair netted $300 last night. The synagogue will cost $35,000. The congregation needs $5,000 more to finish the interior. The congregation is at present holding services at the old synagogue, 452 South Paulina street.

Man Shot After a Dance.

John E. Risch, 936 Barry avenue, was shot in the foot yesterday morning by Charles Reske, following a quarrel in front of 732 Belmont avenue. The men had attended a dance and were on their way home when the dispute arose. Reske was arrested.

BURDICK CRIME BAFFLES INQUIRY

THINK SHE KNOWS LITTLE

Police Continue to Adhere to Theory, but Gain No Additional Facts.

Buffalo, N. Y., March 22.—[Special.]—The inquest into the death of Edwin L. Burdick is likely to end with the murder still a mystery unless something entirely unlooked for is developed. The district attorney says he has not evidence enough to warrant an arrest and sees no additional facts.

The chief witness, and probably the last important one, will be Mrs. Alice Burdick, the widow of the murdered man, and whom he was suing for divorce at the time he was killed.

Little Expected from Wife.

It has been expected up to today that the testimony of Mrs. Burdick would result in some sensational developments, but now the general impression is that Mrs. Burdick's examination will be of a perfunctory nature and will be as lacking in sensation as was that of Mrs. Gertrude Bernard Paine, the witness who seems to have been on equally friendly terms with those sworn enemies, Edwin L. Burdick and Arthur R. Pennell and their wives.

Mrs. Burdick has had a lawyer in her house constantly since the discovery of the murder, and has not spoken a hundred words concerning the tragedy, unless through him or in his presence.

Police Chief Clings to Theory.

Supt. Bull of the police department today reiterated his oft expressed opinion that Burdick was murdered by a woman, but he consistently refuses to say what woman. His only hint is that it was done by the woman with the strongest motive and leaves the public to guess who that may be.

Detective O. Loughlin of headquarters has been in Cleveland for several days and it is said has succeeded in persuading a man and a woman to come on to Buffalo and tell what they know if it is found that they are needed.

Paines Leave the City.

A mild sensation was created by the announcement that Mrs. Gertrude Bernard Paine and her husband, Dr. Seth T. Paine, had left Buffalo unexpectedly for New York.

The story again gained currency this morning that Mrs. Maria Hull, Burdick's mother in law, had broken down, but it was again denied at the house.

"Mrs. Hull is, of course, concerned," said Attorney Hartzell, "but otherwise she is all right. She is as anxious as anybody that the murderer of Mr. Burdick should be caught and brought to justice, but she has no suspicion and no theory as to who he may be."

A report that Mrs. Burdick and Mrs. Hull would today attend services at the Church of the Messiah, the pastor of which, the Rev. L. M. Powers, a week ago over his own signature, denounced Arthur R. Pennell as the murderer of Mr. Burdick, attracted a large crowd to that place, but neither of them was in the congregation.

Mr. Powers called at the Burdick residence a few days ago and asked for Mrs. Hull, it is said, but did not include Mrs. Burdick in his pastoral visit. It is among the possibilities that Mr. Powers will be asked to take the stand at the inquest tomorrow afternoon.

MOTHER RESCUES CHILDREN FROM A BURNING BUILDING.

South Chicago Woman Dashes Into the Smoke Filled Structure and Carries Out Three Little Ones.

Three children were imprisoned in a burning building in South Chicago yesterday, and might have lost their lives had not their mother gone to the rescue. The fire was in the clothing store of B. Brancik, 9000 Buffalo avenue.

Brancik and his wife were returning from church, when they saw smoke pouring out of the store, over which they live. Brancik dashed forward, broke in the front windows, and saved his books and a few valuables from the office, and at the same time Mrs. Brancik rushed up the stairway, where her three children had been left imprisoned behind locked doors.

The smoke was pouring from the upper story, and three firemen were dispatched to the rescue of the mother and her children. The firemen met Mrs. Brancik on the stairway, leading the eldest child, 9 years of age, and carrying two smaller children, one of whom was ill with the measles. When the children had been restored to safety the mother fainted.

Capt. Melaniphy of the South Chicago police station is investigating a rumor that the fire was of incendiary origin.

Mrs. Anna Martin was carried from her room at 537 Wabash avenue in an unconscious condition. A fire which did a nominal damage had filled the room with smoke.

HUSBAND, WIFE, AND CHILD DIE IN CINCINNATI HOME.

Note Left Signed by the Man Declares Wife Killed Herself and Baby, While He Committed Suicide.

Cincinnati, O., March 22.—[Special.]—Lying at the morgue here are the bodies of A. M. Betty, his wife, an extremely handsome young woman, and their 2 year old son. The entire family died by asphyxiation, but the circumstances are shrouded in mystery.

The police do not know whether Betty and his wife, after a quarrel, agreed to die together after first murdering the child, or whether the wife killed the child and herself, and the husband, returning home, found what had happened and then ended his own life. The only cause for that theory is a note left by the dead man, in which he accuses his wife of having killed the child and laying the blame for all the trouble on her. Circumstances are such, however, that the theory seems improbable.

Betty had been local manager for a milling company about two years, coming here from St. Louis, where he held a similar position. They lived in an expensive flat at Gilbert avenue and Morris place, a fashionable neighborhood. A year ago they had a violent quarrel, and Mrs. Betty declared she would sue for a divorce. Mutual friends reunited them and the neighbors say that since then there has been no trouble.

BIG SNOW STORM IN MISSOURI.

Traffic Delayed and Telegraph and Telephone Service Suffers—Weather Is Colder.

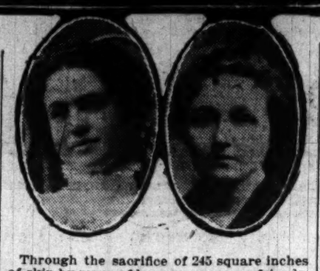

St. Joseph, Mo., March 22.—The heaviest snow storm of the year set in at 5 o'clock this afternoon and an hour later railway traffic was greatly impeded. Telegraph and telephone wires are only partially in operation. The flakes are the largest seen here, and the northern part of the state was soon covered to a depth of from six to twelves inches.

Colder at Kansas City.

Kansas City, Mo., March 22.—Following a drop in the temperature which began at noon today, one of the heaviest snow storms of the year is in progress tonight. The fall of snow has been steady for hours, but it has melted rapidly and it is not more than an inch deep on the level. The storm is accompanied by a stiff north wind and is general over northern Missouri and Kansas. At Junction City, Kas., the snow is six inches deep, and Abilene, Emporia, Atchison, and other Kansas points report a fall of from two to four inches.

YOUNG WOMAN WHO WAS OPERATED ON BY SKIN GRAFTING, AND SIX FRIENDS WHO MADE THE TREATMENT POSSIBLE.

Through the sacrifice of 245 square inches of skin by seven of her young woman friends, Miss Winnie Collins, a patient in the Policlinic hospital, will be able to retain the use of her legs. The skin, which was removed in patches of thirty-five square inches from each of the young women, was grafted last week, and, although the seven friends are nursing their own wounds, Dr. Duncan R. MacMartin, who performed the operation, announced yesterday that it was a success.

Miss Collins, a seamstress, who was employed and lived at the Grand Pacific hotel, received severe burns on Jan. 31 while trying to assist another seamstress whose clothing was ignited by a gasoline explosion. Miss Collin' skirts caught fire and both her legs were burned from the ankles to the knees. She was taken to the Policlinic hospital, where it was decided that skin grafting would have to be employed.

FLEE FROM THE FLOODS.

STEAMER BRINGS FOUR HUNDRED PERSONS TO VICKSBURG.

Situation Is Critical in the Vicinity—The River Is Rising and Washes Over the Levees—A Great Cave in the Bank at Fitlers Has Taken 2,000 Sacks of Sand Without Effect—Condition Less Serious at Memphis, but Bad at Natchez.

Vicksburg, Miss., March 22.—Officers of the steamer City of St. Joseph, which reached here this afternoon from Greenville, report a critical state of affairs along the Issaquena county front. All along the line the water is almost on a level with the crown of the levees, and at several points it is washing over.

The new work is holding badly, and at Fitler's a great cave has appeared in the old levee. Into this cavity 2,000 sacks filled with sand have been dumped without perceptible effect.

The private levee protecting the Hamp Davis place in Issaquena county gave way this afternoon, flooding thousands of acres of cultivated land. The breaking of this levee will seriously affect the weakened levee extending from Duvalls to Ghotard, a distance of four miles, and news of a break in that line is momentarily expected.

Plans to Cut Levee.

Inspector Dulaney, who is in charge of the work there, has about decided to cut the old levee at half a dozen places, as a sudden break would be disastrous to the new levee further back. This is vigorously opposed by the people living between the levees and feeling is said to be running high.

At Duval's, and from Brunswick to Ghotard, there is imminent danger at several points, where larger forces of laborers are working day and night.

The City of St. Joseph brought in more than a hundred refugees, men, women, and children, from the Davis and Kiger places, and will go back as soon as discharged for others who are imperiled by backwater.

Cattle in Danger.

Four hundred head of stock have been concentrated on the high places at Australia awaiting removal, but it is feared that most of these will be swept away before a boat can be secured for bringing them out. On the Louisiana side, about Pilcher's point, conditions similar to those at Fitler's exist, and it is feared it will be impossible to hold the line much longer.

The gauge here tonight registers 50.6 and is rising, and the under the hill section of the city, embracing the wholesale district, the railroad shops, and the compress, is well covered with water.

River Falls at Memphis.

Memphis, Tenn., March 22.—The river continues to slowly fall at this point, the gauge tonight registering 39.6 feet. The flood conditions are becoming brighter, and it is generally accepted that the worst is over. Reports from the levees both north and south of Memphis are that they are holding.

The railroads west of the river will be open for traffic by Wednesday next, it is believed. More refugees arrived today from the south and are being taken care of by the authorities. The shipment of tents by the government from Jeffersonville, Ind., is expected tomorrow, and a refugees' camp will be pitched with ample accommodations for all destitute flood sufferers.

Much Danger at Natchez.

Reports from Natchez state that while the weather today has been most unfavorable for effective levee work, it was found necessary to send more men to the Sycamore levee in Concordia parish, La. It was expected that the grade would be reached yesterday, but when daylight broke this morning the work was so far behind that the New Orleans and Northwestern railroad sent sixty men to the front. There has not been enough sunshine to dry out the earth with which the men have to work. The fears of the people have been increased by the continued rise in the river, and while the levee men and engineers contend that Sycamore will hold, old timers who have experienced the high waters are skeptical, as a heavy pressure is yet to come. The Natchez gauge tonight reads 49.30, a rise of .2 in the last twenty-four hours, and rising.

Work Holds Well.

Greenville, Miss., March 22.—The river tonight stands 48.4 and by morning will possibly reach 48.5. The protection dike at Leland, Ark., still remains, and not a foot has been lost since the revetment work of rock was put in. At Huntington, Miss., the situation continues bright and the task of strengthening the new work is being rushed.

COLORED BISHOP HOPEFUL FOR FUTURE OF THE RACE.

Tells African Methodist Audience Negroes Do Not Want Pensions, but Do Want Liberal Education.

New York, March 22.—Bishop W. B. Derrick of the New York diocese of the African Methodist Episcopal church, and the Rev. Dr. R. D. Stinson, commissioner of the Morris Brown college of Atlanta, Ga., an institution for the education of negroes, addressed a congregation of colored people in the Bethel African Methodist Episcopal church in this city today.

Bishop Derrick pointed out that education for the masses, both white and black, in the south is deficient, and continued: "What the colored people of the south need is the passage of a bill like the Blair measure in the last congress. That bill is based on a sound conception of the educational needs of the southern negro. We do not ask the nation to pension us. We ask the nation, though, to educate us so that we can support ourselves."

Negro Shoots Four Persons.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 22.—John Willis and Mrs. Laura Jeffries were killed and Frank Rowden and Mrs. Lucy Coleman were wounded by Albert Wright tonight at the home of Mrs. Coleman, 426 East Wabash street. Wright had been calling on Cora Carr, a visitor at the house. He chased her through the house. Willis tried to quiet him and was killed. Wright then shot Mrs. Jeffries through the heart and emptied his gun at Rowden and Mrs. Coleman. The Carr girl escaped by hiding under a bed in a rear room. Wright escaped and is being pursued. All are negroes.

three separate times by three different presidents-elect and in the last case in addition was offered the position of secretary of state.

In each case the offer was declined and in two out of the three cases a man suggested by Allison from his own state was put into the cabinet, and in the odd case was given an assistant's berth.

Garfield, Harrison, and McKinley have all passed beyond the river, two of them victims of assassins' bullets, and yet Mr. Allison looks as young and as vigorous as ever, although he has just concluded thirty years' service in the United States senate.

President Roosevelt has given a shock to worshipers of historic associations by converting the cabinet room of the renovated White house into what he playfully calls a "department of physical culture." A few days ago the president was showing a party of luncheon guests through the new rooms upstairs on the bedroom floor. The rooms were formerly occupied by the clerical force and have mostly been converted into sleeping apartments for members of the presidential family and guests, and Mr. Roosevelt called attention to the fact that the rooms in which the prince of Wales slept, and in which Garfield suffered his long illness, have been only slightly changed.

At length the old room used for cabinet councils during the administrations of a dozen presidents was reached, and when the door was opened all the guests rubbed their eyes and wondered if they were dreaming. The well worn cabinet table and bookcases, maps, globes, engravings, clocks, chairs, rugs, chandeliers, bronze and marble busts of statesmen and soldiers, all were gone, and in their places were floor mats, shields, boxing gloves, wire masks, fencing gloves, padded vests, swords, foils, single sticks, and other athletic paraphernalia. The White house guests of the future will have their historic room described to them not as a council chamber that is gone by but as a room in which Gen. Wood thumped the president over the head with a broadsword, raising a bump as large as a bird's egg on the presidential forehead, or where the doughty warrior rapped Roosevelt on the wrist with a "single stick," putting it out of business for several days, with a few graphic sentences as to what the president on various occasions did to Gen. Wood in the same line of athletic endeavor.

Until the president let his luncheon guests into the secret it was generally supposed the "department of physical culture" was located in the basement of the executive mansion in one of the rooms formerly used as a laundry, and so it was, temporarily, but the new bodily endeavor quarters are now in a more dignified location.

An interesting pamphlet has just been issued by the fish commission on the habits and culture of the black bass, it being the experience of nine seasons, beginning in 1894 at Cascade, Mich., and later at Mill Creek, by Dwight Lydell of the Michigan fish commission. The paper is valuable not alone to those interested in fish culture but to lovers of the hook and line generally, as, in describing the habits of the black bass, especially in spawning time, Mr. Lydell gives them almost human intelligence.

In his report the author makes the male bass the nest builder, and gives an illustration of a bass bed to be placed in a pond early in the spring to accommodate and expedite the work of nest building in ponds. The building of bass ponds is described even to the dimensions for spawning ponds, and the success of Mr. Lydell's theories is demonstrated by the fact that during the last season 430,000 fry were produced from 493 adult fish.

Another interesting bulletin for sportsmen is one on the hearing and allied senses of fish by G. H. Parker, in which it appears that the old time fisherman, who commanded silence on the water's side for fear of frightening away a bite, is out of date.

Mr. Parker says that the fishes' sense of hearing depends upon the sensitiveness of the skin, which is more or less susceptible to vibrations, rather than upon the ear sense of the hearing fish. Sound generated in the air has no effect upon the fish, but there are shown to be species that are effected by a sound under the surface of the water.

Mr. Parker's contribution to the literature of the fish commission is most attractively presented, with as few purely scientific terms as possible. Therefore it is intellible and highly interesting to the average rodman.

There will be no court of inquiry nor court martial as a result of Maj. E. G. Rathbone's allegations against Gen. Wood. The statements contained in the letter to the war department concerned circumstances familiar to the department officials, and, though Gen. Wood signified today his willingness to ask a court of inquiry, Secretary Root does not consider the charges made by Rathbone of sufficient importance to justify anything more than a formal reply to Gen. Wood. This answer has now been prepared and will be delivered to Secretary Root tomorrow morning.

WOOD STANDS ON RECORD.

GENERAL READY FOR ANY INQUIRY CONSIDERED NECESSARY.

In Answer to Rathbone Charges He Submits Written Statement of Facts to Secretary of War and Senate Committee—Does Not Want Newspaper Controversy, but Is Ready to Bear All Responsibility for His Actions.

Washington, D. C., March 22.—Brig. Gen. Leonard A. Wood today placed in the hands of the secretary of war a voluntary statement regarding the charges filed against him by Maj. E. J. Rathbone, ex-director general of Cuban posts. No official notice of Maj. Rathbone's charges had been taken by the secretary as yet, but Gen. Wood, on reading them, asked and received permission to file at the department a statement setting forth his side of the case before his departure for service in the Philippines.

In his statement to the secretary Gen. Wood denies that he received any but "purely personal" gifts while in Cuba.

Did Patronize the "Jai Allai."

As to his attendance on the "Jai Allai," a public institution at Havana at which the Spanish national game was played, Gen. Wood calls attention to the fact that the bishop of Havana was present at the dedication of the institution and conducted the service on that occasion.

As governor general of Cuba it was his policy, he says, to establish and maintain cordial relations with the people of the island, including the Spaniards, who were the influential element. He felt, he says, that it was but an appreciation of Spanish institutions for him to recognize and patronize the Spanish national game, which corresponds closely to the American game of racquets, and he made it a point to attend the "Jai Allai" quite often in the evenings, being accompanied by several of his aids. The latter, he says, received professional instruction in the game.

Received Gift from Spaniards.

The institution, Gen. Wood states, had a drinking and betting privilege legally granted by the authorities, and was attended in the evenings by from 2,000 to 3,000 people. Last May, on the Sunday before his departure, Gen. Wood says he was asked to receive a delegation of Spanish merchants, who desired to present him a personal testimonial of their esteem. This proved to be a handsome silver service. Gen. Tasker H. Bliss, then in charge of the customs service, Gen. Wood says, admitted the gift free of duty—first, because under the law no duty was collected on importations for officials and soldiers of the United States; and, secondly, because the law provided also for the free importation of household goods and personal effects which were not to remain permanently in the island. As the customs houses already had been closed, that the governor general might make a complete return of the funds in the treasury at the hour of the American evacuation, Gen. Bliss could issue no bond for the admission of the gift, but he personally examined it and caused its free entry.

Courts All Logical Inquiry.

Gen. Wood said tonight that he would leave with each member of the senate Cuban committee a copy of his statement to Secretary Root, and that he was ready at any time to appear before that committee to reply to any charges which might be brought against him. Gen. Wood authorized a statement of his position briefly as follows: "Gen. Wood is at any time ready and glad to appear before any congressional committee regarding any charges which may be brought against his record as governor general of Cuba. He refuses, however, to indulge in a newspaper controversy under any circumstances."

WOMEN DRAW COLOR LINE.

New Orleans Local Organization Determined Not to Entertain National Body if Negroes Are Admitted.

New Orleans, La., March 22.—[Special.]—The local council of women here has decided to give over all plans to entertain the national council of women if there are to be any negro delegates admitted.

One of the affiliated societies is made up of colored women, and its president is Mrs. Josephine S. Yates of Jefferson City, Mo. She has sent her proxy to Mrs. Sylvania F. Williams, a highly educated colored woman of this city.

Mrs. Williams declares she knows the sentiment here and does not intend to obtrude, and has advised Mrs. Yates to remain away.

The New Orleans women intend to entertain the national council if no colored women take part in the proceedings.

RUSH WORK ON NEW WARSHIPS.

Plans for Three 16,000 Ton Battleships Finished and Bids Will Be Opened on June 3.

Washington, D. C., March 22.—[Special.]—The plans for the three 16,000 ton battleships authorized by congress March 3, are finished and bids for their construction will be opened on June 3. This is a record unparalleled in the history of the modern navy. Usually the naval constructors require many months to discuss plans. Recent criticism of the navy department has worked the change.

In general dimensions and features the vessels will be practically identical with the Connecticut, now building at the New York navy yard, the most marked deviation being in the armor distribution.

Throughout the plans advantage has been taken of a year's progress throughout the naval world since the Connecticut was designed, as well as of the experience had with the development of detailed specifications for that vessel, and the new ships will be distinctly superior to their prototype in every quality of offense and defense.

Before being accepted the new battleships must withstand a twenty-four hour endurance trial at four-fifths of full power in addition to the customary four hours' maximum power run over the measured course, and where the Connecticut and the Louisiana, designed last year, are barely to reach eighteen knots' speed, today's ships must exceed eighteen knots.

The admirals of the board of construction are pressing energetically toward agreement on the two 13,000 ton battleships authorized on March 3, and have under consideration two alternative sketches—one for a ship of high speed and comparatively low battery power, and the other of comparatively slow speed and tremendous offensive and defensive qualities. A decision between these types, involving, as it does, abstruse questions of strategic policy, may not be reached for several weeks.

AWAIT WORD FROM ROOSEVELT.

Men in Charge of Reception Plans Expect to Hear from the President Today.

Plans for the reception of President Roosevelt are expected to reach a definite shape today. The executive committee will meet at the Union League club at 12:30, when the various subcommittees will be appointed and the tentative program discussed. The president's wishes will be known before night. It is not believed that any extension of the visit beyond the fifteen hours originally promised can be made, but otherwise it is understood that the president's time will be at the disposition of his hosts. Senator Hopkins will arrive in the city during the day. He called on the president before leaving Washington and was intrusted with several messages to the Chicago committee.

TWO THEORIES SET FORTH IN C. G. DENNISON'S CASE.

One Is That He Drowned Himself and the Other Is That He Is Being Held for Ransom—Chicago Clew Exploded.

Information came to light yesterday which leads to the theory that Charles G. Dennison, the Chicago merchant who is missing in Buffalo, may have committed suicide by jumping into the Niagara river just below the falls. Word comes from Buffalo that employés of the inclined railway have recognized a photograph of Mr. Dennison as bearing a close resemblance to a man who was seen loitering on the bank of the river last Friday, two days after Mr. Dennison disappeared. The man's actions were strange and he seemed to be under some mental strain.

The Buffalo police place little credence in the theory, however, as it is believed that if Mr. Dennison killed himself he did it on Wednesday, the day of his disappearance.

Another theory advanced in Buffalo, but which is not received seriously in Chicago, is that Mr. Dennison is being held a prisoner somewhere in Buffalo and that his captors will demand ransom.

It became known yesterday that Mr. Dennison did not leave for New York on the early morning train from Buffalo, as one man had testified. He was seen near his hotel more than an hour after the train had departed and seemed perfectly rational.

The story that Mr. Dennison had returned to Chicago, suffering from unexplained injuries, was traced down yesterday and found to be without foundation.

DR. ABBOTT TALKS OF CITY REFORM.

Is Not a Political Question, and Greed Is the Worst Enemy It Has.

ELEPHANT ATTACKS MAN.

NEW YORK BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE.
New York, March 22.

Dr. Lyman Abbott Discusses Municipal Reform.

The Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott lectured on "Municipal Reform" before the Political Study league yesterday. All but a few in the audience were women. In part Dr. Abbott said: "My object is to attempt to show you that municipal problems make up but one phase of the great problem of human life. For the individual the battle of life means a contest from the cradle to the grave. It is a battle between his higher and lower natures. I think every day is resurrection day.

"All virtue grows out of the struggles in life. Virtue is not innocence, it is the victory of temperance, and not merely abstinence from wine, beer, and cigars. It is among other things the control of the tongue. I am inclined to think Carrie Nation is the most intemperate person in the United States.

"All I want to make clear is that life is a battle for the nation and the municipality as well as for the individual. The city is a decisive battleground. In this campaign it is a Gettysburg in a great city like New York. There gather the criminals and lumpen elites to rob and to hide. Here gather the sensual forces to gamble, eat, drink, and make merry. Here come men who are eager for wealth, the persons who measure all things by the dollar mark, and here also great wealth is amassed and the speculators, the so-called reputable gamblers, who come to acquire wealth through the stock ticker.

"I don't quite know where the line is to be drawn between the reputable and the disreputable gamblers, but according to what appears to be the general understanding there is a difference. Here also come men and women who are fond of display, who go to the opera and the church to look at one another.

"In fine, here come the wolves that run, the swine that eat, and the peacocks that strut. On the other hand, there come the intelligent forces, the forces of sweetness and light, and the forces of great commercial enterprise. The great railroad is a great commercial enterprise. Its mission is something more than to pay dividends for stockholders. It is a great civilizer. I am not sure that an investment in a railroad is not of more intrinsic value than an investment in some of our colleges.

"Then, too, we have here the great newspapers. You may be surprised that I mention the newspapers of today among the civilizing forces, but such they are. We could get along without congress for a year, but I doubt much if we could get along without the newspapers for a single day.

"The question of municipal reform is not a political question. It is not to be solved either by the democratic party or the republican party. The fight here in New York has been against great odds. New York has been, with the possible exception of Philadelphia, the worst governed city in America.

"The greatest enemies of municipal reform are indifference, ignorance, and greed. Indifference is worse than ignorance, and greed is the worst of all. The chief sinners are men, but not the ones who live in tenements. They are the men who live in brown stone fronts and are regarded as the so-called better element in society. The chief cause of bad city government is the indifference of this so-called better class. The man who sells his vote for a job is not half so bad as the man who swears off his taxes and corrupts legislatures."

Circus Elephant Attempts to Kill Keeper.

Columbia, the daughter of Mandarin, the elephant who was strangled to death on the liner Minneapolis when it reached this port last fall with other circus animals, tried to kill Carl Bischoff, one of the elephant keepers now with the circus at Madison Square garden, today.

Columbia for several days has been acting ugly, and today as Bischoff was walking by she lashed out with her trunk, and while trying to get beyond her reach the keeper slipped and fell almost under the elephant. Columbia dropped on her knees and tried to get her huge bulk into a position that would allow her to crush him with her head.

In response to Bischoff's cries William Emory, the superintendent of the elephant department, and a crowd of employés went to the rescue. Emory jabbed a pitchfork into Columbia at the moment when she had almost got Bischoff into position where she could kill him. The others attacked her with pitchforks and goads and forced her back while Bischoff was dragged from danger. He was severely bruised, for Columbia had hit him with her trunk several times. Columbia's trumpetings of rage and pain excited the whole elephant herd and several tried to break away from their shackles.

Withdrawal of Whistlers Causes Comment.

When President Joseph Cassidy of Queens borough was in San Francisco on a vacation a couple of weeks ago he presented a $500 bill at the Palace hotel in payment for a dinner. The waiter brought his change all in gold. "Can't you give me part bills?" asked Cassidy. "There are none in the house," said the waiter.

Mrs. Wm. A. Duer Dies at the Waldorf-Astoria.

Mrs. William A. Duer died early this morning at the Waldorf-Astoria, where she had been ill for several weeks. Her daughter and only child, Mrs. Clarence H. Mackay, herself in poor health, remained with her to the last. In the afternoon, at her home, near Roslyn, Mrs. Mackay gave birth to a baby daughter. Mrs. Duer was Ellin Travers, daughter of William R. Travers and granddaughter of Reverdy Johnson of Maryland, who was attorney general of the United States and minister to the court of St. James.

Funston Declared a Liar by Dr. Parkhurst.

James S. Harlan, attorney general of Porto Rico, arrived here today on the steamer Ponce. Mr. Harlan says he will go to Washington to see the president and offer his resignation, to take effect the latter part of April. Private business of an urgent nature requires his attention at this time.

The Rev. Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst preached today on "Liars," and cited Gen. Funston as a horrible example of duplicity. He said "Funston disguised himself and his men in the uniforms worn by the Filipinos, crept upon Aguinaldo stealthily under that guise, tricked him by a forged letter, pretending his men were hungry, made capital out of the holy rite of hospitality, then flung Aguinaldo to the ground and made him a captive. They violated the laws of war, the laws of hospitality, and the laws of God and the people of the United States. Instead of mutinying against the act of damnable lying and perfidy, thought it a shrewd trick on Funston's part and the senate promoted him."

Heavier Wires from New York to Montreal.

There is much talk in the studio neighborhood today about the withdrawal by Charles L. Freer of his Whistler canvases from the exhibition of the Society of American Artists. On behalf of the jury it was said that they were of the opinion that Mr. Freer could not have been adequately informed of the circumstances when he sent his telegram withdrawing the Whistlers unless one of two specified places was given them. On the other hand it was said that the jury felt also it was hardly in accord with the dignity of a New York art society to accept absolute dictation from a resident of another city as to where to hang pictures in an exhibition conducted by the society.

SEEKS RE-ELECTION ON PROMISE TO MARRY.

MAYOR THOMAS G. HAYES.

Mayor Hayes of Baltimore, who is 59 years old and a bachelor, hopes to secure re-election on a promise that he will marry if given another term in office. He made the promise in a banquet speech, and said he had been told by a woman to whom he had made the same promise that if he meant what he said he would have the support of every woman in Baltimore. It is believed the unnamed woman with whom he had talked will be mayoress if Mr. Hayes is reelected. He is the son of a clergyman and is an ex-confederate. He is a lawyer and was United States district attorney during Cleveland's first administration. He has been mayor of Baltimore since 1899.

Secret Society with Only Seven Members.

Probably the most exclusive organization in the city is a secret society lodge with only seven members, every one of whom is wealthy. The membership of the lodge never has been greater, although it is one of the oldest in the state. The meeting place is said to be the most luxuriously equipped lodgeroom in the city, and the paraphernalia owned by the lodge represents a small fortune. The membership is just large enough to fill in rotation the offices prescribed by the constitution, and it has been agreed among the members that the number shall never be increased beyond seven. New members are proposed only when vacancies are caused through the death of old ones. As a rule, a son or other male relative of a dead member is chosen to fill his place. The order of which this lodge forms a subordinate part does not look upon it with unmingled favor, and some outsiders condemn it unequivocally and threats have been made that the lodge would be compelled either to increase its membership or surrender its charter, but the opposition has always been stranded on the lavish generosity which the lodge displays toward all charitable institutions organized under the auspices of the order.

More Gamblers Found on Masonic Rosters.

The unexpected discovery of the notorious Shang Draper's membership in the Masonic fraternity in Doric lodge has set all the lodges to work on a close inspection of the membership lists in order to weed out the objectionable Masons. It was learned last night that William T. Burbridge, the alleged proprietor of a gambling house raided by District Attorney Jerome, was accepted by Pioneer lodge after his rejection by the Crescent lodge. He is the defendant in a suit brought by a man who claimed to have lost $11,000 at cards. Frank Farrell, it is just learned, is on the Crescent roster. Al Adams, the policy king, is reported to belong to Platt lodge. C. P. Pearce, grand master of Crescent lodge, is said now to have gone into the matter and will dig through to the bottom.

Heavier Wires from New York to Montreal.

As soon as the weather will permit the Western Union Telegraph company and the Great Northwestern Telegraph company will again take up the work of joining New York and Montreal with heavy wires to meet the increasing business between the two points. Just before winter the Western Union ran a line from New York City to Whitehall, a distance of 228 miles. At Whitehall it connects with the line of the Great Northwestern, which will stretch a wire a distance of 163 miles to Montreal.

John J. Reilly, a Miner, Found Dead in Bed.

John J. Reilly was found dead today in his bed in the Grand Union hotel. He went to the hotel March 9, registering as coming from El Paso, Tex. A one ounce vial was found beside him, in which was some laudanum. Several papers relating to mining deals indicated that the man was in financial difficulties. In a letter addressed to his wife the man said he was much disheartened, and that he had lost considerable money in mining operations. The papers indicated that Mr. Reilly was a representative of the Copper River Mining company.

John J. Coughlin's Horses Cause Trouble on Boulevard and His Coachman Is Arrested.

John Brady, coachman for Ald. Coughlin, was locked up at the Fiftieth street police station yesterday charged with fast driving. Brady was booked on two charges, violation of the park ordinances and disorderly conduct.

Park Policeman Timothy Howard saw the pair attached to a runabout running south in Grand boulevard. Before the policeman had come abreast of the horses the alderman's rig had locked wheels with another vehicle, nearly throwing the occupants out.

NAVIGATION SEASON AT HAND.

Ice Leaving the Straits and Vesselmen Are Preparing to Put Their Boats Into Commission.

From the present indications the straits of Mackinac will be open for navigation before the end of the week. Boats are now making the run between Port Huron and Detroit without difficulty, and navigation has been fully opened between Detroit and Cleveland. Commencing today the night custom house at Rush street bridge will be open for the reporting and clearing of vessels between 8 a. m. and midnight.

SUPPOSED DEAD MAN FOUND.

Casimiro Ciccone, Insured for $10,000 by New York Gang and Certified as Buried, Arrested in Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 22.—New York detectives who came here on the million dollar insurance frauds found one of the indicted men in the person of Casimiro Ciccone, an Italian, 82 years old. Ciccone's life, it is said, was insured for $10,000 three years ago, and a year later a body alleged to be his was buried. The insurance on his life was paid. The prisoner is too feeble to remove to New York and can hardly live six months longer.

DENIES A ROYAL SCANDAL

DENTIST SAYS HE WAS NOT BANISHED FROM SAXONY.

Dr. Lewis A. O'Brian, Whose Name Was Connected with the Affairs of Crown Princess Louise, Reaches New York —Says He Knew Her Only as a Patient and Friend and Never Saw Giron, with Whom She Eloped — Left to Avoid Court Edict.

New York, March 22.—[Special.]—Dr. Lewis A. O'Brian, the American dentist who, it was alleged, was expelled from Germany because of the intimacy said to have existed between him and Crown Princess Louise of Saxony, arrived with his wife and son, Etienne O'Brian, on the steamship Pretoria today.

Dr. O'Brian denied the accusations that were brought against him while abroad. In this he was supported by his wife, who apparently has the utmost faith in her husband. He emphatically denied that he had been officially expelled from Saxony.

He said he had heard such a report when he got to Plymouth, but the truth of the matter was that on learning from his partner that the Saxon officials had been talking of some such action, he would not wait to give them the chance. He said:

"It was in anticipation of such an order that I left after having been warned. My reputation in Dresden and my wife's popularity were such that we received a regular ovation when it was learned that we were going, and we received scores of sympathetic callers on the eve of our departure."

The dentist said Princess Louise was his patient and a friend of his family, and that when her visits to his family became the subject of gossip in Dresden he had them stopped. He said he had never taught her to ride a bicycle nor did they go bicycle riding together.

"I explained to the grand duchess what was being said and suggested that she ask her daughter not to call at my home," he continued. "She did so and the princess was never again at my home. I attended her ten days before she ran away, but all the ladies in waiting were present."

O'Brian said he had never before the scandal seen or heard of Giron, the tutor with whom the princess eloped.

"The whole trouble, in my opinion," he added, "might have been avoided if the grand duchess had followed her daughter to Geneva and staid there with her until she came to her senses.

"It is not true that the princess has for a long time been an immoral woman, even if the king is reported as saying so. My theory of the case as a friend and professional man is that the princess became temporarily deranged as a result of her condition and was seized with a notion to run away, but she went first with her brother, and there surely was no scandal in that. He accompanied her to Geneva and was with her there a week. If her mother had gone that week the Giron scandal might have been averted."

LEAVES MILLIONS FOR SCHOOL.

Arioch Wentworth, Who Died in Boston, Gives Daughter Only Small Part of Estate.

Boston, Mass., March 22.—[Special.]—Arioch Wentworth, who died in this city last Thursday, left the bulk of his property, estimated to be worth $7,000,000, to be applied to the foundation and maintenance of an industrial school in Boston. The will is sure to be contested, as it practically cuts off Wentworth's daughter, Mrs. Willoughby Stuart, wife of the former British consul in this city, who got into financial difficulties a few years ago. Mrs. Stuart stood by her husband through his troubles when divorce proceedings would have pleased her father better. Her course in this particular is believed to have led to her being cut off with an annuity of $12,000. Mrs. Stuart has engaged counsel to contest the will.

SELL GOODS TWENTY YEARS OLD

Store That Was Closed Two Decades Ago Will Be the Scene of a Rummage Sale.

Syracuse, N. Y., March 22.—[Special.]—Twenty years ago George W. Phillips kept a general store at Homer. At that time he was made president of the Homer National bank and suddenly closed the store, not waiting to dispose of the stock. The door was locked and the windows were boarded up. For twenty years the stock has remained undisturbed on the shelves. Mr. Phillips recently gave a library to the village, and his daughter has consented to allow the Leisure Hour club, which has undertaken to furnish the library, to sell this old stock at a rummage sale. Mr. Phillips died a short time ago.

Organize to Secure an Increase in Salary and Demand Will Be for One Hundred Dollars Yearly Advance.

Lynn, Mass., March 22.—[Special.]—The possibility of a strike in the police department suggests itself in the organization of the police officers for an increase in salary. The several divisions met today and selected committees to confer and decide what the sum asked for shall be and to make such recommendations as may be in the interest of the force. The salary of police officers is $900 a year and they believe that they are entitled to an increase of $100 a year.

NEWS OF THE THEATERS.

THE TEMPEST.
A Comedy in Four Acts.
BY WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE.

Presented at McVicker's Theater, Chicago, by Louis James and Frederick Warde and Their Company on March 22, 1903. The Cast:

Prospero, rightful duke of Milan.....Mr. Warde
Antonio, his brother.....Mr. Alexander Carleton
Alonzo, king of Naples.....Mr. Seymour Stratton
Sebastian, his brother.....Mr. Thomas Weadock
Ferdinand, son to king of Naples.....Mr. Norman Hackett
Gonzalo, an old counselor.....Mr. J. H. Hollingshead
Trinculo, a jester.....Mr. Thomas Coffin Cooke
Stephano, a drunken butler.....Mr. Wadsworth Harris
Ariel.....Miss Edith Fassett
Miranda, daughter to Prospero.....Miss Teresa Maxwell

The production of "The Tempest," which was offered at McVicker's theater last evening by Louis James and Frederick Warde and their company, was in most respects a worthy one, being characterized by earnestness of purpose and dignity of treatment. That it failed more markedly perhaps than any play has failed in many months to appeal to the audience assembled to witness it is not to be laid at the door of the performance itself. The Sunday night patrons of McVicker's are not accustomed to Shakspeare, and the delicate fantasy that distinguishes "The Tempest" is entirely too elusive and subtle to appeal to them. That there was not a single curtain call after any of the eleven scenes and that only once in the course of the evening was a speech by any actor applauded tells how unfortunately placed is such a production in a theater devoted regularly to melodrama.

The practicability of staging "The Tempest" has ever been open to question. It, like "A Midsummer Night's Dream," contains so predominating an amount of the supernatural that much which the poet's fancy conceived, and the reader's imagination can picture, the artistry of the stage cannot present save in a manner that impresses at once as being too material and solid to satisfy. The fairy world is delightful when conjured up in the dreamings of the study, but when the actor and the stage mechanism attempt to realize it before the physical eye the result is bound to fall short of complete success, and not infrequently becomes ridiculous.

The production Mr. James and Mr. Warde now offer of "The Tempest" averages unusually well in its approximation to the reasonably satisfactory, and while the spectator must need be well supplied with imagination would he enjoy the pleasure of unbroken illusion when witnessing the performance, the production as a whole calls for ample recognition as a serious, painstaking, and generally successful attempt to stage the most dramatically impossible of all the Shakspearean plays.

The production made here in 1889 by the late J. H. McVicker had about it more of the atmosphere of poetry and fantasy than does the present one, the stage pictures being better lighted and the frequent employment of gauze drops adding much to their effectiveness.

One of the most serious faults to be found with the performance watched last evening was the lighting. Scenery that is exceptionally elaborate for a traveling production, and which should have proven of no inconsiderable beauty, has been supplied, but its worth was in nearly every instance lessened and in certain instances destroyed by being so glaringly and garishly lighted that all suggestion of atmosphere was lost. The third scene of the first act, for example, might have been made a transformation of a goodly amount of effectiveness, had not the calcium been so aggressively thrown on it that every stroke of the paint brush and every thread in the canvas was forced on the spectator's consciousness. And every other scene suffered in more or less degree from this defect—a defect which in "The Tempest" of all plays becomes almost fatal.

Aside from this shortcoming in presentation, however, the setting shows good taste and careful thought. The sets are all picturesque, the storm scene being skillfully managed, and the various views of different parts of the island being well designed and satisfactorily executed. The material for the stage pictures has been supplied—could it but be as skillfully presented as it deserves to be the result would be commendable in more than average degree.

Of the performance itself, it was uneven in merit, ranging from the excellent work of Mr. Warde and Mr. James to the inadequate of the minor principals and supernumeraries. The Prospero of Mr. Warde is a portrayal possessing dignity, fine balance, repose, and nicety in light and shade. The deposed duke takes on impressive individuality in his hands, and the auditor is made to feel the quiet power and compelling strength that belonged to this master of the elements of air and sea. In movement, bearing, and gesture Mr. Warde showed the training that his long schooling in the legitimate has brought him, and his reading of the Shakspearean text was as music to the ear. Had the performance brought us nothing more than the opportunity again to hear the bard's verse read as Mr. Warde and Mr. James read it, it would have been welcome.

Mr. James as Caliban offered a piece of dramatic work worthy of place beside the Prospero of Mr. Warde. The ugly son of the "foul witch Sycorax" became a credible creature as embodied by him, not only the mask and costume being admirable, but the motions, carriage, and manner of speech suggesting the bestial, ugly nature of the creature. There were no "big moments" in Mr. James' performance, but it was throughout one of real excellence, and not quickly to be forgotten.

As Ariel Miss Fassett was acceptable, and to be even that in this part is no slight achievement. The sprite of the air is a poetic conception so delicate, so fine, that in order to embody it adequately powers and gifts beyond those vouchsafed the human would be required. The playfulness and roguery of the part are alone enough to make it almost impossible, and the invisibility and swiftness of movement are capable of suggestion only in extremely limited degree. Miss Fassett is sprightly and physically delicate enough to assume the rôle, even though her want of mastery of the art of facial make-up causes her to so disfigure herself that all impression of beauty is lost. In movement she is quick and nimble, even though at times not so graceful as could be desired. She reads the lines of the part acceptably and dances neatly, but she should refrain from singing.

Miss Maxwell was a pleasing Miranda, suggesting with fair measure of success the utter innocence and girlishness of the banished maid. She, like Miss Fassett, should, however, study the art of making up. Mr. Hackett as Ferdinand was good looking and graceful and read his lines acceptably. He should not sing, though, and if he would consider the supposed weight of the logs he is carrying in the third act and handle them accordingly he would improve the scene. His "mistress may make labors pleasures," but she did not make the logs so light that they could be handled as one would a cane.

Mr. Wadsworth and Mr. Cooke did some clever low comedy work as Stephano and Trinculo, but of the players who appeared as Alonzo and his companions it is kindliness not to speak. They could have been worse, perhaps, but it is subject for congratulation that they were not.

Hamlin Popular.

It was a varied program George Hamlin arranged for his popular yesterday afternoon at the Grand opera house, but a program that afforded much of pleasure and quiet musical satisfaction. Mr. Hamlin himself contributed a group of four Irish folk songs—two selections with harp accompaniment and a duet with Mrs. Sue Harrington Furbeck. Mrs. Furbeck was heard in a number consisting of four songs, Emil Liebling played a group of piano compositions, and Enrico Tramonti, the harpist of the Chicago orchestra, delighted the audience by his performance of three selections. The unmistakable hit of the afternoon was made by Mr. Tramonti, his work so rousing his hearers that two encores were demanded.

Rarely indeed does it fall to the lot of any harpist so completely to captivate his public as this newcomer from Geneva has done both times he has appeared since his arrival in the city a few weeks ago. The Chicago orchestra patrons received him as something entirely unusual, and yesterday the Hamlin audience was unqualified in its approval of him and his work. And the approval was merited. In the hands of this player the harp takes on unaccustomed beauties and reveals qualities and powers not before suspected. The monotony that as a rule characterizes any lengthy performance on the harp is absent in Mr. Tramonti's work, thanks to his truly exceptional ability in so shading and varying the tonal quality and quantity of his instrument that contrast and variety are at his command. He makes his music interesting as well as beautiful, and the result is a pleasure all the more keen because unexpected.

His selections yesterday were "Melancholie," by Godefroid; "Welsh Melodie," by Thomas; and Fantasie, by Alvers, to which were added as encore the "David's Triumphal March" and a shorter, lighter number.

Mr. Hamlin chose of the Charles Wood versions of the Irish folksongs "I'd Roam the World Over with You," "Over Here," "When We Were Boy and Girl," and "Kerry Gow." He seemed not to have made them so thoroughly his own as he usually does the songs he sings—the impression left being that he felt less at home with them than is generally the case, and it was not until he came to the Goring Thomas "Wind in the Trees," which he always gives admirably, and the Siciliana from "Cavalleria" that he compelled his hearers' full attention and admiration.

Mr. Liebling was in exceptionally fine form and played so as to win approval such as would know no refusal of an additional number. There was technical clearness, paired with complete musical grasp of the composition in hand, in the pianist's performance yesterday, and the result was enjoyment to all concerned. Grieg's "A Wedding Day" was marked "new." It proved a rhythmically taking, melodious piece of writing, with all the earmarks of the gifted Norwegian's style, and its popularity seems highly probable. Mr. Liebling played it with spirit and excellent taste and with evident liking.

Mrs. Furbeck contributed the "Pilgrim's Song" by Tschaikowsky, Grieg's "With a Water Lily," and "My Thoughts Are as the Mighty Hills," and Nevin's "Daybreak." She was in better voice than when last heard at these concerts, and her singing pleased her hearers so that they asked for an additional number. W. L. HUBBARD.

ACTRESS' GOWN RUINED BY ACID

Miss Georgia Caine's Costume Destroyed by Person Actuated by Personal or Professional Jealousy.

When Miss Georgia Caine appears in the title rôle of "Peggy from Paris" tonight she will wear a gown different from that which she has worn heretofore during the first act of the play. The gown has fallen a victim to personal or professional jealousy and will end its career in the rag bag. Some unknown malefactor or malefactress destroyed the gown by sprinkling sulphuric acid over it. The deed was discovered yesterday morning. Miss Caine reported her discovery to the management, but up to a late hour last night no clew of the perpetrator had been discovered.

ACTRESS DIES MYSTERIOUSLY.

Alice Roseland Expires Suddenly in Her Home in Washington—Police Are Investigating.

Washington, D. C., March 22.—Mrs. Cora H. Wilber, an actress, the wife of Arthur R. Wilber, manager of Hoyt's "A Texas Steer" company, and until three years ago the star in that production under the stage name of Alice Roseland, died suddenly tonight at her home in this city. She was 29 years of age and had been in poor health for some time. In the room where the woman died the police found a bottle nearly full of wood alcohol, two empty bottles which had contained paregoric, and a bottle of Jamaica ginger. The body was removed to the morgue and tomorrow an inquest will be held to determine the cause of death.

RUMORED FAIR CASE IS SETTLED

Brothers of Mrs. Fair Decline to Discuss the Matter and It Is Thought Negotiations Are On.

Newmarket, N. J., March 22.—Abe Nelson and William Smith, the half and full brothers of the late Mrs. Charles Fair, refused to discuss today a report that the claims of the relatives of Mrs. Fair to the Fair estate had been settled for $250,000. A friend of the family, who is in a position to speak, said he doubted that such a settlement had been effected. From his manner of talking it could be inferred that negotiations to settle on that basis are in progress. It is said that a representative of Mrs. Oelrichs recently made several trips to this place and to Plainfield.

STUDIES ANCIENT INDIAN RACE.

German Professor Reaches Mexico City with Valuable Record of His Observations.

Mexico City, March 22.—[Special.]—Dr Wilhelm Bauers, sent by the Royal Ethnological museum at Berlin for the purpose of studying the Mazatecas, an ancient tribe of Indians, about a thousand of whom are surviving, has arrived here from the state of Oaxaca. He visited the districts of Teotitlan, Del Calino, Cuicotlan, and Tuxtepec, and found that the Mazatecas retain their old customs and superstitions. The men are fonder of alcohol than work. Physically the members of the old race are in excellent condition.

CAKEWALK IN SOCIETY IS BECOMING A POPULAR FAD.

Latest Departure of Young New York Set Brings Out Some Sarcastic Comment from Henry Watterson.

New York, March 22.—[Special.]—Society has taken up the cakewalk, and today in many houses in fashionable New York may be heard the strains of "Darktown Is Out Tonight" as the women of the younger set step lightly through the measures of the Ethiopian dance. Their instructress is a graceful young negress, who is a danseuse and an actress. The dance they learn, for the cakewalk is in reality a dance, if far from a cross between a shamble and strut, too frequently mistaken for what may be picturesque and graceful. The modern cakewalk is grace, poise, and suppleness, animated by the irrepressible lightness of heart which distinguishes the African race.

Take Lessons at the Waldorf.

Classes of young women belonging to well known families in the metropolis meet several times a week at the Waldorf-Astoria for instruction. Men are learning it, too. The local instructress is Mrs. Ada Overton Walker.

Her verbal instructions epitomized are: "Keep the shoulders well back, let them swing easily, always bend from the knees, never from the hips, smile to show you enjoy it. Go slowly and easily; don't waltz, bound, or jump. A little flirtation is requisite, but don't flourish handkerchiefs."

Watterson Is Not Surprised.

Louisville, Ky., March 22.—[Special.]—Henry Watterson in a Courier Journal editorial says:

"The Courier-Journal has been asked by several esteemed contemporaries for an expression on this new departure. It is not, we take leave to parenthetically remark, altogether a new departure. Several of the swells named as of those present are known to have acted within their rights. If questioned, these might trace their own origin back to the rich, red blood of the Ethiopian, or, in some cases not so very far back either, they did but honor their race in honoring its dusky representative on the vaudeville stage.

"The Courier-Journal is not engaged in the work of sensational specification. It leaves that to the yellow journals. If it were it might reduce a great question to the dimensions of a vulgar scandal."

BLACKLIST LAW TO BE ADOPTED.

Johnson Says It Will Be Incorporated in New National Agreement.

CLUB OWNERS LIABLE.

They Also Will Be Expelled if Guilty of Infringing Upon the Rules.

New York, March 22.—[Special.]—Ban Johnson has returned to the west. He left here last night. Before going the president of the American league said the Delehanty-Davis cases were settled in so far as the National and American leagues were concerned, and that he thought both men would come to time.

"These cases only go to show," he continued, "that my proposition regarding an ironclaid blacklisting rule for contract jumpers should have been adopted at the Cincinnati peace conference. We are soon going to frame up a new national agreement and will embody that suggestion as one of the most important rules. The leagues were on the verge of accepting it at Cincinnati; they are on the verge of accepting it now, and I trust it will become a baseball law.

"The rule was suggested largely by the Delehanty-Davis cases. Our proposition was to blacklist not only the contract jumpers themselves but also the owners, managers, and go-betweens who assisted in their jumping. In the Delehanty-Davis cases, as they stood at that time, John T. Brush and Manager McGraw would have been punished equally with the players. The conference discussed the rule for two solid hours. The American league was in favor of its adoption, but some of the National leaguers desired more time. They had in view the effect of the rule on some of their own men. But it would be a good rule, and for the benefit of baseball must come."

COLTS GET PLENTY OF REVENGE

Knock Joe Corbett Out of the Box and Defeat Los Angeles by a Score of Eight to Nothing.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 22.—[Special.]—Chicago's Colts had their revenge on Joe Corbett and the local team today for the shutout the fighter's brother administered to them the other afternoon. Selee's men won from the Los Angeles team by a score of 8 to 0 and incidentally knocked Corbett out of the game in five innings.

There was a noticeable improvement in the playing of the Colts in all departments of the game, but especially in batting and base running. There is still room for some improvement in the latter, however. There were some fine fielding features in the game. Lawlor of the local aggregation caught a low line drive off his shoestrings in the ninth inning, but the bright spots in the contest were the pitching of Corridon, the fielding of Hanlon at first, Kling's throwing to second, and "Bobby" Dobbs' batting stunts.

The weather was perfect and a large crowd saw the game, which ran along uneventfully for two innings. In the third the Colts solved Corbett's delivery successfully. With one out Jones opened with a two bagger. Slagle flied out but Kling hit to center, and Dobbs followed with a three bagger, all of which amounted to two runs. A double steal, in which Casey and Hanlon figured in the fourth inning, gave the Colts another tally.

In the fifth the home team came near scoring when Lawlor lined out a three bagger, but he was thrown out at the plate trying to score on an infield hit. The Colts then had another batting bee. Slagle hit to short center and scored on Kling's three bagger. Dobbs sent John home with a double, went to third on Tinker's sacrifice, and scored on Casey's single.

That was enough for Corbett, and in the sixth he was succeeded by Gray. The Colts treated him with more consideration, but scored a run in the sixth and again in the seventh off him. Score:

SENATORS BEGIN WORK TODAY.

Many of Washington Players Already on Hand—Loftus Will Obey Orders Regarding Delehanty.

Washington, D. C., March 22.—[Special.]—Manager Loftus, Townsend, Clarke, Carey, Coughlin, Demontreville, Selbach, Lee, and Drill of the Senators are already here, and it was expected that, with good weather, the entire Washington team would get down to work tomorrow at the local park.

Manager Loftus has little to say about Delehanty's case. Before President Johnson issued his manifesto to the effect that Delehanty must play in Washington or remain idle Loftus was fully prepared to make a trade on even terms with any American league club, but he now says he will follow orders from headquarters.

Loftus says the Washington club would not be sold to local backers this season, as he and President Postal had decided to continue their control, under advice from President Johnson. The plan to move the ball park to the old National league grounds has been given up on account of the expense, $15,000 being required to make the change.

Selee Lets Young Hardy Go.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 22.—[Special.]—John Hardy, the promising player whom Manager Selee had on trial, has signed with the Los Angeles club of the Pacific Northwest league. Selee thinks he is a diamond in the rough, and advised the colt to join some club where he could be in the game every day.

STAGG TURNS TO BASEBALL.

Will Devote Attention to Candidates for University of Chicago Nine for Next Few Days.

Track athletes will stand aside for a little rest for a few days at the University of Chicago while Director Stagg takes his baseball candidates in hand and rounds them into form for the spring games. During vacation week the baseball men have been ordered to practice twice a day in order to season their muscles. The elimination process will go on at the same time so that Capt. Harper and Director Stagg will have a good idea of the personnel of the nine before the middle of April.

Many of the candidates have gone to their homes for a few days, but it is expected most of them will return for the games that have been arranged with high schools for the latter part of the week. Hyde Park high school will meet the Chicago candidates in a game Thursday afternoon, and Oak Park will work with the Chicago men on Marshall field on Saturday. Capt. Harper was not out with the men on Saturday, but will coach them this week.

Victorious after a nip and tuck struggle with Coach Conibear's University of Illinois team at Champaign Saturday night, the University of Chicago track team returned yesterday. Tommy Taylor broke the gymnasium record in defeating Kern in the quarter mile in the good time of :53⅗. Cahill and Hall did fast work in the half and mile runs, and Matthews surprised the Illinois men by winning the two mile.

IDLE DAY FOR WHITE SOX.

RAIN PREVENTS FIRST PRACTICE GAME SCHEDULED.

Isbell Reports for Duty with Weird Tale of His Adventures in Crossing the Mississippi and Its Flooded Districts, Spending Forty-eight Hours on a Steamboat — Comiskey Talks Hopefully of His Team and Praises New Men.

Mobile, Ala., March 22.—[Special.]—There was nothing doing in baseball here today. Something went wrong with the weather man's plans, and instead of warmth and sunshine it proved a Sunday of thunder storms. The all prevailing moisture prevented the first exhibition game of the season, forcing the White Sox to remain in doors.

The only gladsome incident to relieve the prevailing dreariness was the advent of Isbell, and when he arrived on an early morning train he met a warm reception from Comiskey and his clubmates.

Isbell dealt out a wild and weird tale of adventure on land and water. He started from Wichita, Kas., last Tuesday, but the train ran into the flooded country, sixty miles from Memphis. He was forced to board a steamboat at Jonesboro, Ark., and spent forty-eight hours cruising on the Mississippi rescuing negroes, horses, mules, and cows which were marooned in swamps. He finally reached Memphis and then came direct to Mobile. He says he is in good condition and looks the part.

Team Leaves Mobile Today.

The team starts for Montgomery tomorrow afternoon, Comiskey going to New Orleans to inspect the Cleveland team. He will rejoin the White Sox at Montgomery on Wednesday. He figures on playing three games with Montgomery.

Nothing has been heard as yet from Davis or Gleason, but Comiskey is still confident that both players will finally report.

After spending three days watching and coaching the work of his team, Comiskey said tonight:

"Don't quote me as saying that I have a bunch of world beaters, or that I think I have the pennant cinched. But you can say I am more than satisfied with the new men we have landed for the White Sox. They handle themselves like real ball players, and have shown me flashes which convince me that I have picked up a few lucky finds.

Pitching Staff Looks Good.

"I am satisfied with my string of pitchers. The old men in the lot—namely: Callahan and Patterson, are in better shape right now than they were on the 1st of June last year, while the four new men, White, Flaherty, Owens, and Dunkle, will surprise a few of the Chicago fans before the season is over.

"We are stronger behind the bat than before, because Sullivan is already in shape to play hard ball, while McFarland's throwing arm has finally rounded into shape and is now as good as ever. I admit that the infield looks a little shaky at present, but it is not costing me any sleep. I don't care to discuss the case of George Davis at this time, but I guess you will find him out on the south side ready to play ball when the championship season opens.

"We have four good men in Dolan, Green, Jones, and Hallman from which to pick an outfield which will be stronger than last year's."

PLANS FOR CAMPAU'S MEETING.

Eastern Entries Secured for the International Derby and Other Races at Grosse Point.

The international Derby at Detroit, which closes on the second of next month, has already attracted quite a number of eastern entries, so will prove an effectual feeder for the great event at Washington park, which takes place later in the month. The prospect of picking up $5,000 at Detroit has changed the intentions of some eastern owners, who previously feared to essay the hard task of winning the American Derby, so the field for that event will be swelled by several candidates from that section which would not have traveled west had the gates of the Grosse Point track remained closed.

The Campau handicap, with $2,500 added, is likely to attract some of the older horses from the east also, while the Kindergarten, with $1,000 added, may bring some 2 year olds to meet their western rivals. The other stakes are the Press, the Hotel, and the Country Club, to each of which $1,000 is added.

The Grosse Point course is noted for the beauty of its surroundings, and is now within twelve minutes' ride by the big suburban cars from the center of Detroit. The meeting will be held under the auspices of the Detroit Jockey club, of which D. J. Campau is president. Joseph A. Murphy is arranging the details, and will manage the meeting, assisted by Secretary Clifford C. Westfall of Terre Haute. The opening day is June 8, and the meeting extends for twelve racing days.

DETROIT BIDS FOR BIG MATCH.

Campau Wants McChesney and Hermis to Race at Grosse Point Track During June Meeting.

Detroit, Mich., March 22.—President D. J. Campau of the Detroit Jockey club, which will hold a running meeting at the Grosse Pointe track from June 8 to 20, tonight telegraphed to E. E. Smathers, the owner of McChesney, and Mr. Bell, who owns Hermis, that the Detroit Jockey club will offer a large purse for a race between these two horses during the June meeting.

Mr. Campau named no figures in his message, but says a purse large enough to bring the horses here will be offered if the owners will agree to the race.

"I think," said Mr. Campau, "the prospects for matching McChesney and Hermis for our meeting are good. Detroit is neutral ground between the east and west, and for that reason the ideal place for a race between the champions of the east and west."

ROOT-GARDNER MATCH IS OFF.

Manager of the Fort Erie Club Thinks It Would Not Be an Attraction.

New York, March 22.—[Special.]—Jack Herman, manager of the International Athletic club at Fort Erie, has declared off the twenty round bout between Jack Root and George Gardner, which was to have been decided March 31. Herman concluded that the fight would not be a good attraction, and rather than lose money he canceled the match.

MEDILL HIGH SCHOOL'S SUCCESSFUL INDOOR BASEBALL TEAM.

By winning its game from Evanston High school Saturday night the indoor baseball team of the Medill High school passed the last obstacle but one barring its way to the Cook county championship. The loser of Saturday's game will have to play North Division this week, and the winner of that match will meet Medill in the finals.

CHOOSE THE SHORT ROUTE

THREE GAMES TO DECIDE STATE BOWLING CHAMPIONSHIP.

Illinois Association Holds Meeting and Votes by Majority of One to Limit Coming Contest to Thirty Frames—Change Is by Way of Experiment Only—Joliet Is Sole City Represented in the Organization Outside of Chicago.

The Illinois Bowling association yesterday decided to limit the state championship tournament to three games.

The question, which was the feature of the meeting, developed a lengthy discussion and the short route advocates won by a margin of one vote. The result was thirty-one votes for three games and thirty for the old method.

Forty-eight leagues were represented, including Joliet, the only out of town city to join the association.

It was also decided to give cash prizes in connection with the tournament. The delegates realized the good qualities of the two league limit rule and a committee composed of Pasdeloup, Pudewa, and Rooney was appointed to draft a rule which would effectually confine all players to two leagues.

A. J. Bertchy was the only out of town delegate and he represented Joliet.

The three game idea is merely an experiment and the result will be watched closely by the followers of games.

WILL RACE AT BENNINGS TODAY.

Opening of the Meeting of the Washington Jockey Club—Handicap Is the Feature.

New York, March 22.—[Special.]—The racing season of 1903, under the auspices of the Eastern Jockey club, will begin at the Washington Jockey club's much improved track at Bennings tomorrow. There will be a number of good stakes on the cards. Tomorrow the feature will be the Bennings Spring handicap, which has been creating speculation for several weeks.

Among the rank and file which left for Washington today the favorite for the race was "Father Bill" Daly's entry, Himself and Daly, although there will be plenty of support for Syrlin, the top weight, Demurrer, Namtor, and the Goughacre stable's Alan and Athelroy. George Odom has been engaged to ride Himself. This horse usually shows his best form at this time in the year. Himself will have to handle 112 pounds, instead of the feather which the handicapper gave him a year ago, but as the colt is fit and can run on any kind of a track his followers will be numerous.

DERBY CANDIDATES RUN AWAY.

Witful Speeds Two Miles and Claude Jumps a Fence at the Memphis Track.

Memphis, Tenn., March 22.—[Special.]—Runaway races were not programmed on the morning trials of horses receiving preparation for the opening of the spring racing season at Montgomery park today, but two of the most prominent American and Tennessee Derby candidates broke from control of their grooms and covered long distance routes that are not calculated to add to their chances.

S. C. Hildreth's Witful, winner of the Crescent City Derby, was taken on the track for a short route, but before she had fairly warmed up she conquered the boy in her saddle, and before she was taken in control she negotiated a two mile course and was on her way to the third mile when collared. The incident, in local trainers' opinion, will militate greatly against her chances for the Montgomery handicap, for which Hildreth has just backed her to win several thousands of dollars.

Claude, the California Derby winner, broke from control of his groom after being led on the track and jumped the middle field fence and several jumps in the steeplechase course. He was caught and afterwards sent on a mile journey, which he did nicely.

Rankin's mile in 1:45 was about the most impressive work of the day. Owner Arthur has not abandoned all hopes of sending Rankin for the Arkansas Derby.

BANNER WEEK FOR BOOKS.

Oakland Talent Fattens "Bank Rolls" by Sum Estimated at $100,000 During Last Seven Days.

San Francisco, Cal., March 22.—[Special.]—The last week has been most disastrous for form players, and the winnings of the bookmakers are estimated at $100,000. The pencilers had the banner day of the season yesterday, winning something like $60,000. There were twenty books in line, exclusive of the field books, and at least seventeen of them won $3,000 or more each.

Jackman was the biggest winner, with $7,000 to his credit. Bob Lloyd with $6,500 and young Applegate with $4,500 were the next biggest winners, while Barney Schreiber, Miller, Herman Hoffman, George Rose, and Joe Harlan all won big amounts.

Siddons is in a bad way and will require a long letup. Nones is another horse which will not be seen at the post in a long time. He is so sore he can hardly walk.

While there has been no official announcement, it is the prevailing impression the racing will continue at the Oakland track until May 1.

NAMES OF TWO YEAR OLDS

HARLEM STAKE BOOK REVEALS CHOICES OF CHICAGO OWNERS.

John A. Drake Picks Ort Welles for the Full Brother to Dick Welles—Edward Corrigan Is a Heavy Nominator of Youngsters, but Will Have to Select Several New Names Because of Duplications—Son of Helter Skelter.

The Harlem stake book for the first twelve events to be run at the Proviso racecourse has just been issued by Secretary Nathanson. It contains a number of interesting matters to turf followers, not the least of which is the names of the 2 year olds belonging to the prominent western stables. Mr. Nathanson makes a particular effort each year to have the list of youngsters' names and his stake book, as heretofore, contains the names of a number of the baby racers. As nearly 200 stables and a total of upward of 500 nominations are represented in the five stakes for the baby racers, the lists are too long for more than a mention of those belonging to Chicago owners.

Duplicates in Corrigan List.

Several of the youngsters in Edward Corrigan's list were found to be duplicates, and these will probably not receive their appellations until the time for starting. This owner is one of the heaviest of the nominators of youngsters.

Fred Cook is another of the heavy nominators of 2 year olds. Two of his have been named for the jockeys in his employ—Eddie Dominick, a brown colt by Lamplighter—Restless, and Willie Newcomb, a black colt by Pirate of Penzance—Belle Swift.

Fred T. Wood, the Texas horseman, has named his three colts by Prince Plenty after personal friends—Jerry Lynch, a bay colt out of Princess Rose; Patsy Brown, a bay gelding out of Dora Wood; and Jerry Flanigan, a bay gelding out of Reel.

In the list of Chicago owned youngsters are several that are expected to turn out great guns. Ort Welles, a full brother to the famous Dick Welles, is one of these. Corrigan is said to think pretty well of his brown son out of Helter Skelter, the speedy race mare that raced in his colors nearly a decade ago. Mr. Dunne's Willy Howard colt was named Prince of Fashion by Col. Barnes, the breeder, but the present owner purposed having a name of his own and made application to the Jockey club for a change to Leech. Louis Ezell hopes for a stake animal out of his Morte Fonse trio. The filly from Lone Princess is the first of that one time good race mare's get to race. Necedah, the dam of the other, will also be recollected by Chicago racegoers. The speed marvel of half a dozen years ago, Peter McCue, is represented by the two entries of M. Loewenstein, and if the sire has transmitted to Croppie and El Valentine a fair proportion of his speed these two certainly ought to run some in their races hereabouts this season.

Alpha M. Wins Prix de Fontainebleu.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PARIS, March 22.—The race for the Prix de Fontainebleu today was won by William K. Vanderbilt's Alpha. M. Aumont's Camisole was second and Count Bresson's Fantine third.

John Splan's Texas Scheme.

Lexington, Ky., March 22.—[Special.]—John Splan, the noted reinsman, is in Lexington, returning from an extensive trip through Texas and Oklahoma. He has been looking at the land in the west with a view of entering into the breeding of blooded horses on a large scale. It is his intention to form a large company to raise thoroughbred and trotting horses much the same as cattle are raised on the large ranches. It is his idea to carry a training department, and when good ones are developed to sell them for the races.

C. H. Aldons Buys Adeline.

Richmond, Ind., March 22.—[Special.]—William Prough of Shipshewana, Ind., has sold to C. H. Aldons of Coshocton, O., the brown mare Adeline, by Online, 2:04. Adeline is booked for a 2:10 record this season.

Joe Nelson Defeats Michael.

PARIS, March 22.—The American cyclist, Joe Nelson, won a match against the Welshman, Jimmy Michael, at the Velodrome, Buffalo, today, covering ten kilometers (6.214 miles) in 8:37 3-5, and twenty kilometers (12.428 miles) in 17:17 2-5.

RACES TO BEGIN AT LITTLE ROCK.

EXPECT MEMPHIS HORSES

Railroads Think Trains Will Be Running in Time for Chief Race.

Little Rock, Ark., March 22.—[Special.]—The feature of chief importance at Clinton park today was the work of Barca, Tom Stevens' Derby candidate. Carrying about his Derby weight, he worked the mile in 1:45. Mr. Stevens was waving his hat at the boy through the last furlong to pull up.

This is by far the best Derby work around here, and if the Memphis horses fail to get through it looks as if this one has the stake at his mercy. It is hoped that the Memphis horses will get through, however, as the Iron Mountain railway announces that it feels confident a train will go through on Monday. If the road succeeds it is certain the Memphis contingent will be here in time for Thursday's big race. If they do it looks as though, despite Barca's good work, George Bennett's candidate, Au Revoir, will go to the post favorite.

All is in readiness for the opening of the season tomorrow. In the auction pools last night Jesse Hughes tried so hard to bet against Carl Kahler that he made the crowd believe The Light had a chance in tomorrow's condition race. Jack Sheehan was trying to play Carl Kahler, horse against horse, but when Mr. Hughes suddenly shied his castor in the ring, and offered $100 even The Light would beat the Rice entry, and $100 even The Light and Dewey would beat Carl Kahler, Sheehan's earnestness subsided.

Crowds of the townspeople thronged the track today, and walked from barn to barn watching the horses. This is something not seen on northern tracks, but it seems well established here, as it was generally in the old circuit days.

A carload of horses and a big bunch of racing people got in from New Orleans tonight. The train was late, and the night was well advanced when the horses got off the cars.

Angelo Ceila, the Western Jockey club steward, arrived this morning. Dr. A. C. Bernays came over from the Springs to see his colt, Sartor Resartus, win the Capital Hotel stake tomorrow, as he confidently expects, and reports there will be a bunch of racing people over tomorrow.

Wire Tapping Material Recovered.

New Albany, Ind., March 22.—The police today recovered the wire and batteries of the wire tappers who worked the poolrooms at French Lick and West Baden Springs Friday afternoon and secured $3,500. The wire was tapped at a point two miles north of here and a fine copper wire run down the pole, along the ground to a vacant house a quarter of a mile away, where the instruments were located. Fifteen hundred yards of wire and forty-nine batteries, valued at $100, were recovered.

STEWART STIRS CROWD IN TENT.

Big Audience Assures the Candidate It Wants Change of Government.

HE HEARS A LOUD "YES."

Two Thousand Voters Give the Republican Assurances of Their Support.

When Graeme Stewart asked 2,000 voters in the Ninth ward tent at Maxwell and Union streets yesterday afternoon if they were ready for a change in the government of Chicago there was a loud cry of "yes!"

"Are you satisfied with the record that has been made in the last six years by Harrison?" continued Mr. Stewart.

"No," "Not much," "We should say not," was the chorus of the audience that filled the canvas shelter and crowded about the entrances, unable to find a place inside.

The meeting was one of the most enthusiastic at which Mr. Stewart has spoken. He was preceded by John F. Smulski, F. C. Bender, N. T. Brenner, and John A. Cooke. When he arrived and walked up the aisle there was cheering that did not cease until he stepped on the platform.

Mr. Stewart said that during the six years that Mayor Harrison had been in control of the city government he had done nothing but make promises. The finances of the city were never in such a poor condition, he said, and added that Harrison had promised that he would give the city a continuation of his present administration.

Ridicules Mayor's Promises.

"Perhaps Harrison thinks that he is complimenting himself when he says that he will continue, if elected, to give you the same kind of an administration as has marked his record in the past," Mr. Stewart remarked. "It may be that he is saying this as a threat. If you are satisfied with his sort of government vote for him by all means. If you are not, vote for me.

"Do you want seats in the cars for yourselves when you are riding to or from work? Harrison has promised you a settlement of this traction question for the last six years. Has he ever done anything towards helping the present condition of affairs? Is there any reason why you should expect that he is any more able now to do anything?

"Are there any of you employed in the city hall? Have you received your salaries for this month? I can tell you that there will be other months in the near future that you will find that there is no money for you. You are going to have to wait. And what is the reason of this condition? Do you think that it is right?"

Two Ideas of "Business."

Mr. Stewart afterwards spoke at Columbia hall, Forty-ninth and Paulina streets, saying:

"If I am elected mayor I will give you a business administration. I understand something about business, and I do not understand why this city should not be governed on the same plan that any reputable commercial concern adopts.

"Of course Mr. Harrison is promising you a business administration, but you know what sort of an administration he means. You have had six years of his business administration and I do not need to recall the fact of an empty treasury, a filthy condition of the streets, and a failure to settle the traction question to tell you what he means by a business administration."

Harlan Club Indorses Stewart.

Graeme Stewart for Mayor and Frank J. Doubek for alderman have been indorsed by the Harlan club of the Fourth ward. At a meeting held at 2927 Union avenue yesterday, presided over by Gus Chapin, president, and Felix Wengierski, secretary, at which 200 members were present, resolutions praising the character and attainments of Mr. Stewart and the council record of Mr. Doubek were adopted.

Meetings for Tonight.

The following republican meetings will be held this evening:

Twenty-first ward—North Side Turner hall, 257-259 North Clark street. Speakers: Graeme Stewart, Thomas Shaughnessy, F. C. Bender, John F. Smulski, Charles S. Deneen, J. H. Hamline, and Fletcher Dobyns.

Twenty-third ward—Yondorf's hall, Halsted street and North avenue. Speakers: Graeme Stewart and other candidates, J. H. Hamline, C. R. Chindblom, and Joel M. Longenecker.

Mr. Stewart will hold a public reception from 12 until 1 o'clock today at 225 Dearborn street. There will be no speaking, but the callers will be introduced to the republican candidate.

GERMANS BOLT TO STEWART.

Democratic Club of Twenty-first Ward Decides to Oppose Both Harrison and Palmer.

The German Democratic club of the Twenty-first ward, having a membership of over 400, has bolted the democratic ward and city ticket. At a meeting of the executive committee of the club yesterday morning, presided over by President John Hadelein, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

"Whereas, The late primary election, held March 14 in the Twenty-first ward, was the most disgraceful primary election ever held in this city. Money was openly used to buy votes, the police force and city administration coerced and intimidated voters in every possible way, peaceable citizens were abused and maltreated when they went to the polls to vote, and the entire proceedings were of the most disgraceful character; therefore, be it

"Resolved, That we hereby pledge ourselves to work and vote against all such methods, and also promise the citizens of Chicago that nothing will be left undone to administer a rebuke on election day in such a manner as will never be forgotten by all violators of the primary election law in the future in the city of Chicago."

The action of this democratic club, coming on top of the defection in the Tuscarora club, made trouble at democratic headquarters yesterday.

EXPECT TO RAISE QUARANTINE.

Lake Forest People Hopeful of an Early End of Their Troubles.

Lake Forest people believe that the scarlet fever quarantine in the town will be raised this week, and there was general rejoicing yesterday. Visions of afternoon calls, drives on Sheridan road, and exercise on the links of the Onwentsia club floated before the eyes of the members of the winter colony. While the raising of the quarantine is not a certainty, it is more than a probability. A few new cases of scarlet fever have appeared, but the health authorities state that the disease is dying out, and the few remaining cases will not be dangerous in a few days. On account of the inability to secure caddies the golf links were deserted all day.

IRELAND GIVES HOPE TO NEGRO.

Archbishop Tells a Delegation Which Visited Him That the Race Will Receive Its Rights.

Washington, D. C., March 22.—A delegation of members of the negro press of the country and of the Negro Pen and Pencil club, called on Archbishop Ireland today and expressed to him their gratitude and appreciation of his stand in behalf of their race. The archbishop told them that to him the stars and stripes had no meaning whatsoever unless they mean the brotherhood of man. He urged his callers to have patience and said that with it the march of civilization and of Christianity would result in full recognition of their civil and political rights.

WAR OF PASTE IS COSTLY.

BILL POSTERS ARE DRAINING THE CAMPAIGN FUNDS.

Republican Appeal Is Covered Over with Democratic Literature and Then Another Republican Document Is Added to the Mass, the Competition Keeping Up Till Secretary Lahiff Is Thinking of Asking for a Truce—Novel Button Appears.

Secretary Lahiff of the democratic county committee is thinking of making a proposal to Chairman Revell of the republican campaign committee for some sort of joint action regarding the posting of campaign literature.

Just now the bill posters are having the best of the campaign so far as pecuniary returns are concerned. Both parties have adopted the plan of plastering dead walls with pictures of their candidates and excerpts from their platforms, as well as attacks on the opposition, and the fight has been carried to a point where the bill posters are masters of the situation.

The posters are paid for the number of bills they handle, and therein comes the leak. No sooner is a republican poster up than it is covered by a democratic one, which in turn is covered by a republican poster. And so it has gone on until in some places these superimposed bills have reached a thickness of an inch or two, with a corresponding profit to the bill poster for each additional layer.

Whether the voter gets a chance to read a republican or a democratic appeal depends entirely on the minute when he happens to come along.

The newest thing in campaign buttons has been evolved by some democrats of the Twenty-seventh ward, who, because they are of Scotch birth or descent or for other reasons satisfactory to themselves, are going to vote for Graeme Stewart. It contains no lettering or portrait, and simply shows the plaid of the Clan Stewart.

HARRISON FACES EMPTY HALL.

Audience Bolts and It Is Only by Diplomacy That He Gets Any Hearers.

When Mayor Harrison stepped on to the stage of Garibaldi hall yesterday afternoon he faced row after row of empty benches. Outside of his own party there was not one person in the hall, even the janitor having fled.

Garibaldi hall is at 137 Ewing street, in the Nineteenth ward, and the trouble started when Malatta Stefano of the Seventeenth ward was appointed chairman for the meeting. Rocco D. Stefano, who is an Italian of the Nineteenth, resented the appearance of the outsider, and enlisted his countrymen's sympathies with such effect that shortly before 1 o'clock, the hour of the meeting, all went on strike and left the hall.

Tell Troubles to Coachman.

At the moment the mayor stepped on the stage the Italians were standing on the curb telling their troubles to his coachman and declaring they would vote for Stewart.

Half an hour later a few stragglers entered the hall, and then at a hint from one of his Italian supporters, Mr. Harrison launched into a speech on the subject of the price paid under his predecessor's administration for license tags for peddling wagons.

"In those days it cost $2.50 for a tag that cost the city only a few cents, and this tag had to be replaced each year," he said. "Since I came in it is different."

The stragglers cheered vociferously and a delegation that entered the hall to investigate went back to the bolters with tidings that Harrison was "square" on the push cart issue. Then the strike was declared off and 200 men entered the hall to hear the sentiment repeated.

Mayor Reiterates Charges.

The mayor next spoke to 600 men at Horan's hall, in the same ward. Here he made the plea that his record was built on work, while Stewart's was of tissue paper. Then he again charged Mr. Stewart with bringing the fire and police departments into the campaign.

At Apollo hall, in the Tenth ward, Mr. Harrison spoke to 500 persons.

"Stewart's traction record," he said, "consists in having asked a friend of his, who was at Springfield, to do something for him that he was too busy to do himself. The only way he can make a traction record is by hard work."

There were 500 persons at Pulaski hall, in the Eleventh ward, and here the mayor repeated his traction arguments. He did the same in Novotny's hall, in the Twelfth ward, where 500 persons were present.

Mayor's Evening Speeches.

In the evening the Sixteenth ward contest over Stanley Kunz interrupted the meeting held at Noble and Blackhawk streets. Mr. Kunz was almost cried down by friends of Vincent T. Jowiakowski, the independent candidate for alderman, and of John F. Smulski. As the mayor's party entered the hall, Kunz was speaking, but he at once gave way to John E. Owens, who was interrupted repeatedly by cheers for Mr. Smulski.

Mayor Harrison changed the tone of his evening speeches, giving a touch of what might be construed as socialistic teachings.

"The republicans say the streets of the city are dirty and in bad condition," he said. "If the rich men would pay a fair share of the taxation this would not be the case. There is not a man in the room whose taxes are not more than they should be, but the rich owners of the stocks and bonds, with their homes on the boulevards, are such good friends with the republican assessors and reviewers that their tax rate is made comparatively low."

In a speech at All Saints' School hall, Robey and Lubeck streets, the mayor appealed for support, saying he stood on his record.

To Address Young Men Tonight.

Mayor Harrison's only speech tonight will be an address to the members of the Young Democracy, which meets at democratic headquarters, at 107 Dearborn street.

The Carter H. Harrison Traveling Men's association has rented a store room at Fifth avenue and Jackson boulevard, where, beginning tomorrow, it will hold noonday meetings for the wholesale district.

LECTURE DATES FOR THE WEEK.

Well Known Educators Will Address Students and University Extension Audiences in Near Future.

The Ryder lecture committee has made arrangements with the University of Chicago for the delivery of free courses of lectures on "American History" by Prof. Edwin Erle Sparks in Franklin school, March 23-May 8; "The Native Races of North America," by Prof. Frederick Starr, March 23-May 7, Calhoun school. He will deliver the same course at Schley school, April 3-May 15.

The following is a program of lectures to be given by the university in university extension centers during this week:

"Milton as the Greatest of Plagiarists," by Prof. Richard Green Moulton, South Congregational church, Fortieth street and Drexel boulevard.

"Robert Morris, the Financier of the Revolution," by Prof. Edwin Erle Sparks, Christian church, Ohio and Pine streets, Austin.

Tuesday evening—"Abraham Lincoln, the First American," by Prof. Edwin Erle Sparks, Francis W. Parker school, 550 Webster avenue. "Paris: Nationalism and Liberalism," by Prof. Jerome H. Raymond, Scoville institute, Oak Park, Ill.

Thursday evening—"The Method and Art of Thackeray," by Prof. William Henry Hudson, Englewood Men's club, 6321 Harvard avenue. "The Tardy Evolution of American Unionism," by Prof. Edwin Erle Sparks, Lewis institute, Robey and Madison streets.

Friday evening—"A Winter's Tale," by Prof. William Henry Hudson, South Congregational church, Fortieth street and Drexel boulevard.

Sunday afternoon—"The Second Temple and the Founders of Judaism," by Dr. Nathaniel I. Rubinkam, university lecture room, Fine Arts building, 203 Michigan avenue, 3:45 p. m.

Exiled President Dies a Pauper.

Southgate's Condition Unchanged.

The condition of Richard Southgate, president of the Auditorium Hotel company, is unchanged. He is suffering from the grip and probably will be confined to his room for several days.

DEMOCRACY FOR HARRISON TICKET

Meeting Endorses Candidates for Mayor and Other City Offices.

BOTH FACTIONS PRESENT

Burke's Followers Out in Greater Numbers, but Harmony Prevails.

Carter H. Harrison was formally indorsed for mayor by the County Democracy yesterday. So were Ernest Hummel for city treasurer, John E. Owens for city attorney, and John J. Boehm for city clerk. So also were Michael Kenna, Edward F. Cullerton, "Little Mike" Ryan, William J. Moran, "Jim" Daily, Michael McInerney, and William Ehemann, and all the other democratic candidates for alderman, including Honoré Palmer in the Twenty-first ward. The usual resolution that the marching club take part in the campaign was omitted.

The meeting was called especially for the purpose accomplished, and no other business was done. It was well attended, both factions having out their forces, but harmony in large quantities prevailed. At a conference between Robert E. Burke and Ernest Hummel on Saturday Burke agreed that the perfunctory resolutions of indorsement of the nominees of the city convention should be passed. In fact, nothing else could be done, as it would be against all precedents for the club, as a democratic organization, to refuse it. Burke insisted, however, that if the nominees on the city ticket were indorsed the various aldermanic candidates must also be indorsed, and with this understanding the meeting yesterday was called.

Anti-Harrison Men Predominate.

The anti-Harrison members were in a majority and could have beaten the resolutions had their leaders not agreed to be good and not make trouble. Thomas J. Webb made the only speech, the greater part of which was devoted to praise of the club and its new hall, winding up with the statement that the organization had always been the stalwart supporters of democratic tickets and would be expected to show its old time zeal in the present campaign. Mr. Webb then offered a verbal resolution that the club pledge itself to support the nominees of the last democratic city convention, naming them, when Burke remarked:

"There is an amendment to that, isn't there?"

"Yes," said President Powers. "As well as all the democratic candidates for aldermen in the different wards."

This was accepted by Mr. Webb and the resolution, as amended, was then adopted by a viva voce vote.

"Of course the club indorsed the democratic ticket," said President Powers. "The remarkable thing would have been had it refused to. It is a democratic club and naturally is for the democratic ticket. A refusal would have disorganized the society."

The neglect to provide that the marching club take part in the campaign was commented on after the meeting by a number of Harrison supporters. It will be the first campaign in the history of the organization that the silk hatted and frock coated marchers have failed to enliven the streets of Chicago with their presence.

Seeks Aid of Hopkins.

Along with the attempt of Ernest Hummel to bring Robert E. Burke to the aid of the democratic city ticket, it was announced yesterday a move had been made by Mayor Harrison to get John P. Hopkins and his friends into line. What the mayor would or could offer the ex-mayor for his support was not stated, but it was said almost anything in reason would be conceded for the aid of the Tilden democracy.

It is acknowledged among the Harrison democrats that it is necessary for the mayor to get the help of all democrats and all democratic factions at this election. The last time Mr. Harrison won by the aid of republican votes, in spite of the heavy democratic defection, but his advisers in this campaign are afraid they will not have the republican aid they had before, and must unite the democrats if they hope to win.

So far the recalcitrant democrats have shown no signs of being won over to the Harrison camp. The prediction was made yesterday by a prominent democrat in the Nineteenth ward that that territory will not give the mayor more than 2,000 plurality. It has given as high as 5,000 democratic majority in former years, and anything less than 3,500 would be regarded as a democratic loss. Similar stories come from the Fourth and Fifth wards, the First, and the Eighteenth, all democratic strongholds.

In the Thirty-first and Thirty-second wards anti-Harrison democratic organizations have been formed by precincts. In the Thirty-second ward all the thirty precincts will be manned by volunteer democrats acting as Stewart workers, and in the Thirty-first ward all but four precincts have been similarly organized. These democrats will work solely among voters of their own party, seeking to induce them to work for Stewart. It will be a novelty in Chicago politics.

NEW WAR ON "GET RICH" MEN.

Police Are to Investigate the Promoters of So-Called Mining Stocks.

War on the "get-rich-quick" enterprises is to be resumed in Chicago this week, when Detective C. R. Wooldridge returns from Mudlavia Springs, Ind., where he has been taking treatment for rheumatism. Dealers in so-called mining stocks are to be investigated. The postal authorities, on instructions from Washington, will join in the crusade.

SCHWAB GOES TO PITTSBURG TO BUY BIG STEEL PLANT.

Property of the Jones & Laughlin Company Said to Be on Sale for $80,000,000 and He Will Inspect It.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 22.—[Special.]—The chief cause of the visit of Charles M. Schwab, president of the United States Steel corporation, to Pittsburg is the furtherance of negotiations for the acquisition of the mills, furnaces, and coal and ore lands of the Jones & Laughlin Steel company. It is reported that Mr. Schwab will make a personal inspection of the local plants of the company, but whether he does or does not look over the mills and furnaces himself, he will secure from inspections by experts an excellent idea of the value of the machinery and all other things that ought to be known before a purchase is made.

Tentative proposals to buy the Jones & Laughlin interests were made before the Union Steel company was acquired by the corporation, but the Jones & Laughlin people were averse to disposing of their big plants. Later it was said that the big independent manufacturing firm might sell for $80,000,000.

The hitch in the negotiations is not so much over a question of the value of the Jones & Laughlin interests, but rather over the method of payment in case of purchase. The steel corporation desired to pay with its bonds, but Jones & Laughlin demanded that the greater part of the value be paid in cash. Mr. Schwab will remain in Pittsburg until Tuesday.

LIPTON REPRESENTATIVE HERE.

H. Hier Davies Declares That He Believes Shamrock III. Will Win the America Cup.

New York, March 22.—[Special.]—H. Hier Davies, Sir Thomas Lipton's representative in New York, was a passenger on the Etruria, which arrived from Liverpool today. Mr. Davies said he was glad to hear that Shamrock III. had been successfully launched, although he knew nothing about the yacht, not having seen it.

"Like everybody else in Mr. Lipton's employ," said Mr. Davies, "I expect it to lift the cup."

Mr. Davies said he expected to receive instructions from Sir Thomas in a few days, but so far he knew nothing about his plans. He is at the Waldorf.

Crowds Will See Reliance Launched.

Bristol, R. I., March 22.—[Special.]—When Reliance is launched next month a large crowd will be in attendance. A number of members of the New York Yacht club will come on their steam yachts and give the new boat a proper salute as it slides down the ways. Bristol people also will view the launching from boats, having given up the idea of trying to get a vantage point on the land.

POPULAR RULE A FAILURE.

SELF-GOVERNMENT HELD TO BE WEAKEST IN CITIES.

Dr. A. A. Berle Declares That Religious Instruction Has Been Eliminated from the Schools and Moral Regard from Public Concerns Generally—Democratic Forms Said to Be Unequal to the Severe Tests to Which They Have Been Subjected.

Popular self-government has failed in its severest tests, according to Dr. A. A. Berle, and failed so miserably, he declares, as to excite pity in the house of its friends. He was speaking at the Union Park Congregational church yesterday, and said:

"There is probably no truer index of national degeneration than when religious questions are forced into public discussion as they frequently are; no sign of national weakness like that which makes public concerns turn on religious prejudices. Sectarianism and intolerance generally involve the destruction of the noblest instincts of our race, and sooner or later involve also the finest intellectual traits of which men are capable.

"When the moral interests of national life are neglected all prosperity, however seeming, is false and unreal. This seems peculiarly to be the state in which America finds itself. Progressively in the interest of a pseudo-liberalism, and subject to the dominion of the least capable classes of society, moral instruction, as well as religious instruction, has been eliminated from the public schools and the element of moral regard from public concerns generally.

Greatest Weakness in Cities.

"We are not, therefore, surprised to find American democracy breaking down at the points where it is most severely tried—namely: in cities. We are not surprised to see the best friends of democratic government asking anew the question as to whether the era for democratic self-government has really come.

"It has degenerated into the veriest cant to say that 'the remedy for the ills of democracy is more democracy.' As if the Crokers and the Butlers and their breed, who are the characteristic products of urban democratic government in America, must be multiplied to free ourselves from their control.

Where Popular Rule Fails.

"Democracy, like everything else, must be judged by its fruits, and no one can deny that in the severest tests to which it has been subjected in America the theory of popular self-government has not only failed but failed so miserably as to excite pity in the house of its friends. The boss, the monopolist, the grafter in all forms, are the products of democracy in American life no less than the other things of which we habitually boast.

"We sometimes hear of a great future for these cities and of a great future for Chicago, more magnificent than its great past. Such a prediction is the silliest illusion which can afflict reasonable people, unless it is based on a steadfast determination to lift the tone of the moral life of this city—that is, until we can have reasonable hope that public and private life are dominated by the laws of righteousness and are subjected to the spirit of the kingdom of God. The reformation of the city must proceed long the lines of its moral interest, not along the line of appeal to its cupidity, interest, or commercial greatness."

WOULD BLOT OUT THE SALOONS.

Dr. Driver Says There Is No Way of Regulating the Liquor Evil.

Dr. Driver's sermon yesterday morning in the People's church pulpit was on, "What Shall Be Done with the Saloon?" In speaking of the futility of high license as a temperance measure, he said:

"If a man pays an immense license he must do an immense business. If Mr. Saloonkeeper has to double his license he must also double his sales. If, in order to pay $500 license, he has to rob the wife of her husband, then, in order to pay $1,000 license he must also rob her of her sons. If, in order to pay $500 license, he has to embrute the widow's sons, then, in order to pay $1,000 license, he must somehow debauch and destroy her daughters, too.

"Double the license and the business must be doubled. Quadruple the license and the business must be quadrupled. Octuple the license and the business must be octupled. High license but quickens the wits, intensifies the energies, and multiplies the slimy, murderous arms of the terrible saloon octopus, the horrible saloon devil fish.

"The only way to regulate slavery was to utterly blot it out of existence. And the only way to regulate the saloon is to utterly blot it out of existence. And, since it is infinitely more lawless, more filthy, more degrading, more blasphemous, more soul-destroying, more perversive and destructive of all that is good than slavery ever was, why not begin the battle royal at once, and finish the work?"

FEWER AND BETTER CHILDREN.

Ursula N. Gestefeld Makes an Answer to Recent Criticism Directed at Small Families.

Fewer and better children is the answer of Ursula N. Gestefeld to the recent criticism of small families. In her address in Music hall, Fine Arts building, yesterday she said:

"All religious and moral teaching and training is directed toward improvement of the individual—of his character. The purpose of existence itself is development of character. The aim is for better and better quality. Preference for quality rather than quantity marks refinement of intelligence. There is difference in value between a diamond and a ton of coal, though both are forms of carbon.

"Wise parenthood will be desired by those intelligent enough to see and shun the blighting effects of selfishness. One child so produced is of more value to the warld than ten resulting from ignorant self-indulgence.

"True, were such parenthood the rule, there would not be so many voters whose votes could be easily controlled, so many recruits for the army, or devout believers in dogma; but there would be fewer pilfering politicians, fewer wars with their heartbreaks and bloodshed, and more real religion."

PULPIT PLEA FOR ORCHESTRA.

Dr. W. A. Bartlett Says Chicago Cannot Afford to Lose Mr. Thomas and His Players.

Speaking on the subject "The Thomas Orchestra," the Rev. W. A. Bartlett, pastor of the First Congregational church, said:

"The people of Chicago are now asked if they will make it possible for the splendid band known as the Chicago orchestra to continue. No one can estimate the good which this orchestra has done in our city from the time when, in the '70s, Mr. Thomas began the performances which in later years became a part of our city's best life. I am no dreamer nor sentimentalist, but it is my belief that the influence of Beethoven alone as interpreted by Mr. Thomas is as great as any of the poets, such as Shakspeare or Browning.

"Much of our civic life is sordid. In business men are often greedy; in politics men are often at their worst. Society is full of fads and foolishness. The amusements in many of the theaters are low and fruitful sources of the social evil, and in many of these lines of life men and women are seeking money, pleasure, or selfish satisfaction. But to have a great building to which rich and poor may come and listen to the sublimest music of earth, by an orchestra reckoned by leading critics to have no peer, and led by a man who has been untiring in his faithful work, is a standing monument to our city's love of the ennobling and a reminder of what makes a city great."

SOUTH SIDE WOMAN WHO WAS NOMINATED FOR PRESIDENCY OF A WEST SIDE CLUB.

Mrs. J. C. Vaughn.

Mrs. Martha Throop Vaughan, who is a nominee for the presidency of the West End Woman's club, is a resident of the south side, her home being at 6048 Jefferson avenue. Until a year ago she lived on the west side, and the fact she has moved from the territorial jurisdiction of the club has developed opposition to her election. Mrs. Ella D. Richolson also has been nominated for the presidency, and is being supported by the "home rulers," or the faction which believes a west side woman should be chosen. The question of the residence of the two nominees is said to be the only one involved in the election.

CALLS CHURCH TOO WORLDLY.

Must Remain Distinct, Says the Rev. George P. Kabele, to Retain Its Influence on the People.

The church was called too worldly by the Rev. George P. Kabele in his sermon at St. Matthew's English Evangelical Lutheran church yesterday. He said:

"The church of today has lost much of her influence and loosened her hold on mankind because she has failed to keep herself distinct from the world. She has put on the airs and appearances of the world and participates in the world's sins, and how, then, can she blame man for disregarding her divine origin and mission and placing her on a level with human societies?

"What is true of the church is also true of many individual professed Christians. They are always striving how nearly like the world they can live and yet be considered Christians. But by this thing they prove they lack the spirit of the true Christian, for the genuine Christian seeks not how much he may be like the world but how much like Jesus. What Christ loves the world hates, and what the world loves is an abomination to the Lord.

"The trouble i nour day is we have so many counterfeit Christians that the light of the true Christian is obscured, and the Christian religion is misjudged by the counterfeit. We do not mean to say that these counterfeit Christians are all hypocrites, but most of them are simply self-deceived."

PREACHES IN LABOR'S BEHALF.

The Rev. Frederick W. Millar Says Good Municipal Government Is a Crying Need.

The Rev. Frederick W. Millar, preaching at the Ryder Memorial church, said:

"Labor must be redeemed from the curse of avarice. The 'eight hour system' will help a little, but we will have to look to the common free schools and to the free press for a wider distribution of knowledge, and to bold, patriotic preachers who will face superstition and drive it from the pulpit and give the world a more rational interpretation of religion.

"God never cursed the ground for man's sake, but he has made labor the greatest blessing which has come from infinite wisdom. It is man who has cursed labor. It is a mistake to suppose that God can save this great city from its dirt and degredation, its saloons and sweat shops. We must save ourselves by electing decent and resepectable citizens to make our laws, for the health, happiness, and holiness of the people depends largely upon local government."

RELIGION BARS A COMPROMISE.

Pastor Declares One Cannot Be a Highwayman in Business and a Saint in the Church.

There can be no compromise with Christianity, said Dr. Theodore G. Soares in the First Baptist church at Oak Park yesterday.

"You cannot have an adulterated Christianity," he declared, "nor can you have an occasional Christianity. If a man seems to conduct his business in the spirit of the highwayman and his religion in the spirit of the saint, he is attempting an impossible compromise.

"A religion that ignores the just demand of the workman and offers charity to his family; that permits young children to work in factories and stores on weekdays, and gets them in mission Sunday schools on Sundays; that raises the price of necessities of life, and then gives money to charity, is hollow and unreal. If God is anywhere he is everywhere."

NEW DEVOTION AN ESSENTIAL.

"Drink from Cups We Have Never Tasted," Is the Advice of the Rev. Pearse Pinch.

The Rev. Pearse Pinch spoke in Forestville Congregational church on "The Exactions of Progress," saying:

"The way to exaltation lies through the drinking of cups we had never tasted and baptisms we had not before received. If we seek to wield spiritual forces that shall change conditions about us it must come at new cost of devotion on our part.

"If, like those first disciples, we yearn to come up and sit beside the Master on his throne of power, it means that we must climb up thither from where we are."

Father O'Reilly Heads Union.

The Rev. Father John R. O'Reilly of St. Columbkill's parish yesterday was elected president of the Cook county board of the Catholic Total Abstinence Union of Illinois, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of D. P. Corey. Seven new societies were added to the organization.

FILL COLORED PULPITS TODAY.

Appointments in the Lexington Conference of the Methodist Church to Be Announced This Morning.

Appointments for the ensuing year to the colored Methodist churches of the Lexington conference, comprising Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana, and eastern Illinois, will be announced this morning by Bishop John M. Walden of Cincinnati. This is the first colored conference ever held in Illinois, and ministers of the Rock River conference will give a reception to the visitors this morning at the First Methodist church before the appointments are announced.

OPPOSE GREATER CHICAGO

COUNTRY LEGISLATORS FIGHT BILL BECAUSE OF GRUDGE.

Take This Stand Because Cook County Members Worked Against the Proposed Increase in the Percentage of Tax Limitation—Sanitary District Measure Is in Danger Because of the Position of Some Cook County Legislators.

Springfield, Ill., March 22.—[Special.]—Opposition to the greater Chicago resolution is likely to show increased strength when it is brought up in the house Tuesday morning. The country members are said to have threatened retaliation, because the representatives from Cook county have fought the proposed increase in the percentage of tax limitation, which is demanded by a number of southern Illinois counties. Unless this difference is adjusted the friends of the resolution will find many of the men from the country districts lined up against them.

The country, up to the present time, has been used effectively against the Chicago sanitary district bill. Other influences have been used against these measures, not the least of which has been a considerable opposition from Cook county, but these would not be effective if the country members were in a better frame of mind. The bills are still in committee and all efforts to get them on the floor of either house have failed. Even if the country members withdraw their opposition the bills are in danger.

Good Outlook for Civil Service.

The civil service bill will probably be called up on Wednesday for a vote on its passage. The referendum amendment has complicated the situation, and several members who otherwise would have supported the bill will now vote against it. On the other hand, there are many who have little sympathy with civil service reform and who have been working, openly or secretly, against the bill, but who will now vote for it on the theory that the people should have an opportunity to determine whether or not a civil service law shall be enacted. It is probable that the bill will pass the house by a fair majority. The friends of civil service will endeavor to have the referendum amendment killed in the senate.

Convict Labor Bill Is Favored.

The convict labor bill is a special order for Wednesday. Up to the present time no opposition has developed.

Activity among the older members indicates that they are getting ready for an early adjournment. A number of those who have bills in the embryonic state did not go home when the assembly adjourned last week, but remained to prepare amendments and otherwise get their measures in shape against the day when a final adjournment will set in.

Many Bills Are Ready.

The following bills are among those on the order of third reading, ready to be voted on:

Giving Cook county Circuit and Superior courts power to appoint receivers in vacation.

To regulate the speed of automobiles on country roads.

To prohibit telegraph and telephone companies from furnishing news to bucket shops and poolrooms.

To permit county boards to regulate the abstract business in Cook county.

Increasing the salary of members of the legislature to $2,000 per annum.

To amend the election laws in accordance with the recommendations of the Cook county election commissioners.

To permit the extension of the park systems of Chicago and to authorize the construction of the Field museum and the Crerar library on the lake front.

JOHN KENDRICK BANGS IS ENVIOUS OF HIS WATER METER

Writer Tells Yonkers Board if He Had Imagination the Machine Has His Fortune Would Be Made.

Yonkers, N. Y., March 22.—[Special.]—John Kendrick Bangs is indignant over what he considers an excessive charge for water in his household. He has written the following to the board of water commissioners:

"While I propose to pay in full whatever amounts I may owe your department for water on my premises, it seems to me that your statement of March 1 manifestly is absurd. No water is used on my premises except for household purposes, and to say that for the ninety days ensuing from Dec. 11, 1902, to March 4, 1903, I have consumed a fraction more than 117,536 gallons of water, or more than 1,300 gallons a day, is ridiculous.

"I do not know what your rules are in regard to going behind the returns, but I respectfully submit to you that the meter now in the house and thrust upon me by yourselves betrays imaginative qualities which, if I could possess for use in my profession, would make me the leading romancer of my time.

"In literature we can stand a little exaggeration, but in the water business I prefer to get down to hard realities, and rely upon your sense of justice to see that this nonsensical bill which you have rendered me is corrected. JOHN KENDRICK BANGS."

There was a laugh after this was read by the board. It is a standing rule that all such communications for a reduction of water bills be referred to the committee on laws and ordinances, and this communication was so referred.

Ten years ago Mr. Bangs essayed to be elected mayor of this city on the democratic ticket, and the cause of his defeat is generally attributed to his unwillingness to get off the "water wagon," and for that reason there are those who regard the bill as retributive justice.

DR. MUELLER HERE TO STAY.

Lorenz's Assistant Will Make Chicago His Permanent Home.

Dr. Frederick W. Mueller, the former assistant of Dr. Lorenz, has severed his professional connections in Vienna and has come to Chicago to stay. He left Vienna on Feb. 24 and sailed for New York, where he remained a few weeks to look after his patients and to perform a few orthopedic operations. He reached Chicago Saturday night.

"I have come to stay," said Dr. Mueller yesterday afternoon at the Auditorium, "and my wife and family are to follow me some time next month. My plans are not yet fully matured, but I shall establish myself here as an orthopedic surgeon.

"As to the story that I am to take the chair of orthopedic surgery in the University of Chicago, I can only say that no such position has been offered to me, and it is doubtful whether I would accept.

"The story that I have come to Chicago to examine or treat Lolita Armour also is incorrect. When I started from New York I knew that Mrs. Armour and the child were visiting in Augusta, Ga. I suppose that Dr. Lorenz himself will look after the child when he returns to this country."

PREACH AGAINST SLOT MACHINE

Terre Haute Ministers Begin War to Work Up a Sentiment Against Them After Mayor's Refusal.

Terre Haute, Ind., March 22.—[Special.]—In most of the Protestant churches today sermons were preached against slot machines. This was in pursuance of a plan adopted by the Terre Haute Ministerial association, whose request of Mayor Steeg to enforce the law was met with refusal. A declaration that the ministers would not oppose gambling generally or the open saloon because it was deemed expedient to single out one evil at the time caused a division of opinion, and the association has been criticised. It is understood that, in order to restrict today's sermons to slot machines, something like a censorship was established, with the Rev. Dr. Tinsley of Centenary church acting as censor.

Engine Plant Is Burned.

Jennison, Mich., March 22.—The entire plant of the Jennison Iron and Engine works was burned late last night. Loss $50,000, fully insured. The origin of the fire is unknown.

NEW HAMPSHIRE LIQUOR BILL.

The liquor bill as reported by the majority of the committee has passed its first reading in the lower house of the New Hampshire legislature by a vote of 214 to 107, but the minority are not without the hope of defeating it, or at least of amending it so as to remove certain objectionable features. The prohibitionists are not making a stubborn fight, as they realize that New Hampshire is bound to follow the example of Vermont and have some kind of a license law. The objection to the proposed law, and it is a strong one, is that it is neither high license nor local option while pretending to be both. The maximum license fee is fixed at $1,000. This would be high license, but under the terms of the bill the commissioners can issue first class licenses for the sale of liquor to be drunk on the premises at $25 a year. And there are a dozen grades of license between these two extremes. The thousand dollar licenses, which apply only to certain clubs and summer hotels patronized by the wealthy, cut but little figure in producing revenue. Again, the law can hardly be called a local option measure. Curiously enough, it concedes local option to every town in the state and refuses it to every city. Under this bill every city in the state must have saloons for three years and six months without any regard to the wishes of the people.

These are certainly strong objections to the bill as it stands, but probably the provision most feared is the tremendous political power it will place in the hands of three men, or really of two, as two will be of the same party.

Undoubtedly New Hampshire is bound to have a liquor law and to abandon prohibition, but any such unjust discriminations as this bill makes should be removed if the people of that state wish to have a law which will work satisfactorily.

KEEP THE STATE ACCOUNTS.

The bill creating a board of public accounts should not fail of passage in the house of representatives at Springfield this week. If it becomes law it will be possible to conduct the business of the state in a more business like manner than at present. The bill provides that the state auditor, the president of the board of charities, and a public accountant, whose appointment is authorized by the bill, shall constitute a board to investigate all accounts of the state, publish them, and prescribe the way in which they shall be kept. It will make public quarterly the condition of the state's finances and will publish the pay roll of all the state institutions. In short, it will systematize the business of the state and give to the public an account of the expenditure of its money.

No corporation with as much business to transact as the state has could exist without an accountant, to give the heads of its departments frequent statements of its receipts and expenditures. It would become bankrupt. There are features in the bill which are not acceptable to politicians in both parties, who do not care to have light shed on the pay rolls or the disbursement records of the state. They do not court an investigation which, if it does not expose corruption, will disclose extravagance. The $11,000 a year which the board will cost will be well spent. The publication of the pay roll and the state's accounts will save the people that sum many times over.

USELESS STATISTICS.

After looking over Dr. Harris' table of comparative expenditures for education and for police in the large cities of this country one is inclined to exclaim: "Cursed be William the Conqueror or whoever it was that first invented statistics!"

What conclusions can be drawn from Dr. Harris' table? One starts out and notices that at the head of the list there is a city called Minneapolis which spends more than three times as much money on education as it does on police. One concludes, then, the Minneapolis police force was starved. That must have been the reason why the members of the force were driven to making money on the outside. Moral: Give policemen larger salaries.

But then one notices at the foot of the list, as far as possible removed from Minneapolis, a city called St. Louis. Minneapolis spends about $1 per capita per annum on police. St. Louis spends almost $3. And it economizes on education. Instead of spending three times as much money on education as on police it spends about 5 per cent less. Yet St. Louis is not in a state of municipal beatitude. Moral: Spend less money on the police and more on the schools. This moral seems to be quite different from the previous moral, but statistics are statistics, that's all that can be said, and when Minneapolis and St. Louis, running mates in infamy, stand at opposite ends of a comparative table, extremes meet and conclusions are confused.

As for schools, so far as our own city is concerned, it is interesting to notice that while Philadelphia's school expenses are about $2.50 per capita, St. Louis' $2.70, and Minneapolis' $3.00, Chicago's are about $4.80. Boston is ahead of us, however, with $5.40, and so is New York, with $5.80.

New York, by the way—and here one's statistical confusion becomes worse confounded—seems to be the most expensively governed large city in the country, so far as one may judge from its policemen and its school teachers. The latter cost each citizen $5.80 a year and the former about $3. Philadelphia, meanwhile, seems to be governed most economically. It spends on school teachers only about $2.50 per citizen and on policemen only about $1.80. Yet is there less "graft" in Philadelphia than in New York?

WANTED: A BUSINESS MAYOR.

Ald. Mayor, chairman of the finance committee, says "the administration has been spending more money than ought to be spent." As a consequence, "the borrowings of the city from year to year have grown greater." In the spring of 1898 $2,180,000 was borrowed in anticipation of the collection of the taxes for that year. In 1902 warrants were sold in anticipation of the collection of taxes to the amount of $4,293,000.

If the affairs of the municipality had been managed in accordance with strict business principles Ald. Mayor would have been unable to make the complaint he does. No matter how small the income of the city a business mayor would not have allowed the expenditures to exceed it. If the city had a floating debt when he entered office he would not have permitted it to be increased by one dollar during his administration. If it had no floating debt he would not have allowed one to be made. He would have handed over the municipality to his successor in as good shape, financially, as he found it.

If Mayor Harrison were a better business man he would not allow more money to be spent than ought to be spent. He would not tolerate a yearly deficit. He would not swell a floating debt which some day the taxpayers will have to pay off. Should he be reelected the floating debt will be much larger two years hence than it is now. Mayor Harrison has not appreciated the importance of the city's living within its income. Not being a business man himself he has been unable to select subordinates who have the business qualifications he himself lacks.

It is time to turn over a new leaf. The corporation, private or municipal, whose expenses annually exceed its income, lands in bankruptcy. That will be the fate of the city if a business man is not put in charge of its affairs, a man who will not permit the expenditure of one dollar in excess of the city's income, and who will require—as Mr. Stewart says he will require—every employé "to do a dollar's worth of work for a dollar in salary."

When Mayor Harrison went into office six years ago he did not intend to do anything to add to the financial embarrassments of the city. He meant to give it a good administration. He has not succeeded. It is time for him to give way to a man who has the qualifications he lacks. Mayor Harrison cannot supply the motive power needed to make the machinery of administration move smoothly and efficiently. Mr. Stewart can supply that motive power. He has experience, force, and determination. He knows what city employés should do and will make them do it, and he will not allow one cent to be spent beyond the city's income.

UNREPUBLICAN GOVERNMENT.

The Rhode Island constitution gives each city and township one member in the senate. The population of the cities increases, while that of the rural townships is stationary or decreases. A system which was not unfair sixty years ago is grossly unequal now. Twenty townships, with 40,398 inhabitants and 5,620 voters, elect twenty out of thirty-eight senators. Eight cities and towns, with a population of 330,000, elect only eight senators. Providence has 29,030 voters, but only one senator. Thanks to an antiquated system the twenty townships, with their 5,620 voters, control legislation. A senate in which they have a majority will not permit the constitution to be altered, so as to lessen their political power.

Minority rule exists in Rhode Island, and its worst feature is the corruption which characterizes it. The influence of money in elections depends largely on the size of an electorate. It would take much money to carry an election in Providence, with its 29,030 voters. Comparatively little is needed in a town with 300 voters, and the small Rhode Island towns are the ones which have been so completely debauched that they invariably elect the candidate who will pay out the most money.

The question is how to get rid of minority rule. It has been suggested, half seriously and half ironically, that the only way to get reform is to buy the control of the senate for one year and amend the constitution so as to provide a fairer representation. Moralists do not sanction the use of immoral methods to bring about good results. They would not approve of the proposition to buy up a state senate. The orthodox course to pursue is to appeal to the consciences of voters and to endeavor to awaken the practical business men of the state to the need of reform. It is said that the practical men are attending to their personal affairs and cannot be induced to take an interest in reform movements.

If that is the case the situation seems hopeless. Popular discontent with restrictive suffrage provisions led over sixty years ago to what is known as the Dorr rebellion. It was put down, but it led to changes in the state constitution. There is no likelihood of a rebellion to change the unfair and unrepublican apportionment system. It may last indefinitely, to the shame and profit of the voters in the small towns, who sell their votes yearly to the highest bidder.

THE CHARTER AMENDMENT.

Tomorrow the charter amendment will come up for consideration in the house of representatives. It has been amended in two particulars. No outside territory can be annexed without a majority vote in each village, city, or town affected. That is unobjectionable, though it is excess of caution. Chicago is in no haste to annex more territory. It will digest first the boundless areas it has already taken in. The consolidation of the city and sanitary district governments is not to be authorized. That consolidation, desirable in some respects, is of doubtful propriety in others. Complications might arise because there are country towns in the sanitary district. If the consolidation of city and county governments can be brought about it will not matter if the drainage trustees keep their jobs.

When the charter amendment came up in the senate four Cook county senators were absent without explanation. It is to be hoped that there will be no absent Cook county representatives tomorrow. There are no signs of opposition to the amendment, but it needs a two-thirds vote of all the members elected. The country members are willing to vote for the amendment because Chicago asks for it. As the measure does not affect their constituents they do not feel under the same obligation to be in their seats tomorrow that Chicago members should and to all appearances do feel. Their constituents are confident that their solid vote will be recorded for a measure of vital importance to Chicago. It should receive the necessary 102 votes on Tuesday.

The joint resolution which the house will consider permits the consolidation of city and county government. The joint resolution which the senate has adopted does not. Probably an amendment will be offered striking out all reference to the county. It is for the Chicagoans who have the subject in charge to decide whether such an amendment should be accepted. It should not be if they deem it possible to induce the senate to reconsider its action. If it is impossible the sooner the amendment—even in a mutilated form—gets through both houses the better. The amendment as the senate has agreed to it will make it possible to put through some reforms. Under it city, park, and town governments can be consolidated. Under it the justice courts can be got rid of. The borrowing power of the city will be increased. But political obstructionists ought to understand that these reforms will not suffice. When Chicagoans get them, and see the benefits arising from them, they will demand with greater energy reforms denied them now.

THE LAW AND VITO'S FINGERS.

If you employ a child under the legal working age and the child gets hurt by your machinery, the fact that you were employing the child illegally may be taken into consideration when the court computes the damages you are liable to pay. This is the position taken by the New York Court of Appeals (the highest court in the state) in the case of Vito Marino vs. Louis A. Lehmaier.

Vito was 13 years and 3 months old. The legal working age in New York is 14 years. Nevertheless, Mr. Lehmaier, representing that conservative element in New York which was shocked by the lawlessness of the Pennsylvania miners, employed Vito. He employed him as feeder to a printing press. Finally Vito, instead of feeding the press with paper, fed it with his fingers. The press was too rapid and too intricate for him. He then wanted damages. Mr. Lehmaier objected. He said that he was not responsible for what his employés might do to themselves while they were operating his machinery. Vito had (1) assumed the "risks of employed" and had (2) been clearly guilty of "contributory negligence." Therefore, Mr. Lehmaier owed him nothing. Vito was a commercial free agent, had taken his risks, had been negligent, had lost his fingers, and even if he was only 13 years old, was a wage earner and must take the incidents of wage earning life like a man.

This line of argument would have held had it not been for the fact that Vito, though a wage earner, was not old enough to be one legally. If he had been 14 the charges of "assumption of risks of employment" and of "contributory negligence" would, or might, have been conclusive. As things were, such charges were not considered by the court to be valid. "The statute in effect declares," said the court, "that a child under the age specified presumably does not possess the judgment, discretion, care, and caution necessary for the engagement in such a dangerous avocation, and is, therefore, not, as a matter of law, chargeable with contributory negligence or with having assumed the risks of employment in such occupation." And, in a concurring memorandum, Chief Judge Parker added: "May not the violation of the statute in the case of injuries which could not have happened but for its violation constitute evidence of negligence to be considered by the triers of the fact?"

There can be no doubt what answer the general public will give to this question. When a man employs a child under the working age the general public is glad to see him obliged to take all the legal and financial consequences that can be steered up in his direction.

LETTER OF MARQUISE DE FONTENOY.

Copyright: 1903: By the Marquise de Fontenoy.

LORD CHEYLESMORE, Alfred Vanderbilt's English brother-in-law, has leased Hughenden from Coningsby Disraeli, to whom it was bequeathed by his uncle, the late Lord Beaconsfield. Just why Lord Cheylesmore, who will be remembered on this side of the Atlantic as Gen. the Hon. Herbert Eaton, should have cared to rent such a place as Hughenden manor it is difficult to say. For he already has a historic country seat in Cheylesmore lodge, once owned by Edward the Black Prince, near Coventry. Moreover, one would have thought that he would have preferred in taking another place in the country to lease something more in the line of a real old-fashioned country seat of the approved "county" pattern than Hughenden manor.

The latter's only and sole merit is the glamour of Lord Beaconsfield that still hangs around the place, and perhaps the fact that it is situated in what is popularly regarded as, one of the most aristocratic counties in England, and within a drive by motor car from Windsor castle. In fact, Hughenden manor is, so to speak, within the social radius of the castle, and its new occupant—that is to say, Lord Cheylesmore and his American wife, who was Miss Elisabeth French of New York—will doubtless be included in the invitations addressed by the master of the royal household in the name of the king and queen to the "neighboring nobility and gentry" whenever there are any theatricals, concerts, dances, or entertainments of that kind given at Windsor castle.

Coningsby Disraeli, who has never "caught on" either politically or socially, was never included in these invitations, and the county people, taking their cue from the castle, followed suit, so that the atmosphere was not altogether congenial to the young member for Cheshire. On the other hand, Lord Cheylesmore, as an ex-guardsman and as persona grata at court, is certain to be brought with his wife, by their occupancy of Hughenden manor, into much closer touch than has until now been the case. It is probably that which has influenced Lord Cheylesmore to take Hughenden manor, which has nothing in the shape of beauty, comfort, or game preserves to recommend it.

Coningsby Disraeli is married to a daughter of Edward Silva—that is to say, of a man of the same race as himself; was the particular chum at Oxford of that "bit of a Fool," Sir Robert Peel, and would undoubtedly have received a peerage for his uncle's sake a long time ago had he in any way lived up to early promises, or responded to the expectations of those in court, political, and financial circles who were ready to promote his interests as the nephew and heir of Lord Beaconsfield, conspicuous among the number being the late queen, the present king, Lord Salisbury, Lord Rothschild, and last but not least Lord Rowton, the lifelong private secretary and fidus Achates of the great tory statesman. Indeed, there is today no love lost between young Disraeli and Lord Rowton, and the friends and admirers of Lord Beaconsfield seem to think that they are showing their regard for his memory by good will to his secretary rather than to his nephew.

There is an extraordinary feature in connection with the recent marriage at Florence between M. Nisard, the French ambassador to the vatican, and the Countess Perchenstein, sister of the Countess Angelique de Talleyrand Perigord, whose home at Florence, the Palazzo Talleyrand, is so well known to all Americans who have wintered in the former capital of Italy.

The Countess Perchenstein, who like her sister, Mme. de Talleyrand, is of Russian birth, a daughter of Dmitri Bernadaki, figures on the marriage certificate as a divorcee, in spite of which it was the French Cardinal Matthieu, archbishop of Toulouse, who performed the ceremony, of course with the consent of the vatican.

In order to explain this anomaly it is necessary to state that in Italy there exists a law which prohibits widows from remarrying until full ten months after the death of their husbands, the idea being of course to safeguard the interests of any posthumous child. Now, at the time of the Countess Perchenstein's marriage to the French ambassador at Florence she had been a widow for five months—that is to say, just half the period required by Italian law. But she had been divorced from the late Count Perchenstein for something like a quarter of a century prior to his demise, he making his home at Brussels and she at Florence.

Inasmuch, therefore, as she could not be legally married in Italy and according to the terms of the Italian law as a widow, she was wedded as a divorcee—that is to say, as far as the civil portion of the ceremony was concerned. The vatican affects to ignore the requirements of the Italian government in matrimonial matters, and therefore directed to the cardinal to take no notice of the quibble devised to get round the Italian marriage law, and to wed the Countess Perchenstein as a widow to the French ambassador.

Let me add that the latter is stone deaf and considerably over 60 years of age, while the new ambassadress has likewise seen more than three score summers.

With regard to this Italian law on the subject of the marriage of widows, no matter how advanced their age, it may be stated that there is something of the same kind in the English house of lords, where, if any peer dies without male issue, but leaving a widow, the kinsman who is called upon to succeed to his honors is not permitted to take his seat in the upper chamber nor to cast his vote until full ten months have elapsed since the demise of his predecessor, so as to allow the time for the birth of any posthumous son. It does not matter what the age of the widow may be, and when the late Lord Derby died, leaving a widow who was over 70, the usual ten months had to be allowed to pass before his brother and successor could take his seat in the house of lords as the earl of Derby or cast his vote as such.

It is doubtful whether Whitaker Wright can be convicted if he is taken back to England for trial. For there are so many technicalities by means of which he can escape. In fact, some time ago a distinguished English lawyer, one of the shining lights, indeed, of what is known as the criminal bar, made out a phenomenally long list of iniquitous things that could be done in England without bringing the perpetrator within the clutches of the common or statute law. He was on the point of publishing it, but was persuaded by the authorities to refrain from doing so on the ground that it would be a dangerous policy to call the attention of the people at large to all the things that they could do without rendering themselves liable to punishment.

The trial of Whitaker Wright, however, even if he escapes conviction, will be an exceedingly advantageous thing in every sense of the word. For it will in the first place clear the air of all those silly stories about the association of the king, of his brother, and of other members of the royal family in the Globe company scandals, and will at the same time serve to emphasize once more the many weak points of English criminal law, as well as the inadequacy of the latter.

PERSONAL.

Col. D. B. Henderson will be given a rousing reception upon his return to Dubuque. It will be entirely nonpartisan in character.

Mme. Szuba Weinberg, sister of Rubinstein, who died a few days ago, was, like many of the members of her family, a talented musician.

Capt. Amos H. Martin of the Nineteenth infantry, U. S. A., has been detailed as professor of military science at the University of Maine.

Swami Frigunatita of the Rama Kirshna monastery of Calcutta has arrived at San Francisco on a three year pilgrimage around the world.

Gabriel Godfrey, oldest chief of the Miamis, has parted with the final remnant of his estate in the valley of the Mississinerva and Wabash, Ind.

Soon after the marriage to Napoleon III. Empress Eugénie began to collect and file important letters from sovereigns, statesmen, soldiers, and other men of note. This collection is not in France.

Mrs. Susan R. Barr, who died at Fort Scott, Kas., recently, owned and lived on the farm where the battle of Antietam was fought. She was friendly to the union cause.

The lack of male heirs among leading English military men is remarkable. Lord Roberts' only son was killed in battle. Lord Kitchener is a bachelor, and Sir Redvers Buller's only child is a daughter.

THE TOP O' THE MORNIN'.

Remembrance.

Just as the roses hide the thorns
The goldenest of all the morns
May bring with it a day
That shall hold nothing else but pain
And heaviness of sobbing rain,
And bar the joys away.

And, as the thorn lurks near the rose,
So, near our glad things are our woes;
The cloud is near the dawn;
And grieving follows after cheer
Just as the stubborn thorns appear
When the red rose is gone.

But there is this we cannot lose—
This thought that Fate cannot refuse—
And it is good and fair:
Wherever, on a withered stem,
We see the thorns, once over them
The roses thrilled the air!

AN AFTERTHOUGHT.

The showman said:
"Buy Jingo!"
When of his size he read.

The showman said:
"By Jingo!"
On learning he was dead.

HAND MADE PHILOSOPHY.

It is hard to understand how Samson worked up his chest expansion when he had no health magazine to read.

At this stage of the game it is possible for a poet to rhyme "coal" with "soul" without straining himself.

The trouble is, we wonder too much why the other fellow doesn't listen to the whisperings of his own conscience.

The shirt waist need not go. That little matter of price can be—and will be—arranged.

Betting on an election is a good way for the other fellow to get a hat.

Thinking twice before listening to some things is about as good a rule as thinking twice before speaking.

Every time we hear a popular song we wonder why grammars were ever devised.

Nine-tenths of the icemen never know of the way they are described in the funny papers.

ANOTHER ILLUSION SHATTERED.

Some forty or fifty years ago Gen. Miles deposited a dollar in a savings bank and then forgot about it. Recently he remembered it and began a search which has terminated in finding the bank and the dollar.

Of the lessons on economy that were beaten into the heads of the youth of this country in the old school readers are to be relied upon, that dollar should have gathered interest and compound interest and otherwise miraculously increased until Gen. Miles should have been the owner of something near a million.

But—he gets only the dollar he put in.

Now we are glad we didn't put our dollar away.

THE NEW COLLEGE YELL.

Of old Cornell
And the whooping hail of Yale;
The Harvard howl
And the Princeton growl
To a milder tone must pale.

The U. C. shriek
And the Vassar squeak,
And the Hopkins' ribald
blare;
Northwestern's yelp
Of a lion whelp
Shall be softer on the air.

The Wellesley squeal
And the Stanford peal
And the rah rah of old Knox;
The West Point cry
And the Fiske ki yi
Must eliminate their shocks.

And the hoop-te-doos
Of the Oskaloos
Shall be made more circumspect—
But the college yell
Will sound like—well,
It will hold more intellect!

WOULDN'T NEED IT.

Once there was a shrewd man who went into a store to purchase some provender for his chickens.

Before he could be waited upon he saw two of his neighbors in the act of buying flower seeds.

INQUIRENDIO DE LUNATICO.

In Iowa they've held a court
To pass on Hamlet's sanity.
The jury says he showed a trace
Of overwhelming vanity,
And that he had a leaning to
A somber melancholiness,
Contrasting with the balanced mind
That bubbles o'er with jolliness.

Of course the verdict necessarily is superficial,
And has no binding weight, such as
If it were more judicial.
It finds that Hamlet's mental poise
Was firm to rigid steeliness,
And that this gave an added twist
To his apparent wheeliness.

We trust the judge will not call up
The jury for discharging it,
But that he'll point its duty out
And make a rule enlarging it.
There are some folks who think that they Can render Hamlet's haziness,
And some of them are wild enough
To be haled in for craziness.

The amateur who struts the boards,
All "to-be-or-not-to-be-ous,"
May be O. K. cerebrally,
But it is rather dubious.
The heavy browed professional
Who rolls his eyes so glaringly—
It seems to us the jury could Decide that case unerringly.

DO YOU REMEMBER THAT—

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO TODAY:

The first general militia law, signed by President Jefferson, was published throughout the United States.

SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY:

Robbers attacked the stage carrying United States mail between Princeton and Trenton, N. J., and were driven off by the armed guard.

FORTY YEARS AGO TODAY:

News reached Chicago that Gen. Fitzhugh Lee had challenged his classmate at West Point, Gen. Averill, to "come over the Rappahannock and fight him," and that Averill had responded and badly beaten the rebel commander in a fight at Kelly's Ford.

Gen. Burnside and corps left Pittsburg for Cincinnati to succeed Gen. Wright as commander of the department of the Ohio, which had assumed new importance because of a threatened rebel invasion.

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY:

Slavery was abolished in Porto Rico by the Madrid assembly.

News was received that the Nicaraguan canal route had been found practicable by United States surveyors.

Chicago newspapers announced that the new Lake View town hall, a "well proportioned, handsome building, costing $16,000," was nearly finished.

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY:

Two hundred Texas cowboys struck for $50 a month wages instead of $40, and threatened to enforce their demand with Winchesters.

The steamship Fulda reached New York on its maiden trip in the "quick" time of eight days.

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY:

Official anouncement was made that the Chicago world's fair would be opened on May 1 by President Cleveland, and surveyors laid out the site for the woman's building.

Old Man Hogan on the down trodden middle classes.

"IF I had my way about it I'd be either a plutocrat or a pauper," said Old Man Hogan. "An' I wouldn't much care which.

"Th' only trouble a millionaire has is to find something he hasn't got that he wants. Th' pauper has a great deal more than he wants give to him. An' th' down-trodden an' oppressed middle classes pays th' freight both ways.

THE PLUTOCRAT ON HIS STEAM YACHT.

"'Tis ivry man fer himself an' th' divil take th' lads in th' middle.

"If you're worth from two to fifty millions you're a strikin' example av th' latest phase av commercial an' financial fvolution; if you're too poor to pay fer your breakfast an' too lazy to work fer it, you're a proper subject fer th' study an' attintion av scientific sociology. But, if you're livin' somewhere in a two story house or a flat buildin' on from one to tin thousand a year, you're a commonplace an' stupid person av no inthrist to anybody in th' world but th' tax assessor an' th' lad that comes 'round ivry month with th' bill from th' grocery sthore.

"Th' millionaires are th' frostin' on top av th' cake; the paupers are th' layer av jelly down below; an' th' middle classes are jest plain dough in between thim.

"So it's plain to be seen that th' only way to win th' game is to play both inds against th' middle.

"Take th' burnin' question av 'Where shall I spind my vacation?'

"Th' millionaire puts his steam yacht into commission. He loads her up with ham sandwiches an' all th' other delicacies av th' season an' sails away in th' month av May to spind tin weeks in th' Land av th' Midnight Sun—thus avoidin' th' necessity av payin' gas bills. In th' fall he opins his place in California, siveral jack pots, an' any number av bottles av wine. Between seasons he has hardly time to grease up th' machine that clips his coupons fer him.

"'Tis th' same way with th' pauper. He starts out, maybe, be spindin' two weeks at th' Seaside Sanitary Camp fer Disinfected Depindints; a little later he goes to th' Mountain Resort fer Mendicants; th' month av August he spinds on th' Floatin' Refuge fer Fakirs; an', finally, he goes into winter quarters at the Happy Home fer Hopeless Hobos.

"Do their bist, neither one av thim can find time durin' th' year fer more than two weeks av quiet, ristful hard work.

"But whin a mimber av th' middle classes wants to take a vacation he must crimp and save up fer two months beforehand. His wife lits th' hired girl go an' he smokes nickel seegars an' stops spendin' money on th' church an' other luxuries.

"Finally th' boss gives him tin days off without pay an' he takes th' family out to a summer resort hotel, where th' air is full av mosquitoes, the wather full av microbes, an' th' bill full av extrays.

"Afther tin days av sufferin' he comes back to town, an' fer th' rist av th' year pays twelve dollars a ton fer coal an' twinty-five cints a pound fer beefsteak, so that th' millionaire can keep up dividinds an' th' pauper won't have to suffer any av th' discomforts av middle class life.

"'Tis th' easiest thing in th' world fer th' millionaire to git his picture in the papers. Ivry time he or his wife git a divorce or have any other triflin' domestic difficulty, there's a page give up to thim in th' Sunday supplemints, with an ornamintal border consistin' av th' photos av th' corespondints.

"Entherprisin' editors are always lookin' fer a chance to print illusthrations av th' interior av a pauper's dwellin', showin' that there's nothin' in th' house to eat but ham an' eggs—an' all th' other revoltin' details.

"But before a middle class man can git his mugg printed on th' first page he must murder his wife an' eight small children, run fer alderman, or commit some other terrible crime.

"Whin a millionaire gits th' grip he moves into his private hospital, orders a dozen trained nurses, assorted sizes, calls in th' hull faculty av th' last medical college he's endowed, starts his lit'rary secretary to work writin' his biography an' funeral notice, arranges fer bulletins showin' th' speed av his pulse an' what he et fer breakfast, an' settles down to injly himself for a couple av weeks.

"When a pauper gits th' grip microbe they sind fer him with a disinfected, sanitary ambulance, runnin' on rubber tires; they put him to bid on a rubber cushion in th' grip ward av th' free hospital. They feed him three differint kinds av anti-toxins; shoot nine differint kinds av goat lymph into him; take X ray photographs av his interior workin's; lit an electric light down into his duodenum; turn th' Finsen rays on th' top av his bald head; remove his appendix an' his pituary glands, an' feed him half a pint av brandy an' port wine ivry twinty minutes.

"Th' pauper has th' time av his life an' whin he's through he's cured not only av th' grip but av nine other diseases he nivir evin suspicted he had about him. His hair has growed out long, he's got a new set av false teeth, due to th' invigoratin' lymph, an' a good foundation fer one av th' finest jags av his career.

THE PAUPER AT TH' MOUNTAIN RESORT FER MENDICANTS.

"But th' bist a mimber av th' middle classes can git whin he catches th' grip is a prescription callin' fer three fingers av Bourbon whisky an' four grains of quinine ivry half hour, a docthor's bill for $7.85, an' a dock iv $3 in his wages fer layin' off Saturday afternoon.

"Th' paupers an' th' plutocrats are th' boys that have all th' bist av it. It's th' middle classes that I'm sorry fer."

Progressive Kissing.

AT FOUR MONTHS.
First time he kissed me with wide open mouth
And tiny lips as soft as scarlet silk;
And with that kiss, like breezes from the south,
There came the faint, sweet scent of Mellin's milk.

AT FOURTEEN.
Next time he kissed me he began to bawl;
I bribed and coaxed—deceiver that I am—
To get a kiss that was just after all

AT TWENTY-FOUR.
Third time he kissed me—ah! the memories!
Some things, indeed, a woman ne'er forgets.
So full of ardor—and stale cigarets.

AT FORTY.
Just now he kissed me—and I'd almost vow
E'n at this crowning moment of our bliss,
That I'd discovered—do not ask me how!—
A cocktail lurking in that tender kiss.

Had It In for Him.

[From the New York Times.]

Col. Church of the Army and Navy Journal tells a story of the days when the people lavishly welcomed home the heroes of the Spanish-American war. At that time a big man who had been behind a great gun was riding uptown on a Broadway car. Seated next to the sailor was an important looking individual who, in the way of introduction, and with evident pride, said:

"I am a sailorman myself in a way, but not exactly of the navy. You see, I am the man who supplied the cheese you had on your battleships."

"You are, are you?" queried the sailorman, as he struck him a blow that knocked his neighbor clear across the car. "And now," he asked, "will you tell me where I can find the man who supplied us with our butter?"

"I should say you did."

"Here's 25 cents."

"What's that for?"

"That's an apology for $10."—New York Evening Telegram.

HEAVY LOSS IN DEPOSITS.

BANKS SHOW DECREASE OF $36,000,000 IN TWO WEEKS.

Shrinkage Saves the Surplus Reserve from Deficit—Wholesale Trade Is Stimulated by Advancing Season and Partial Easing of the Car Shortage—All the Grain Lists Subject to Heavy Selling, Liquidation Bringing with It Lower Prices.

In the last two weeks the New York banks have lost $35,927,300 in deposits. By such a severe reduction the weekly statement has been prevented from showing a deficit. In the same two weeks the banks have actually lost $4,762,400 in cash. Loans have decreased $28,045,900. But the loan decreases have not contributed to the cash, and the statements, aside from the increase in surplus through the loss of deposits, have made poor showings. Deposits are less by $73,000,000 than they were one year ago, and $100,000,000 less than they were two years ago. Loans, on the other hand, are $1,500,000 less than one year ago, and $100,200,000 greater than two years ago. The cash held by the banks is $18,00,000 less than last year, and $22,000,000 less than in 1901.

The changes in detail in Saturday's statement follow:

La Salle the West's Wall Street.

The following communication has been received from D. C. Imboden:

"Although conditions in Wall street have been strained for some time, they will remain so until adjusted to the new conditions working, which in a few years will result in less speculation there and a more healthy monetary condition throughout the entire country. The country today as a whole is on a firmer basis than ever, but not so with Wall street. The west is stronger than ever, therefore not so dependent on Wall street for assistance, consequently will not carry as large balances there. The west today is practically to Wall street what Wall street has become to Mark lane, able to stand alone.

"The west is fast forming its own Wall street, with La Salle street as its center. The present situation and that obtaining for the last eight months in Wall street I feel is due to the New York operators who, seeing bountiful crops last year, expected a proportionately large flow of bank balances their way, and in anticipation prepared or loaded up on new securities But last year's good crops, following other late prosperous years, have made the west almost independent, and it therefore carries its balances nearer home and where they will help most. So Wall street found itself as short of cash as it was long securities. It caught them coming and going, as it were. The condition made the results but natural and inevitable. Wall street must gradually reduce its line of securities until they are more in keeping with its own resources, independent of the west's support.

"The financial thermometer of Wall street will not reflect the general conditions of the country so correctly as heretofore. The west is more varied and industrial in its financial affairs, therefore more stable. La Salle street before long will be recognized as the more reliable financial indicator."

Export Trade Getting Normal.

The export trade of the United States is rapidly resuming its normal conditions. February figures of the bureau of statistics show the largest exports of any February in the history of our commerce, and also show that the exports of the three months ending with February were larger than those of the corresponding period of any earlier year. On the import side the figures also show a continuation of the growth which has characterized the last two years, and the figures of the eight months ending with February suggest that the imports of the United States in the fiscal year 1903 may exceed a billion dollars, while the export figures seem likely to exceed $1,400,000,000.

In the short month of February alone the exports amounted to $125,502,105, which is $12,000,000 in excess of any preceding February and more than double the figures of February, 1893, in which month the total exports were $59,931,984. Taking the three months ending with February, 1903, the total exports are $407,526,200, against $215,151,471 in the three months ending with February, 1893. Thus, considering either the month of February or the three months ending with February, 1903, the total exports are not only larger than in that period of any preceding year, but practically double those of a decade ago.

These large export figures are due in part to the fact that the new corn crop is rapidly entering the markets of the world, to which the United States was able to make but slight contributions last year, the corn exportations in February, 1903, having been 13,000,000 bu, against a little over 1,000,000 bu in February last year. Cotton exports also show a marked gain over those of last year, the value of the cotton exported in Februaray, 1903, being $37,423,317, against $24,768,762 in February of last year. Both in quantity and price the cotton exports of February exceed those of February, 1902, the number of pounds exported in February, 1903, being 401,594,799, against 296,814,567 in February last year; while the average price per lb was 9.3c in February, 1903, against 8.3c in February, 1902.

| Three months ending with February. | Total exports. |
|---|---|

Chicago Stocks.

The Chicago stock market throughout the week presented one feature of special interest, it being the course of Boxboard. The preferred touched 29 on sales by former plant owners. There may be a small short interest in the market, but it has been inconsequential compared with the sales by actual owners of the shares. It was pointed out in the course of a week that a price of 30 for Boxboard preferred represented a valuation of $4,200,000 for the company's property. That seems a low price for the boxboard business of this country. While there are predictions that the stock will go to 20, it would seem that nothing but blundering could occasion such a price. The directors passed the quarterly dividend and resolved to build up a surplus, something the concern has been needing.

No prediction is ventured as to the length of time the dividends will be passed. They are cumulative, however, and the largest holders of the stock, while figuring they cannot afford to sell at these prices, also assert they feel safe since they believe the dividends will in time be paid.

The Biscuit stocks have held well. There is a constant demand for both the common and preferred. While they do not advance materially neither do they decline, a degree of stability that speaks well for the security.

Wholesale Trade Stimulated.

The wholesale trade of the week had several elements of stimulation, chief among which was the advancing season and the consequent growth of demand by retailers for the class of goods always called for on the opening of spring. The transportation difficulty, for a long time a serious drawback to business, was eased, in a measure, and at some large distributing points better facilities were afforded than for months. There was but one distinctly unfavorable factor in the situation really existing, that of floods and bad roads, but in some quarters the unsettled condition of labor affairs presented a foreboding of evil, and whatever influence this may have exerted was more in the nature of a fear of what would happen than anything that had actually occurred.

The firmness of all dry goods lines in the first hand market was a feature of especial importance to the trade. While retailers had bought spring goods in advance more liberally than for years, there were those who had expected lower prices by the middle of March and had not stocked up as heavily as they otherwise would have. Values, instead of declining, are now at a point the highest of the year past. The trade of the week was largely in the line of dress goods and the multitude of notions needed for Easter sales. While no new quotations for cotton goods were announced, the market retained all of its recent firmness. Silk houses had an especially active trade.

Lumber Trade Makes Advances.

While floods and shortages of cars are by no means factors of the past, and while scarcity of many leading lines of lumber continues a serious drawback to trade, still the business of the last week showed improvement over that of the preceding period, the gains being substantial and of a character to revive the drooping spirits of dealers, who foresaw disaster in the adverse conditions prevailing for some time previous. The transportation service was improved in spots, and southern points suffering from the impediments inflicted by floods began to experience a measure of relief with promise of speedy recovery from the temporary paralysis of business.

With southern mills shut down on account of weather conditions and the northern mills not yet ready to begin cutting, there is a poor outlook for any immediate increase in the supply of hardwoods. In many leading lines the scarcity amounts to actual famine, and in several trade centers it is an utter impossibility to secure some of the woods, most needed by manufacturers for everyday consumption. In poplar stocks especially does there seem to be no relief in sight, prices continuing firm to the point of an advancing tendency. The full record of the lumber situation at this date would be a continuous reiteration of the expression, "Scarce and growing scarcer; high priced and growing higher."

In the construction record of the month of February there is disclosed a serious falling off in the number and value of buildings erected in this city, as compared with the same month of 1902. The figures show 290 buildings, of the value of $1,225,675, this year, as against 306, valued at $8,359,250, last year. The discrepancy, immense as it is, was not felt in proportion in the lumber trade; indeed, the volume of business for last month was in excess of that of February, 1902. Where the explanation lies is as yet unannounced.

Coal Situation Lacks Strength.

No features savoring of strength were presented in the bituminous coal market during the week. The sluggish conditions prevailing all through March were accentuated, and for the three weeks of the month the comparison would be weak, weaker, weakest. Consumers were not eager to buy over and above actual necessities, in the face of a constantly declining market, and with daily regularity large quantities of coal arrived that had been long delayed in transit, in addition to the regular receipts. This caused an accumulation of stock in the hands of all dealers, and added to the burden of the situation. In consequence some of the principal western mines are restricting production to save further discomfort and probable loss to the trade. A question fully as interesting to large users of western bituminous as the present status of the market is the probable price after April 1, which seems certain to be from 25c to 35c per ton greater than the contract prices for the year ending this month.

Eastern fuels made a decline simultaneously with the western, but with the former there exists the uncertainties of transportation. Western users of coke exerted the greatest possible pressure for supplies, and while during the week some relief was experienced there exists a shortage much under requirements. Shipments of anthracite from the mines were fairly heavy and receipts here exceeded the demand. There being a tendency towards accumulation in the hands of local dealers, prompt shipment to western points depending on this market could be assured were the railroads in position to furnish the cars. So great have been delays in transportation that new prices have been announced before the consignments have reached their destination.

Coal Prices Lowest for a Year.

Prices are irregular to a point that exact quotations are difficult to give. Western bituminous is cheaper than at any time within the last twelve months. For Indiana (Sullivan county) and Illinois lump the range was from $1.90 to $2.10, on the f. o. b. basis, and much pressure to sell even at these rates. Mine run sold as low as $1.60 to $1.75, and weak. Screenings ruled $1.40 to $1.50. For anthracite there was little announced change in prices. The Black Diamond, an organ of the western coal trade, reports having heard of $6.00, f. o. b., Chicago, being quoted by a local jobbing company as the rate for individual coal for April delivery, dating from Monday, March 16, and covering the prepared sizes. This price, however, has not been scheduled.

In no branch of business was there the anxiety displayed as to the course of prices of materials as was exhibited in that of paints and colors. The recent sharp advance in pig lead and the consequent revision of the price list on white lead gave manufacturers much difficulty in the way of fixing values on the finished products. Twice within the week the trade was surprised by a sudden advance in pig lead, the first $5.00 per ton, the second $6.00 per ton. Many manufacturers stand to lose heavily through advance orders taken on the basis of former values, and several large concerns were caught by the second advance, having adjusted their selling lists by the first rise.

Jobbers, while doing more business than at this time in 1902, are not making nearly so much profit, and an advance along the line of jobbing quantities is expected. It seems a certainty that when spring actually opens the work done in active painting operations will surpass all previous records.

In drugs the firmness of prices in many lines of staples continued. Holders of cod liver oil are unwilling to sell at current quotations, save in a limited way, the catch of the present season being reported inadequate to supply the market. Old oil has for that reason advanced sharply, $96 per barrel laid down in New York being reported as the basis of a recent sale. Opium and quinine were each firm, the former holding in sympathy with conditions at primary sources of supply.

Increase in Metal Production.

There was a distinct gain in local production of iron and steel products during the last week, supplies of coke sufficient to put into operation the furnaces of the large operators having been secured by special efforts. Danger of the severe curtailment of the wire and nail plants is thus eliminated. In the general metal market there is no longer a question of demand but of supply. The line of orders was not desultory and irregular, but the call for material from all parts of the west was almost universal. The critical point in the situation now seems to be the ability of producers to come anywhere near supplying the widespread and constantly increasing demand. Cars loosened up considerably during the week, and more satisfactory conditions seem sure to prevail in the matter of transportation. The most significant fact in the pig iron market was the demand for basic iron, inquiries for which, in the west alone, were said to exceed 200,000 tons, with considerable tonnage already sold. Efforts to buy pig iron on speculation are not favored by producers, who hold close to current quotations. Some southern producers continued to offer No. 2 foundry at $22.35 Chicago, but the large tonnage is held 50c higher.

Liquidation was the order of the day in the wheat market nearly all of the week closing on Saturday. On that day the price was lower than at any time during the period. Sales were made on Saturday at 72⅝c for the May, the same delivery selling the previous Saturday at 75c. It closed then at 74⅜c. Last Saturday the closing price was 72¾-⅞c. In a general way the weather was too fine for the price, and nearly all the longs, both large and small, were inclined to liquidate. The springlike weather prevailing during the middle of the week was the principal excuse for selling.

At no time during the week did the market have much support. The foreign inquiry fell off and exporters in all of the markets were apparently indifferent. Orders were so far out of line that little wheat could be moved, and consequently the Bradstreet's figures on exports showed a substantial loss from the previous week. The foreign movement to date shows a decrease of 20,517,000 bu, as compared with last year. In the foreign markets, both English and continental, there is reported a continued pressure of foreign wheat. India is said to be offering at Liverpool for spring shipment at prices about 7c below spot parity. The foreign sentiment is reported much more bearish on Argentine wheat, which is also pressing more or less heavily. Altogether, the outlook is construed as unfavorable for heavy sales of American wheat.

In a way the market was firm at times by light receipts. Carlots in the three principal markets, Minneapolis, Duluth, and Chicago, were reported at 1,996, as against 2,190 the previous week and 2,213 a year ago. Locally receipts have far exceeded shipments.

All the authorities, such as the Modern Miller, the Northwestern Miller, and the Price Current, agree that the outlook for later wheat could not well be better than it is now. Little or no damage is being reported in any section from bugs or fly, and it is being generally admitted that the season has progressed so far that damage by freezing weather is altogether improbable.

At the milling centers the wheat situation continues about as strong as ever, an enormous flour output making grinders active purchasers of the higher grade wheat. These continue scarce and stocks are small in all directions. An improved flour movement is reported toward both Australia and Japan, and many of the northwestern mills are said to be sold far ahead.

Long Lines of Corn Sold.

The feature of corn was the unloading on Wednesday of last week of the Armour and the Cudahy lines. It is considered probable that these aggregated in the neighborhood of 10,000,000 bu. The May price started in the week at 47c, but on Wednesday was down to 43⅝c. It recovered subsequently and closed at 43⅞c, as against 46⅞ the previous Saturday. The liquidation of the Armour line was construed by the trade as removing any possibility of a bull campaign in the May delivery. The July was strengthened by heavy purchases against the May sales. To this extent the situation on the deferred delivery was strengthened, while the near-by was naturally subject to a weak and heavy tone. Receipts did not run as free as were generally expected. The disposition on the part of country holders seems now to favor the holding of corn because of its poor condition, and the probability of trouble with it after it finds its way to elevators. Considering this danger the farmers are hurrying oats forward and, as stated, holding back corn.

The foreign demand continues strong. Bradstreet's figures on exports to date showing a movement nearly 17,000,000 bu in excess of last year's figures. Elevator interests with cleaning and drying facilities are apparently making preparations toward much larger contributions to the stock of contract grade. All during the week they were much more actively in the cash market and bought more freely of the grades which were susceptible of improvement.

Oats Price Holds Up.

A more general steady tone was noticeable in oats than in any other grain. The closing price on the May on Saturday was 34⅝c, exactly where it stood the previous Saturday. On only two occasions during the week was the May price under 34c. Volume of speculative trade was considerably larger and holders of substantial lines did not show much disposition to liquidate them. Reports from the southern and central part of the state report seeding operations well under way, with the prospects of an increased acreage.

The week in the provision pit was moderately active, prices showing a somewhat wider range, and values at the close about where they stood a week ago. The market hinged nearly all the week on hog receipts, which, for this month, are estimated to show a falling off of about 250,000. There is a better cash inquiry for both cured meats and lards, shipments of which have averaged larger, although not up to last year's figures. The decrease for the week was about 4,000,000 lbs of meats, and 3,000,000 lbs of lard.

AMERICANS ALONE ARE STRONG.

Form Sole Redeeming Feature in London Stock Market, Where Trading Is at Low Ebb.

LONDON, March 22.—The dealings in Americans and Canadian Pacifics were the sole redeeming feature in last week's stock market. There were flurries here and there during the week, the news of the Uruguayan revolution, for instance, causing temporary excitement, but otherwise the whole lists have been lifeless and there is little hope of improvement before Easter. The public is disinclined to speculate or invest before the budget statement is issued, while money is scarce, and until the outlook in Venezuela becomes clear. The Southern Pacific railroad struggle is watched with interest on this side and has created a certain degree of nervousness. Consols remain at low water mark. Home rails are flabby, and even Colonial Secretary Chamberlain's speeches have failed to have any favorable effect on the south African market.

Regain Confidence in Berlin.

BERLIN, March 22.—There were indications of regained confidence in the New York situation among the operators on the boerse last week. The reports received here that the Harriman and Keene interests had buried the hatchet had a marked effect in allaying the uneasiness regarding the flurry on Wall street. The American demand for money is also diminishing and little was heard last week about borrowings for New York.

DAY IN THE CUSTOM HOUSE.

Duties Paid Amount to $44,532, of Which Warehouse Withdrawals Furnish $35,134.

Duties paid at the custom house yesterday amounted to $44,532.16, imposts furnishing $9,398.03, and warehouse withdrawals $35,134.13.

Imported goods arrived as follows: 240 cases Fuller's earth, 3,000 bars lead bullion, 1 bale tobacco, 1 case statuary, 127 bales burlaps, 31 mahogany logs, 167 cases tea, 96 cases mackerel, 100 cases whisky, 290 sacks salt, 58 cases dry goods, 12 coils wire, 1 case chromos, 1 case vaccine virus, 1 case preserved fruit, 1 case vanilla beans, 1 case printed matter, 1 bale periodicals, 5 cases glassware, 120 bales corkwood, 4 cases musical instruments, 3 cases ironware.

Entered for immediate consumption: 15 cases dry goods, 14 cases woodenware, 1 case gin, 1 case rugs, 20 bags coffee, 3 bales morocco skins, 12 coils wire rope, 1 case books, 5 cases metal ware, 130 bales corkwood, 2 hhds. sherry, 1 case vaccine virus, 1 case jewelry, 1 case vanilla beans, 1 bale periodicals, 100 bales burlaps, 129 rolls linoleum, 40 cases turtle meat, 450 sacks salt, 76 bales feathers, 8 cases personal effects, 1 case woodenware, 55 mahogany logs, 100 cases tea.

HIGH PRICES LOOKED FOR.

WALL STREET INTERESTS ARE ACCUMULATING STOCKS.

Plan to Hold Securities, Purchased at Low Figures, for a Rise Meets with Favor—Public Is Slow to Take Advantage of Low Rates—Industrials Make Better Showing than Railroad Issues—They Are Worth More than Prices Quoted.

[BY A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.]

NEW YORK, March 21.—[Special.]—The conditions affecting the local stock market are moving more in favor of the advocates of higher prices, while various indications lead the careful observers to believe the strongest Wall street interests are quietly accumulating stocks tp hold for better quotations. The trading in last week's market reflected the presence in the street of a growing bull party.

There is, however, no important increase in the volume of outside business, although the brokers reported inquiries from customers regarding the prospects of expanding values and the wisdom of purchasing at the current level. It is reasonable to believe that the public interest in stocks will gradually improve, but it is likely that an active public buying will not develop until values are above the current level, as the courage of the so-called public trader is seldom strnog enough to buy securities until the full market is well under way. Unfortunately for their incomes, the public operators in stocks seldom buy when prices are at an attractive level.

Regarding the present level of values, it is interesting to note the comparisons made with the high level a year ago and the striking losses which have brought many issues to the bargain level.

Industrial shares as a rule have made a better showing than the railroad issues so far as the price decline is concerned, but this is not surprising in view of the fact that the hgh market quotations in most industrial shares last year were well under their actual worth as securities.

There has practically been no speculation in the industrial list during the whole of last year. Despite this fact, this class of investments has developed and increased in intrinsic strength throughout the twelve months. The improvement has continued this year, and it is believed in most circles that it is a reflection of their increase in actual worth, which will soon be presented in the market quotations of sound industrial issues.

In the majority of solid dividend paying industrial stocks that are listed on the stock exchange the return is from 7 to 9 per cent, while in the better class of railroad issues the holders are compelled to be satisfied with from 3 to 4 per cent, and in some instances even less. The business expansion of this country is reflected in the dividend payments on industrial stocks, and, while this fact has received comparatively little attention in the stock market, it is reasonable to believe the actual merit of this class of securities will eventually find its proper measure in market quotations of the so-called new industrials which represent old securities under new names.

In the new corporations of recent years there is merely a consolidation of long established concerns which have been brought together for the purpose of conducting business at a cheaper cost, and larger profits are beginning to come.

The dividends on the common stock of the Corn Products company, the announcement of which was made last week, furnish additional evidences of the prosperity of the large industrial corporations of this country. There seems to be no good reason for predictions of further material success by the bear party, as the conditions responsible for the recent decline in values are disappearing, while the prospects encourage the expectation of a general advance in values in the late spring and summer market. The monetary developments foreshadow easier rates for loans, time funds at the close of last week being offered for long periods at 5 per cent, while call money was appreciably easier.

IN THE NEW YORK MARKETS.

Quotations on Dry Goods, Coffee, Butter, Poultry, Metals, and Other Special Lines.

NEW YORK, March 21.—The dry goods market possessed the inevitable characteristics of the week end. Prices are without change in many instances, but manufacturers in certain quarters are less independent regarding future contracts. Jobbers are not active, but conditions throughout the country warrant hope for the future.

Coffee, Spot and Future.

Coffee—The market was even duller than the recent average. It opened steady at unchanged prices and closed dull at a partial decline of 5 points, with sales reported of 3,000 bags. From this it is apparent that whatever the inclination to sell the disposition to buy is limited. Offerings also were moderate. The spot market is quiet, with quotations on the basis of 5½c for Rio No. 7.

Butter in All Grades.

Butter—Creamery extras, per pound, 29c; do, firsts, 27@28½c; second, 23@26c; held extras, 24c; held firsts, 21@23c; state dairy, tubs, fresh, fancy, 27c; do, firsts, 24@26c; do, common to fair, 21@23c; western imitation creamery, finest, 20c; good to prime, 17@19c; renovated extras, 19c; good to choice, 16@18c; common to fair, 12@15c; western factory, fresh, small tubs, fancy, 16c; large tubs, fancy, 15½@16c; do, choice, 15c; seconds, 14@14½c; held, finest, 15c; rolls, fresh, choice, 15c; do, common to prime, 13@14c; packing stocks sold, packed, 12@13½c.

Poultry—Alive and Dressed.

Poultry—Alive—Fowls, per lb, 12c; roosters, young, 11c; turkeys, 15c; ducks, western, average, per pair, 80c@$1.00; do southern and southwestern, 70@80c; geese, western, average, $1.50@1.62; do southern and southwestern, $1.25@1.37; live pigeons, per pair, 35@40c. Dressed—Fresh killed—Turkeys, average best, 16@17c; do fair to prime, 15@15½c; do common, 13@14c; chickens, Ohio and Michigan, scalded, fancy, 13½c; do other western, fancy, 13½c; fowls, western, heavy, 12½@13c; do dry picked, iced, 12½@13c; do southern and southwestern, scalded, iced, 11@12c; capons, Ohio, fancy, large, 18@19c; mixed, 16@17c; other western choice, 16@17c; squabs, prime, large white, per doz, $2.75@3.00; do mixed, $2.25; do dark, $1.25@1.50.

Tin, Copper, Lead, and Iron.

Tin—Dull; spot, $29.50@29.90. Copper—Dull; standard, $14.00; lake and electrolytic, $14.75@15.00; casting, $14.60@15.00. Spelter—Firm, $5.75 for spot. Lead, $4.67½. Iron—Prices nominally unchanged

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK MARKET.

Movement of Cattle, Hogs, Sheep, and Lambs, with the Range of Prices and Comparisons.

Estimated receipts of cattle here on Saturday were 200; hogs, 7,000; and sheep, 3,000. Closing values on beef cattle were about the same as a week ago. Fat cows and heifers were 15c to 20c higher for the week. There was not much competition in canner grades, but calves showed a decline for the week. Stock cattle supplies were not large and prices were a shade easier. There was an unusually light run of hogs for the last day of the week and prices ruled 5c to 10c higher at the opening, but with an easier close. Much of the sheep stock was sold to arrive, but Saturday sales were on a steady basis.

Cattle.

The week's trade in the beef cattle line practically closed on Friday, there being nothing to attract buyers on Saturday. The estimated run of 200 included no beef steers, but the few loads of butcher stuff disposed of showed the market to be on a steady basis with Thursday's average, or a shade higher than the opening prices on Monday. The slight reaction in the cattle market placed prices back to the level of the previous week's close. Quotations:

|---|---|
| Prime beeves, 1,250 lbs and up | $5.40@5.65 |
| Good to choice, 1,250 lbs and up | 4.60@5.30 |

| Bologna bulls | 2.50@3.25 |
| Veal calves | 5.00@7.15 |
| Stock calves | 2.25@4.50 |

Hogs.

Not enough hogs arrived on Saturday to make much of a market. Only a few of the regular buyers were operating, but they furnished sufficient demand, considering the light supplies, to enable sellers to force an advance of 5c to 10c over Friday's average. The advance, however, was on the medium and light mixed grades, the top kinds selling at the same prices brought on Friday. The low point of the week was on Wednesday, when the extreme top was $7.45, while Saturday's top price was $7.65. Quotations:

|---|---|
| Good to prime, 245 to 400 lbs | $7.50@7.65 |
| Common to good, 245 to 400 lbs | 7.25@7.50 |
| Good to prime, 190 to 245 lbs | 7.35@7.60 |
| Assorted light, 100 to 180 lbs | 7.25@7.35 |
| Common to good, 130 to 160 lbs | 6.80@7.30 |
| Mixed, 200 to 245 lbs | 7.25@7.50 |
| Light mixed, 160 to 200 lbs | 6.90@7.35 |
| Pigs | 5.75@6.90 |

Sheep.

Of the 3,000 sheep estimated to arrive on Saturday over two-thirds were sold to arrive. The number on sale was insufficient to create much of a market. The week's trade closed fully steady and some strength was shown in sales made Saturday—$6.50 was for a bunch of native ewes and $6.25 for some clipped stock. The top for lambs for the week was $7.50, which was also the record for the season. Quotations:

|---|---|
| Good to choice wethers | $5.50@6.15 |
| Good to choice ewes | 5.00@5.75 |
| Poor to medium ewes | 4.00@4.75 |
| Lambs | 4.50@7.00 |
| Rams | 4.00@4.25 |
| Fed range wethers | 5.75@6.15 |
| Fed range ewes | 5.00@5.70 |
| Fed range lambs | 6.50@7.35 |

DOWIE ASKS HIS PEOPLE FOR HALF A MILLION CASH.

Overseer Tells His Followers That He Demands Both Their Money and Their Lives.

John Alexander Dowie needs $400,000 or $500,000 for building his new tabernacle in Zion City and yesterday he addressed an urgent appeal to his followers assembled in the Auditorium.

"I could easily get all the money I need outside of Zion," he said, "but I come to you, because I want the money out of clean hands. I must have the money, and must have it soon, because the contracts for the steel construction of the tabernacle must be given out in a short time.

"This is not a holdup. The holdup men demand your money or your life, but I demand not only your money but your lives, too."

DOGS ARRIVE FOR BENCH SHOW.

Several Animals from New York and Philadelphia Reach Here for Exhibit Which Opens Wednesday.

The first consignment of out of town dogs for the Chicago Kennel club's dog show came in yesterday from the east. There are upwards of forty in the lot, which includes a number of the most famous winners which have been exhibited at the recent big western shows.

Several of the arrivals are from New York, but most of them are from Philadelphia, and among them are dogs from George H. Thomas' kennels. These are in charge of B. F. Lewis.

These dogs are at the First Regiment armory, and will be rested up and put in condition for the show which opens on Wednesday.

AMONG THE LATE BOOKS.

"EUROPEAN AND JAPANESE GARDENS," BY VARIOUS HANDS.

Formal Parks of Italy, England, and France Compared with Those of the Orient—A Handsome Volume Dealing with the Higher Phases of Gardening—Experts Write on the Art of Beautifying the Landscape—The Contrast of Ideas.

"EUROPEAN and Japanese Gardens" (Henry T. Coates & Co., Philadelphia) is a collection of four papers read before the American Institute of Architects in 1900. They treat of Italian, English, French, and Japanese gardens, and are respectively by A. D. F. Hamlin, R. Clipston Sturgis, John Galen Howard, and K. Honda, and are edited for the Institute of American Architects by Glenn Brown, its secretary.

The introduction makes clear the raison d'être of the volume by saying that "it is only within a recent period that the architects of the United States have appreciated the fact that the garden should be designed in connection with the house," and "that to encourage and popularize this fact it was determined to make the subject of gardens one of the principal topics of consideration at the annual meeting of the institute held in Washington in 1900." It further says that the institute was "fortunate in being able to secure papers from those who were enthusiastic and scholarly students of the field which each presented."

It is encouraging to find such a body as the American Institute of Architects awakening to the necessity of considering gardens at all; but, no matter how excellent the intention, landscape gardening art and architectural art can never be legitimately wedded until the ministers to each work together from the outset. Our one grand example of what may result from such collaboration is still fresh in mind—the Chicago fair, the picture formed by its buildings and its landscape.

Probably there will always be advocates of the classic or formal treatment of the ground around a building. As some one has said: "It is certainly true that there are beautiful old walls in English gardens, and there is a kind of beauty in the architectural features of the old Italian gardens, although many people suspect that it is the beauty of decay; that the broken columns and crumbling statues are more impressive now than they were in their prime, from the fact that their dilapidation tells their age and invests them with a halo of romance." It is logical that architects should largely lean toward the formal—the architectural style of gardening—for it has a close esthetic and practical affinity with their art, while naturalistic gardening has little or none. The symmetry, definite balance, mathematically exact proportioning, etc., which characterize architectural excellence, are not the merits the landscape gardener seeks to produce. It is true that both strive for unity and harmony, for balance of parts, etc., but the landscape worker "achieves his end by avoiding symmetry and obvious repetitions, by appearing to treat each passage of his work for the sake of its individual importance, and yet subtly combines them into a coherent, artistic whole."

Modern architecture and formal gardening, its helper, come to us from classic art; landscape gardening has come to us from oriental art—the Chinese were the first landscape gardeners—which accounts for the landscape gardening art of the Japanese.

The late William A. Stiles, editor of Garden and Forest for the ten years of its existence, and an accepted authority on American outdoor art, said of formal and naturalistic gardening: "Of course, the borders of the two branches overlap, but naturalistic ideals are those which, in the great majority of cases, can best serve the needs of American communities. Only in the narrow environment of city buildings and in the immediate vicinity of large and stately edifices which stand in more open situations are formal gardening schemes demanded in this land and age." He spoke of the essentially American character of the art of landscape gardening and said that the radical difference between the ideals of the architect and of the landscape gardener lies in the fact that the one secures harmony and beauty by the use of symmetry, the other by its avoidance. This, he said, is the chief reason why the modern architect, unless he has made a special and sympathetic study of landscape gardening, is unlikely to understand the aims of an art so radically unlike his own in its ideals, and may even lead him to deny that it is as true and as worthy an art as his own. He also said that a landscape painter knows that natural landscapes are not all beautiful, but often need to be "arranged" before being turned into pictures; that he knows that this may be done without injury to their naturalistic character; he understands how "composition" may be achieved in accordance with binding artistic laws and yet the general result seem spontaneous and natural.

The fact is that each house with its grounds should be a picture, and a landscape gardener who deserves the title begins each piece of work by picturing to his mind's eye, as clearly and definitely as possible, what the finished place shall look like; and in selecting the materials for his picture he chooses each tree, shrub, and plant because it is "needed to complete his idea and give expression to his thought."

This is not as simple as it sounds. It is difficult to create such a picture even in the imagination. In fact, only the "genuine creative faculty can see just what elements in a landscape are the essentials that should fix its character, or can judge the relative proportional importance to be given to each so as to produce the best effect and invest the whole with a charm which shall be distinctly its own."

It is probable that the average architect's bias toward formality in gardens is partly due to a natural disinclination to have the general view of his building obscured and its best details blotted out by badly placed trees, shrubs, and vines. There is some ground for this feeling, for time was when a row of long legged trees, a dense mat of vines, a clipped hedge, and a polka dotted lawn was the sum and substance of "planting." But, let us hope, this day is past. Now, bare trunks are clothed with vines or are screened by shrubbery, while trees that naturally branch from the ground are given space and location where they may be beautiful in their own fashion; stiffly sheared hedges have largely given place to irregular belts of shrubbery allowed to grow informally, and where, in case one plant winter kills, its loss is not noticed, while the loss of one plant in a hedge means a lasting and prominent defect, and the planter of today finds it possible to select for certain locations, where space is restricted and vegetation must be kept within bounds, shrubs that may be cut back at will, but he does this pruning without shearing into formal shapes and without in the least interfering with the characteristic habit of the bushes. At all events all danger may be obviated by placing the planting design in competent hands. In making a picture, as the leading landscape authorities advocate, the "open center," with foliage massed at the sides and back as a frame and setting, make an admirable background, yet afford a clear view of the building, while the comparatively little planting against the house itself is for the purpose of accentuating good features and screening less desirable ones. Long or high and blank wall spaces are relieved, angles softened and corners rounded out to the end of enhancing the whole; these bits of planting merely take their individual places in the picture of home and comfort. In short, in the hands of an artist the entire planting scheme is subordinated to the chief feature of the picture, which is the building, and not only does the scheme conform to the requirements of the building, its site, surroundings, and occupants but the material chosen to carry out the plan is characteristic of the style and material of this chief feature, so the finished work possesses the unity and harmony of composition and of color that is demanded in a picture.

ONE OF NEW FLAT EFFECTS IN HATS.

UNJUST TO CHICAGO'S WOMEN.

Mrs. Cornelia Baker Says Foreign Writers Have Been Most Severe in Their Portrayals.

"Chicago women have suffered more than any others at the hands of foreign writers," said Mrs. Cornelia Baker before the Sunday afternoon "open door" session of the Chicago Woman's club.

"Mr. Black has been the best to Chicago women of any of the foreign authors," said Mrs. Baker. "His portrayal of Carrie Hodson, a north side girl of the southern type of beauty, is a woman endowed with chivalric pride, Chicago's characteristic, on whom the destiny of Chicago weighed greatly."

The honor of describing the most lifelike American country girl, Mrs. Baker said, should be awarded to Mrs. Humphry Ward.

"The New York society girl," she said, "the belle of the far west, and the southern beauty, none has been so well and truly described as the life and character, as given us by Mrs. Ward, in Lucy Frost, the country girl."

Dr. H. H. McAuley Seriously Ill.

Dr. H. H. McAuley, who was a member of the surgeons' corps that went from Chicago to south Africa to serve in the Boer war, is dangerously ill in St. Joseph's hospital in Joliet, where he was operated on last Thursday for appendicitis. He did not rally after the operation and the attending physicians last night said his condition was extremely critical. Dr. McAuley went to Joliet two weeks ago and was taken ill soon afterward. He served two years in south Africa. He came to Chicago from Alabama ten years ago.

PNEUMONIA AND CONSUMPTION SHOW GAINS IN DEATH RECORD.

Increase in Number of Deaths from Two Diseases Reported by the City Health Department.

There have been registered a total of 679 deaths from consumption and of 1,455 deaths from pneumonia since the first of the year. During the corresponding period of 1902 the respective totals were 619 consumption and 1,095 pneumonia.

These figures, given out by the health department, show increases of 9.6 per cent of consumption mortality and 32.8 per cent of pneumonia mortality. And they also show that the excess of pneumonia mortality over consumption mortality—which was 76 per cent in 1902—has risen to 114 per cent this year.

The nineteen fewer deaths reported during the week are equivalent to a reduction of 2.98 per cent from the rate of the previous week, but the total, 612, represents an excess of 10 per cent over that of the corresponding week of last year. Indications from the laboratory and reports from physicians and from hospitals point to a general improvement of the public health, although the number of cases of the contagious diseases reported remains about stationary.

Influenza is still rampant and is largely responsible for the higher death rate of the winter. It continues to be reported as a fatal complication of consumption, Bright's disease, pneumonia, and heart disease among the aged, and of the acute contagious diseases of childhood. Measles and whooping cough are still prevalent and of unusual malignancy, while diphtheria and scarlet fever are decreasing.

Although eleven cases of smallpox were discovered during the week, the belief is expressed by the chief medical inspector, Dr. Spalding, that the "worst is over for this season." Of the twenty-four fatal cases during the year, nineteen were of children under 6 years of age, while there has not been a single fatal case for years among the vaccinated school population.

Statement of mortality for the week ended March 21, 1903, compared with the preceding week and with the corresponding week of 1902, death rates computed on estimated populations of 1,885,000 for 1903, 1,820,000 for 1902:

|---|---|---|---|
| Total deaths, all causes | 612 | 681 | 537 |
| Annual death rate per 1,000 | 16.92 | 17.44 | 15.38 |
| Principal causes of death— | | | |

STORY OF THE ROMANCE OF VIOLINIST KUBELIK.

Young Hungarian Dodges Admirers in Old and New Worlds and Is True to His Own Country.

VIENNA, March 1.—The news that Kubelik is engaged to wed the Countess Marianne von Csaky-Szell (pronounced Chaky-Shell) is the sensation in Hungarian social circles. She is 22 years of age, while Kubelik is a year older. She is the daughter of Wolfgang von Szell Bessenyei, who was president of the senate at Debrecin, in Hungary, and at the age of 18 was married to a Hungarian count. But her married life lasted a few weeks only, and soon afterwards she secured a divorce.

The youthful violinist had but recently leaped to fame. It was not until 1898 that he made his first appearance and scored an immediate triumph in Vienna. And it was the first time he played at Debrecin that he made the beautiful young countess' acquaintance.

It was a case of love at first sight, for Herr Kubelik has confessed that when he saw her he knew he had found his "ideal." But, determined not to be led away by the impulse of a moment, he delayed his proposal for three years. In England and America he had many offers of marriage, but he took no notice of them, and always hid himself when pursued by admirers. Friendly correspondence passed between him and the countess during the three years, and Herr Kubelik, with the honors of both hemispheres heaped upon him, returned to his native land to lay them at the feet of his "ideal."

On Feb. 27 he gave a concert in Vienna. The house was crowded, and every one noticed in one of the boxes a charming young woman with brown hair and brown eyes. She divided with Kubelik himself the attentions of the audience, so exquisite was her beauty. But none present, save Kueblik—not even his foster mother—had any idea that she was at that moment the betrothed of the young musician whose playing delighted the house. Shortly before the concert Kubelik had declared his love and had been accepted.

In addition to being one of the most lovely women of her country the young countess is possessed of so much wealth that Kubelik need never again play after he has married her; but he is quite content on continuing his professional career and will not be married for at least another year. Being a knight of St. Gregory he will have to get the pope's consent.

SAINTS' AND SINNERS' CALENDAR.

YE SAINT.

St. Turibus or Toribio.

JUST fifty years from the time Pizarro started—'twas St. John the Evangelist's day—on the expedition which ended in the conquest of Peru, there arrived in that country, as the second archiepiscopal ruler of the see of Lima, Dr. Toribio Mogrovejo. He had already held the high judicial post of president of Granada for five years and he had discharged his duties with such prudence and virtue that he was adjudged by Philip II. to be the best qualified to evangelize Peru. Religion entered into all the Spanish conquests of the new world; ecclesiastics attended Pizarro, performed mass and gave to the freebooting expedition the air of a crusade, as though these adventures were going into remote regions for no other reason than the extension of the faith. Churches were immediately built with the spoil secured and bands of Christians went to work to convert the Indian and to protect him from the exactions and cruelties of the conquerors. Dr. Toribio was the most devout and zealous of all these workers, although it was repugnant to him to go to so distant a diocese. On his arrival he began a visitation of the whole country extending along the coast for 400 miles. For seven years he went from place to place, often on foot, over the snows of the Andes or on the scorching sands of remote districts. He established churches, seminaries, and hospitals. The ecclesiastical seminary at Lima, founded by him in 1601, though moved to another city in 1859, still has a flourishing existence, educating youth for holy orders. He organized and reformed the whole diocese, corrected abuses among clergy and laity alike, and was especially zealous in behalf of the Indian. Though he never lost his baptismal innocence, he confessed and said mass every day, even on his journeys. He died March 23, 1606, in the odor of sanctity, and was finally canonized.

YE SINNER.

Francis Pizarro, Conqueror of Peru.

OF all the romantic and audacious adventures in the history of christendom that of Francis Pizarro is the most romantic and most utterly audacious. He braved fearful perils, endured untold sufferings and privations, overcame incredible obstacles with inflexible constancy of purpose, stimulated by his lust for gold. The achievements of Pizarro are not more excitingly phenomenal than his crimes were perfidious. There is no record of a more atrocious act of perfidy or a bolder example of audacious violence than that of the seizure of the great Inca Atahuallpa, the holding him for a ransom of gold amounting to over $15,000,000, and then the burning of the monarch at the stake after this was collected. With less than 200 men Pizarro, knowing to what he went, marched through narrow and high defiles into the interior of a country, faced a tented host of warriors gathered round their ruler, invited him to a conference, seized his person, slaying the nobles who tried to protect him, and massacreing his retinue. The inca's conduct was friendly throughout, yet he was treated with barbarity and fraud. One more such act and Pizarro sealed his own doom; he was killed in broad daylight in his governor's palace at Lima by the avengers of the death of his old comrade, Almegro. These two began life as deserted foundlings. Manhood found them knight errant adventurers in the new world, with Balboa looking first on the Pacific, and having as a helper in Peru, Hernando de Soto, discoverer of the Mississippi. With a silent partner they planned the conquest of Peru. After two unsuccessful attempts Pizarro went to Spain, secured audience and high titles and commissions from Charles V. Returning he made the most splendid discoveries ever made in the western world and might have carried out his many peaceful projects of building and general improvement and enterprise had his perfidy stopped short with the inca.

ANIMAL STORIES FOR THE LITTLE ONES.

THE SPARROW'S REVENGE.

ONE day the squirrel was feeling in a bad humor, which is not nice in little squirrels any more than it is in little boys and girls. And when the sparrow was trying to take a little nap on a twig of the tree the squirrel shook the limbs so hard that the poor sleepy head could get no rest.

"Please don't do that," pleaded the sparrow.

"O! it's lots of fun to keep you awake," replied the selfish little squirrel.

"I'll do anything for you if you will only let me sleep for an hour or two," said the sparrow.

"Well," said the squirrel, "I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll go down on the ground and you may toss me some nuts and I will store them away in the little hole in the ground in which I'm going to sleep this winter. If you do that I will let you sleep a little while."

The sparrow agreed to this and the squirrel hurried down the tree trunk, thinking that he was a smart fellow to make the sparrow do so much work for him. When he got on the ground he looked up and cried out:

"I'm ready."

The little sparrow looked down and answered:

"So am I."

Now it happened that the sparrow had a nest in the top of the tree and there were two little eggs in the nest. Instead of getting a nice nut to drop down to the squirrel Mr. Sparrow picked out the biggest egg in the nest.

"Throw them straight," cried the squirrel; "I'm going to catch them in my teeth," and he opened his mouth as wide as he could.

Then the sparrow dropped the egg.

O my! O me!

It struck right square in the squirrel's mouth and the shell was crushed into a thousand pieces. The white of the egg and the yolk of the egg splashed all over the squirrel from head to heel, and the worst of it was that his eyes were filled with the egg and he could no more see than a blind man.

"You dropped an egg on me," cried the squirrel in pain.

"Is that so?" asked the sparrow, as if he did not know it. "Well, I guess I'll do better this time. Hold your mouth open again. Here it comes."

And then the sparrow rolled the other egg over the edge of the nest. Smash! It went harder than the other one, right into the squirrel's eyes and nose and mouth and ears. And the squirrel turned and ran away into the grass and the sparrow laughed and said, "That serves you right for treating me badly." Then he closed his little eyes and took a nice long sleep.

The Misfortune of Mary

"I'm afraid, ma'am," said Mary,
"that these crackers are spoiled entirely."

"I thought I could run around to the grocery between the showers and get back without getting wet—but while he was getting the crackers weighed out and tied up it began to rain again."

"I started to run home and the string came off and the bag dropped and the crackers got broken and wet, and I guess I might as well throw them out."

Visitors to This Store Are Daily Becoming More Familiar with Its Homelike Features.

This is a truly interesting store—not only in the numerous appointments for the comfort, convenience, and the entertainment of its friends, but in the very close relationship existing between the purchasing public and its hundred or more sections, and its many floors from the Basement Salesroom to the twelfth, which are now so completely organized.

This inclination to make visitors feel thoroughly at home is not confined to any one portion of this store, it is general throughout every part of the house, in the least important Basement Section as well as in those of the greatest consequence on the upper floors. It is this homelike feeling which is making patrons feel that now more than ever before they have a common interest in this institution. But large as this store is—containing a million square feet of floor space—its extensiveness is its best recommendation to the shopper with limited time. The perfecting of business systems, the assemblage of relative sections, the completeness of the great stocks, and the readiness with which every part of this store is accessible—these are factors which make shopping here more of a pleasure and less of a task, which facilitate the making of purchases, and which save every possible moment of the purchaser's time.

Another point—The public generally is being more thoroughly convinced than ever that it pays to patronize this store, that much of the "shopping" is altogether of no avail, that here always and under all circumstances, "PRICES ARE ABSOLUTELY THE LOWEST."

The Employment of Scientific Methods in Corset Fitting.

Third Floor South Room.

In the new spring and summer gowns there is a greater dependence than ever upon corsets to produce the graceful curves and the unbroken bust and hip lines. Our expert corsetieres have made a close study of the most approved and most successful methods, and with the application of their invaluable practical knowledge they experience no great difficulty in the conformation of figures of every proportion to harmonize with fashion's latest ideas.

Their success lies in selecting from our very complete lines the proper model, and then scientifically conforming figures to the lines of the corset in such a manner that it is worn either sitting or standing with the greatest ease and comfort and without excess pressure at any particular point.

Where waists are to be lengthened, too prominent hips to be reduced, or busts or slender figures to be rounded into symmetrical contour, it is effected so readily and so skillfully that the success of the accomplishment is quite often a surprise even to those accustomed to made-to-measure corsets.

IMPORTANT EXHIBIT—Beginning this morning, in the French room, there will be such an exposition of high-class imported models as has never before been seen in Chicago. Our close relationship with the most authoritative designers of Paris enables us to display the latest ideas almost simultaneously with their introduction in the great fashion center. An extensive importation of these newest modes, which has just been received, will be the most interesting feature of this exhibit.

Muslin Curtains at Special Prices.

Low special prices will continue during this month on our entire stock of Muslin Curtains. Notwithstanding the recent very heavy sales, there still remains a large assortment of these dainty window hangings in pretty, tasteful patterns and colorings.

Special attention is called to the great variety of styles and attractive patterns in ecru madras curtains, which are being sold extremely low—pair, $2.85.

New Cretonnes.

For summer cottages and city homes, the utility of cretonnes is unsurpassed. Our stock includes many artistic patterns from France, England, Germany and America. Owing to the completeness of our large new stock just now, this is an especially opportune time to make selections. Sixth Floor South Room.

Concerning Window Shades.

Preparations have been made this season to do the largest Window Shade business in the history of this important section—already surpassing, by far, the largest Window Shade business done anywhere. An exceptional assortment of Opaques and Scotch Hollands makes the selection of quality and color an easy matter, and, with our splendid facilities for manufacturing, satisfaction is guaranteed. Sixth Floor Middle Room.

For residences and private apartments we show many beautiful patterns of lace trimmed and embroidered shades, and we execute special appliqued designs to order.

Architects, and owners of large office and apartment buildings, will find this section invariably prompt in submitting satisfactory samples and estimates upon request. Not for one month, but for every month in the year, we are prepared to prove by competitive estimates the claim that our prices are absolutely the lowest given anywhere.

Closing Sale Platinum Photographs.

This is a very unusual opportunity, as these are being closed out at a mere fraction of their real worth. The selection comprises a wide range of classic and modern subjects by famous artists, made on the finest quality of platinum paper, each 5c, 10c and 15c.

Sixth Floor North Room.
